HARBURGER, SHERIFF, ON TAMMANY TICKET

H. D. Hotchkiss Named for Justice Along with Pendleton, Cohalan, and Scott.

FOWLER FOR SURROGATE

Murphy Changes Slate to Make It Stronger After Levy Law Decision Made Fusion Possible.

The New York Democratic County Convention met last night and made these nominations:

For Supreme Court Justice—HENRY D. HOTCHKISS, DANIEL F. COHALAN, FRANCIS K. PENDLETON, and FRANCIS M. SCOTT.
For Surrogate—ROBERT L. FOWLER.
For Sheriff—JULIUS HARBURGER.

The convention was held in Tammany Hall, and ran with the smoothness for which the Tammany organization is famous. After the slate had been made up in the office of Charles F. Murphy, everything was over but the mere nominating, and this was done in Tammany's best style without a hitch or any loss of time.

The decision of the Supreme Court declaring unconstitutional that part of the Levy election law upon which Tammany had depended to head off fusion upset Murphy's arrangements late in the afternoon, and two candidates who had been selected were hastily withdrawn and two others substituted. Henry D. Hotchkiss, a lawyer of standing and a member of the Character Committee of the Bar Association, was substituted in place of Murphy's first selection, in order to add tone and dignity to the Tammany judicial slate, and Christy D. Sullivan, who had pleaded for the nomination for Sheriff, had to give way to Julius Harburger, Deputy State Controller.

The rest of the slate stood as it was made up several days ago with Justices Daniel F. Cohalan, whom Gov. Dix appointed to succeed United States Senator O'Gorman; Justice Francis K. Pendleton, who was appointed to succeed the late Justice Whitney, and Justice Francis M. Scott, who was nominated by Tammany fourteen years ago. Robert Ludlow Fowler, who was appointed to succeed the late Surrogate Thomas, got the nomination against Murphy's will, because the Tammany leader did not want to jeopardize the Shrievalty by stirring up unnecessary opposition.

Tammany's judicial ticket has the indorsement of the Bar Association. Thomas J. Smith, Secretary of Tammany Hall, and District Leader Thomas F. McAvoy, Chairman of the Executive Committee of Tammany, representing the organization, went to the office of William D. Guthrie, at 44 Wall Street, yesterday afternoon, and there met Morgan J. O'Brien and Charles Burlinhame, and a committee from the Bar Association, and Alton B. Parker, President of the County Lawyers' Association. The judiciary candidates were talked over and it was announced that the committees from the two organizations of lawyers had expressed themselves as satisfied with the names proposed.

Before that ten district leaders had met in a room off Murphy's office and agreed upon the judicial slate. The name of Robert L. Luce was down for the nomination to fill the vacancy declared to exist by Gov. Dix when he signed the Sullivan bill creating two new Justices, one to be elected this Fall and the other next year.

Upset by Levy Law Decision.

Then came the news of the Levy law decision. Murphy was plainly worried and sought counsel among his leaders. Several new names were proposed, and finally some one hit upon that of Mr. Hotchkiss. The committee which made the final selection was made up of District Leaders James J. Hagan, Michael J. Cruise, Thomas F. McAvoy, Tom Foley, Solomon Goldenkranz, George L. Donnellan, John J. Dietz, Michael J. Garvin, William N. Shannon, and Frank J. Goodwin.

When word was received that the bar associations approved of the selections, Murphy turned his attention to the troublesome question of a candidate for Sheriff. Three names were on the list—Christy Sullivan, Peter J. Dooling, former County Clerk and leader of the Ninth District, and Frank J. Goodwin, leader of the Seventh. Sullivan made a strong plea, saying that he had spent a large sum of money in an ineffectual effort to get elected two years ago, and that the nomination should go to him by right. Murphy arbitrarily told him that it would be impossible, and then he had a talk with Dooling. Dooling went by the board also. Goodwin was as quickly disposed of, when Murphy's advisers told him that the nomination should go to a more popular man, and one with whom the fusionists would not be able to find so much fault. About 8 o'clock Harburger's name was decided upon.

The convention was called to order by Thomas F. McAvoy. Congressman Henry M. Goldfogle was made Temporary Chairman, and Thomas Smith Temporary Secretary. Both officers were made permanent, and the work of nominating was begun.

The convention broke loose at the name of the Deputy State Controller, especially when the speaker called the candidate "an honest, capable, and unterrified little Democrat."

Assemblyman James A. Foley, Chairman of the Joint Cities Committee, which framed the Gaynor-Murphy charter, introduced a resolution calling for the indorsement of the platform adopted by the State Convention last year. The resolution said further:

> We congratulate the Democracy of the State upon the excellent record made by a Democratic Governor and a Democratic Legislature, who labored diligently and effectively to fulfill all the promises made to the people in that platform. Each and every pledge made therein has been redeemed. State-wide election reform, income tax, direct election by the people of United States Senators, parcels post extension, tax reform, canal and water front improvements, direct primaries, provision for barge canal terminals, a rational and equitable revision of the inheritance tax law, together with legislation safeguarding the public health and laws effecting capital and labor and the welfare of all classes of the people have been enacted.
>
> These important reforms show not only the efficiency and devotion to the public interests of Gov. John A. Dix and a Democratic Legislature, but they also give gratifying evidence of the capacity of the Democratic Party to provide honest and able officials for the administration of public affairs.
>
> We rejoice with the Democracy of the Nation in the splendid and substantial success attained by a Democratic Congress in striving to fulfill the promises made to the people in the Democratic National platform by passing laws designed for a downward revision of the tariff. The Democratic majority in the House of Representatives has indeed done much to stimulate Democratic hope and expectation and to encourage Democratic effort in 1912.
>
> Democratic success in the Nation means wise and safe Constitutional Government, peace at home and abroad, honest public service, economy in public expenses, reduction in the unreasonable and high cost of living, thereby contributing to general prosperity and happiness, because Democracy has always opposed trusts by whomsoever formed, especially those organized to limit production and advance prices against the welfare of the people.

There was only mild cheering at the mention of Gov. Dix, and after the resolution was adopted the crowded hall was soon emptied.

DIES FLEEING FROM TENANTS

Tenement Owner Had Evicted a Dying Consumptive.

David Laskowitz, a man of property in Newark, went down into Charlton Street on Monday night to collect his rents. It was his first visit there since Friday, when he ordered the eviction of Samuel Wanger from one of his tenements. The man was dying of tuberculosis, and he had a wife and two little babies, but he was $20 behind in the rent, and business is business. Louis Karowitz managed to find room in his own quarters for all the Wangers, and there, six hours later, the sick man died. Karowitz still shelters the widow and babies.

So it was a bitter neighborhood that Laskowitz found when he went there to get what was due him. He had no more than shown himself in Charlton Street than out of the tenements swarmed the women who knew the Wanger story. They demanded that he give aid to the children and widow of the dead man. There were open threats of what they were going to do to Laskowitz. He tried to slip quietly away.

"Murderer!" the women screamed. "Bloodsucker! Bloodsucker!"

The streets were filled with their cries. The landlord stepped hastily into a store that occupied the ground floor of one of his houses, and through it made his way to Prince Street. He had made two blocks of his retreat when passersby saw him sit down on a doorstep and press his hands to his heart. Then he toppled over on to the sidewalk. A negro picked him up, but by the time a doctor got there he was dead.

It was reported that Laskowitz died of heart disease, the attack having been brought on by the excitement to which he had just been subjected. The women of Charlton Street say they know better. He had always stood high among the people of his race. He was always considered charitable.

HIGHEST-PRICED NEWSPAPER

Journal International Planned in Paris to Cost 10 Cents.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, Oct. 10.—A scheme is on foot to start in Paris the highest priced daily newspaper of the present day. It is to be called Le Journal International, to be published in French, to be run in the American style, to be edited by an American journalist, Theodore Stanton, and to be sold at 10 cents a copy.

The object of the publication is to regard political affairs from a strictly international standpoint, and for that purpose an international advisory editorial board is to meet once a year to consider the policy of the journal. Lord Weardale for Great Britain, George Brandes for Denmark, Count Albert Apponyi for Hungary, and Baroness von Suttner for Austria are members of the board.

Large premises have been taken in Paris, and it is stated the newspaper will be started in February.

TWO NEGROES LYNCHED.

Taken from Officials by Southern Mobs—Coatesville Suspect Caught.

GREENVILLE, S. C., Oct. 10.—The negro who attacked an eleven-year-old girl at Honoa Path this morning was taken from the Greenville Sheriff by a posse near here this evening and lynched.

MACON, Ga., Oct. 10.—It was learned to-day that Andrew Chapman, a negro, was taken from Bailiff W. T. Cowen and hanged by a mob of forty masked men on Saturday night near Irwinton, Wilkinson County, Ga. The negro had just been held for the Grand Jury on a charge of attempted assault on a well-known young white woman.

COATESVILLE, Penn., Oct. 10.—Thomas Harmon, a negro about 36 years of age, was arrested by two State Constables near Kennet Square to-night on suspicion of being the man who attacked Amy McElhaney, the fifteen-year-old daughter of William H. McElhaney, here yesterday.

He was taken to West Chester and put in the county jail before any one learned of the arrest, and there is no danger of a lynching. When the news was made known in Coatesville there was great excitement. He admitted being in the vicinity of the McElhaney home last Sunday.

No attempt was made to-night to have the McElhaney girl go to West Chester, but if she is able she will be taken to the jail to-morrow morning to try to identify the man.

WEST CHESTER, Penn., Oct. 10.—Efforts of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania to obtain a conviction in connection with the burning to death of Zach Walker, the negro, at Coatesville failed again to-day, when a jury acquitted Oscar Lampey, who was charged with being a member of the mob that lynched Walker. Lampey is the fifth defendant to be freed of a murder charge in connection with the lynching.

SET FREE TO SEE DYING WIFE.

Bonforte Released Temporarily from Blackwell's Island to Go to Her.

Paul Bonforte, an importer of Italian products, sentenced to Blackwell's Island for six months for defrauding the Government, who has still nine days of his term to serve, drove up to his home at 626 Fortieth Street, Brooklyn, in a taxicab yesterday afternoon and ran to his wife's room. He threw himself on his knees beside her bed and gave thanks that he had arrived in time to see her alive, for Mrs. Bonforte is dying, the doctors say, exhausted by a nervous breakdown by his arrest and conviction.

Until yesterday afternoon Bonforte was a prisoner on the island. Then his lawyer, Philip Saitta, went before Judge Holt in the United States District Court and got a habeas corpus writ releasing him from prison. The importer was taken before Judge Holt and the story of his wife's illness was recited. United States District Attorney Wise offered no objection to the temporary release of Bonforte, and the importer was freed under $500 bail. He hurried to his Brooklyn home.

There he said last night that his wife could live only a short time, and was thankful beyond words for the opportunity to see her alive.

Bonforte must appear to-day before Judge Holt, when he may get an extension of his liberty. However, he must eventually serve the nine days that remain of his prison term.

Sues Pullman Co. for Gastritis Attack.

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., Oct. 10.—Della Valeri filed a summons and complaint in the Westchester County Clerk's office at White Plains to-day in which she asks for $5,000 damages against the Pullman Company. She alleges that she contracted chronic gastritis by eating in a dining car. The complaint gives her occupation as a "vocalist of some note." Miss Valeri complains that on Aug. 13, 1910, she entered a dining car and had clam broth, tomatoes, meat, and other things for dinner. Immediately afterward she became very ill.

LEVY LAW ILLEGAL IN BLOCKING FUSION

Clause Restricting Candidate's Name to One Column on Ballot Annulled by Court of Appeals.

PERSONAL REGISTRATION, TOO

Up-State Voters Cannot Be Discriminated Against, Says Judge Cullen—Still Comfort for Tammany.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Oct. 10.—No longer will the Levy election law stand in the way of fusion against Tammany Hall in New York City. In a unanimous decision handed down to-day the Court of Appeals declared unconstitutional the provision in the Levy law which limits the appearance of the name of any candidate—no matter by how many organizations he has been nominated—to one column on the official ballot.

In another decision handed down the provision requiring voters in rural sections of the State to register by personal appearance before the rural boards of registry is set aside as contrary to the rights guaranteed such electors under the constitution. This decision also was unanimous.

While the Levy bill to "reform the election law" along Tammany's own lines was pending before the Legislature, opponents of that measure declared in debate and elsewhere that the bill had been written around these two provisions. The first, they pointed out, had been conceived with a view of placing obstacles in the way of fusion—which Tammany Hall has such good reason to fear—in New York City. The second provision was framed, it was declared, for the purpose of inflicting hardship on electors in the heavily Republican sections up State, where registry places are few and far between and the distances are great, and thereby curtailing the up-State vote. With the two provisions excluded, there is still something left in the new law which Tammany cares a great deal about.

The decision restoring to a candidate the right of having his name appear in more than one place on the official ballot was made in the case brought by John J. Hopper, Chairman of the New York County Independence League Committee, against the Board of Elections in New York. Mr. Hopper desired that the board be compelled by mandamus to prepare the official ballots under the old law, not under the Levy law. Justice Gavegan of the Supreme Court of New York held with Mr. Hopper, but his decision was reversed by the Appellate division. The finding of that tribunal now has been upset by the ruling of the highest court in the State.

Chief Judge Cullen wrote the decision in the Hopper case, all his colleagues concurring. The contention of the relator in the case was that the provision in question constituted a discrimination against certain electors in making it more difficult for them to vote than it was for other electors. Judge Cullen in his decision says in part:

Voters Have Equal Rights.

"Constitutional provisions imply that every elector should have the right to vote with equal facility to other voters, or, to speak more accurately, without undue discrimination against him as to the manner of casting his vote.

"Doubtless the Constitution of this State does not guarantee to each voter the right to express his will by a single mark, or in any other particular manner, but, in our opinion, the Constitution, by providing that certain officers shall be chosen by the electors, does guarantee that each voter shall have the same facilities as any other voter in expressing his will at the ballot box, so far as practicable. Any other principle, in our opinion, would be destructive of fair elections."

Judge Cullen points out that while natural impediments, such as sickness, might militate against this equal privilege, these are natural impediments which would affect one party about as much as it would the other, so that the result would be offset.

Judge Cullen continues:

"We therefore hold the statutory provisions challenged to be unconstitutional because they unnecessarily and substantially discriminate between electors in the opportunities and facilities afforded for voting for candidates of their choice. If the discrimination were trivial our decision would be difficult, but we know from the election litigations that have come before us that, the discrimination here is of a very substantial character, and where voting machines are used the difficulty of voting a split ticket is still greater than where voting is by ballot."

The decision bearing on personal registration was in the case of mandamus proceedings brought against the election officials in the town of Rutland, Jefferson County, by Peter W. Fraser and Reuben Ladd, both electors. The decision was written by Judge Vann, with the other Judges concurring.

Still Comfort for Tammany.

While the decision handed down to-day takes out of the Levy law the provisions dearest to Tammany's heart, there is still some comfort left for Tammany in the law as it stands. First of all, there is a great deal of patronage, the bill providing for bi-partisan Election Boards of two or four members in all counties of the State. In the second place, the authority of the State Superintendent of Elections for the metropolitan district has been extended to the entire State, a Board of three members having been substituted for the single Superintendent of Republican days. In this wider supervision there are provided places for a horde of deputies about election time, and, in addition, of course, the methods of supervision to guard against fraudulent voting, which Tammany has complained of as so burdensome in years passed, will be inflicted under the Levy law with quite as much rigor on the up-State districts, where the Republicans have been in the majority.

While the decision in the Hopper case removes the chief obstacle to fusion, there still remain provisions which will prove troublesome to independent candidates in New York City. In the first place, petitions can be signed by only enrolled voters and as a result cannot be completed until after the last registration day, which falls on a Saturday, the law providing that the petitions must be filed the following Monday, thus giving only one day, and that a Sunday, in which to complete the filling out of petitions.

There is another feature, too, which will fall with rigor on candidates nominated by petition. Under the Levy law there must be twenty signatures on each sheet of a petition. The law provides that a petition shall be declared void by the Board of Elections if 5 per cent. of the signatures should be shown to have been improperly obtained. That will mean that one signature on a sheet not properly there would make it necessary for the board to reject all the other nineteen signatures.

Under the old system, it was left to the courts to pass on questions arising regarding the validity of such signatures. Not only has this power been transferred to a political board, but the law provides that no evidence but the statement of the complainant that the signature has not been properly obtained shall be sufficient evidence to establish that as a fact. CARNEGIE SWEARS TO OBEY GEORGE V.

Takes Oath in Act of Accepting the Freedom of the King's City of St. Albans.

AMERICANS SHOW DISMAY

Chicago Man Interrupts Ceremony to Sell Ironmaster Typewriter—Carnegie Blames Italy for War.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ST. ALBANS, Oct. 10.—Andrew Carnegie, who will sail for America on the Celtic Thursday, received to-day the honorary freedom of the ancient City of St. Albans, making the fifty-first of such honors received by him in this country. The occasion was the opening of the public library erected by Mr. Carnegie's generosity.

Mr. Carnegie was accompanied by Ambassador and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid. The Americans present stood aghast as the ironmaster, following the ancient custom of the city, repeated this oath after the Mayor:

"I solemnly swear to be faithful and true, and to obey our sovereign Lord King George the Fifth. I swear to uphold the rights and laws of the city."

Astonishment was turned to amusement, however, when, as Mr. Carnegie with uplifted hand was accepting the casket containing documentary evidence of his admission as an honorary freeman of St. Albans, a hustling Chicago business man present broke through the ranks of councilors in their robes and chains, seized Mr. Carnegie's hand, and began explaining the advantages of a new typewriter he had invented, reading letters from prominent Americans, and showing drawings and testimonials. Mr. Carnegie, dazed by the intruder's torrent of words, was rescued by the Ambassador and taken off to luncheon. There the new citizen of St. Albans dilated on the value of halfpenny newspapers to the masses of the English-speaking public.

Mr. Carnegie later motored to Gorhamby Park, the estate of the Earl of Verulam, to see the ruins of Bacon's house. When the correspondent of THE NEW YORK TIMES asked Mr. Carnegie what he thought of the war between Turkey and Italy, he said:

"Fair Italia is a favorite among the nations, as we all can testify, but we can't but feel that she occupies a false position in issuing her ultimatum when The Hague Conference provides that nations before engaging in hostilities should offer arbitration."

STUDENTS LIKE THE TIMES.

Ninety Girls of Smith College Subscribe in One Day.

Special to The New York Times.

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Oct. 10.—THE NEW YORK TIMES is the favorite newspaper of Smith College students. This is shown by the forwarding of ninety subscriptions to THE TIMES from Smith College girls in a single day. Inquiry was made of President M. L. Burton of Smith College, himself a warm admirer of THE TIMES, as to the source of the subscriptions.

"It is a pleasure to give THE TIMES the information it seeks," said Dr. Burton. "Prof. C. F. Emerick of the department of economics requires each student in a class of 125, which is studying recent economic changes, to subscribe for a newspaper for three months. Prof. Emerick mentioned several newspapers which would be satisfactory, among them THE NEW YORK TIMES. This may account for the ninety subscriptions."

As some of the members of the class in economics obtain their daily papers at newsrooms, it is probable that fully 100 of the 125 young women in Prof. Emerick's class are reading THE TIMES as a means of instruction.

GATUN DAM SLIDES ALARM PANAMA

Earth Around the Great Locks Has Shifted Enough to Delay Canal Work.

OFFICERS DENY DANGER

Admit Movements Going on for a Year Due to Nature of Soil Above Lock's Foundation.

Special to The New York Times.

COLON, Panama, Oct. 10.—While the American public is rejoicing in the prediction of President Taft that the Panama Canal will be open in July, 1913, alarm has been occasioned here by the fact that earth around the great Gatun lock is sliding. So far the slide has not occasioned any great amount of damage, but many persons in Colon fear danger for this city. The Canal Commission admits that the slides have caused four months' delay in the construction of the cofferdam, but the engineers scout the theory of grave danger on the great Government works.

It has long been a moot point upon the Isthmus as to whether the ground under the Gatun dam is strong enough to sustain the tremendous weight put upon it, and whether the dam itself will be powerful enough to withstand the pressure of a lake 110 square miles in extent and 85 feet deep, and what would happen to Colon should one or the other give way. News of the floods in Pennsylvania and Wisconsin serve to increase local fears.

The official organ of the Canal Commission prints the following:

"Part of the earth bank behind the east wall of the lower lock at Gatun sank on the morning of Sept. 29, and rose a few feet away. The movement apparently was caused by the rock fill which carries the tracks on which the cableway towers run, and only a few hours before the sinking occurred, one of the towers was on the section which fell.

"The lock wall has been constructed at this point to a sufficient height to keep the moving earth from sliding into the lock chamber and no difficulty was experienced from this source, but the work of repairing the track fall took four days, and the concrete laying in the lower locks was delayed by that much. Only a week before, a similar sinking under the cable-way tracks occurred on the west side of the locks.

"These movements of the earth at the lower locks began above a year ago. They are due entirely to the nature of the soil which overlies the firmer earth and rocks upon which the locks are founded. It is singularly lacking in coherency and moves on a very flat slope. As a result, the excavation in the lower locks was continually hampered by sections of the banks falling or sliding into the pit. The total amount of material that has moved in this manner is probably not over fifty thousand cubic yards, yet it has retarded excavation and, consequently, the laying of concrete.

"The most serious consequence has been that it has caused a four-month delay in the completion of the cofferdam across the lower end of the locks, behind which suction dredges are to excavate for the north forebay and the wing wall. The piers for this bulkhead are now nearing completion. In the laying of concrete the slides have had the effect of limiting the space in which the cableways can operate over the lock chamber and thus of restricting the amount that can be placed.

"It was believed that when the walls were completed to a height to keep the banks from sliding into the lock chamber, all the trouble would be past, but the movement of the light soil under the fills necessary for the cable-way tower tracks has introduced a new difficulty which, although not serious, may continue to retard the work in the lower locks."

LAURIER SLIGHTED.

Not Invited Until Last Moment to Duke of Connaught's Reception.

Special to The New York Times.

OTTAWA, Ontario, Oct. 10.—Considerable comment has been stirred up here through a regrettable incident in connection with the ceremonies attendant to the reception of the Duke of Connaught. In some seemingly unaccountable manner, the names of Sir Wilfrid and Lady Laurier were omitted from the official list of those invited to meet the Duke and Duchess upon their arrival at Quebec on Friday.

This apparent slight to the former Premier was brought to the attention of Mr. Borden, the new Premier, who at once had invitations dispatched to Sir Wilfrid and Lady Laurier, and also issued orders that the Government private car should be placed at their disposal for the trip. Sir Wilfrid, however, has not yet accepted the invitation, and it is almost definitely certain that he will not be present at or take part in the reception to the new Governor General.

Prominent Conservatives as well as Liberals have severely criticised what they consider a deliberate insult or unprecedented ignorance on the part of those responsible for the issuing of the invitations.

With every outward evidence of general regret Ottawa bade farewell this afternoon to Earl Grey, the departing Governor General, and his family. The farewell was national in scope, for among the thousands who were present at the station when the train pulled out were Premier Borden with every member of his Cabinet, the Judges of Canada's Supreme Court, and the members of the old Laurier Cabinet. Prominent among the number were W. S. Fielding and Mrs. Fielding. Lady Laurier presented a large bouquet to Earl Grey. As the train pulled out the big crowd sang "Auld Lang Syne."

MONTCLAIR, N. J., Oct. 10.—Supt. McArthur of the Montclair carhouse of the Public Service Railway was called on the telephone about noon to-day and a woman's voice asked:

"Is this the carhouse?"

On being answered in the affirmative, the voice said, "A great accident has happened."

"On which line?" asked the Superintendent.

"An aged woman has just stepped on a needle and it has broken in her foot. She is suffering great pain and wishes to know if she was conveyed to the carhouse in a cab if you would allow her to place her foot on a dynamo to draw the needle out."

McArthur thought the experiment would be dangerous and advised the calling of a physician.

WOMEN LOSE IN CALIFORNIA.

Early Returns Indicate Defeat of Equal Suffrage—Recall Wins.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 10.—With returns from little more than one-tenth of the State at hand, the indications at 9 o'clock to-night were that California to-day had refused to grand equal suffrage to women, but had by an emphatic vote made the initiative and referendum and the recall, the latter including the judiciary, part of its organic laws.

Twenty-three proposed amendments to the Constitution of the Commonwealth were voted on to-day. Of these the three mentioned and the proposal to make the State Railroad Commission an appointive body, and empowering the Legislature to enlarge the powers of the board, overshadowed the rest in public interest. The last, according to early returns, had been carried. A two-thirds vote was necessary.

The railroad commission amendments were favored by 8,170 to 4,683.

Southern California voted heavily in favor of woman suffrage probably by at least 8,000. But in San Francisco in other bay counties and in the Northern citrus belt, a majority was polled against the proposed amendment.

Today's election carried to a conclusion the campaign for reform measures started by Gov. Hiram Johnson and the last Legislature, which was overwhelmingly progressive Republican.

Return from 384 out of 3,128 precincts in California give for suffrage 8,635; against, $8,908.

For the initiative and referendum, 10,810; against, 3,610.

For the recall, 11,280; against, 3,487.

A two-thirds' majority is required for the votes on these issues to be effective.

'TOBACCO-SMOKING FEMALES'

Aldermen Moved to Invoke the Corporation Counsel Against Them.

The Aldermen intend to find out all about the rumors that women smoke in public places in the city, and they are going to stop it if they have to appeal to the Legislature. At yesterday's meeting Alderman Dowling, majority leader, offered this resolution:

> Resolved, That the Corporation Counsel be and he is hereby requested to advise this board, at his earliest convenience, as to its power to prohibit tobacco smoking by females in public places, by legislative enactment.

It was adopted unanimously.

Friends Expect Banker to Be Freed Soon—Department of Justice Silent.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The friends of John R. Walsh, former Chicago banker, who is serving a five-year term in the Federal penitentiary at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., firmly believe that he will be pardoned within twenty-four hours. Many inquiries at the Department of Justice fail to obtain any confirmation or denial of the report.

It is stated that Attorney General Wickersham has approved the findings of the Parole Board, which are that the banker, enfeebled by age, should be released now that he has served one-third of his sentence.

MAYOR GUILTY OF ARSON.

Wounded Burglar Confessed and Implicated Dr. Dumas in Plot.

BEMIDJI, Minn., Oct. 10.—Dr. D. F. Dumas, Mayor of Cass Lake, was found guilty of arson in the third degree here last night. Dr. Dumas was charged with having attempted with Mike Davis and Martin Behan to burn and rob the Post Office at Puposky, Minn., on the morning of June 17 last, when Behan was wounded and Davis escaped after a fight with a posse. Behan's confession implicated Davis.

State officers charged that Dumas was at the head of a gang of crooks who robbed safes and burned buildings for the insurance.

Pleads Not Guilty to Accepting Rebates in Lockport Indictment.

LOCKPORT, N. Y., Oct. 10.—In the United States Circuit Court here to-day the Standard Oil Company, through counsel, pleaded not guilty to an indictment containing 143 counts, charging the company with violating the Elkins anti-trust law in accepting rebates on shipments of oil from Olean, N. Y., to Burlington and Rutland, Vt.

United States Attorney O'Brien gave notice that he would call the case for trial at the November term of the court in Buffalo.

Postmaster Morgan was somewhat disappointed yesterday at the result of the first day's operation of the nine branches of the Postal Savings Bank opened on Monday. In the nine branches there were only 151 depositors, and they put away between them $2,868. Station Y, Eighty-sixth Street and Third Avenue, had the smallest number of depositors, seven, who put in $110, and the largest number was at Station W, in West Eighty-first Street, where twenty-one accounts were opened amounting to $358. At the Times Square branch in Thirty-ninth Street thirteen persons deposited $285.

Turks Outside Tripoli Said to Be Without Supplies—Turkey to Close All Italian Establishments.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, Wednesday, Oct. 11.—Another stage in the Turkish-Italian war has been reached with the sailing from Italian ports of an expeditionary force for the occupation of Tripoli.

One Rome dispatch states that the first contingent of troops destined for this purpose sailed as long ago as Oct. 5, and effected a landing at Tobruk, a splendid natural harbor in Cyrenaica, which might easily be transformed into a strong naval base dominating the whole Eastern Mediterranean. Tobruk is a gateway to the most fertile portion of Tripoli, the part of the country which is most likely to be useful to Italy for colonization purposes. It is on the northeastern coast, about 600 miles east of the City of Tripoli, and only seventy-five miles west of the frontier of Egypt.

Though this first contingent of the expeditionary force is described as consisting of infantry, artillery, and engineers, it was not of great strength, and is probably only intended to be utilized in preparing the ground for a disembarkation in case no resistance is offered by the Turks.

The occupation of Tobruk, which on some maps is called Marsa-Tobruk, is commended as an excellent piece of strategy. The transports conveying the occupying force sailed from Naples last Thursday night without any news of their departure leaking out. Their destination, even in Italy, was entirely unsuspected. Their landing was covered by the squadron under Rear Admiral Aubrey, which will now be set free for other covering operations.

King Victor Emmanuel's visit to Naples, which was announced in advance to all the world for yesterday, was evidently used to mask the actual departure of a large number of transports containing, according to various estimates, from 12,000 to 18,000 men, the first section of the main expeditionary army.

It is believed that a fleet of transports numbering upward of sixty vessels is to rendezvous in Sicilian waters, probably near Augusta, where they will be taken in convoy by battleships and cruisers.

Landing at Tripoli To-morrow.

The strict censorship maintained by the Italian authorities leaves the exact date of the departure of the main body of the expeditionary army doubtful, but it is certain that a large number of transports loaded with troops are already on the way to Tripoli, where the troops are expected to-morrow.

The reports of the occupation of Tobruk caused great gratification at Rome, as its possession is regarded as an auspicious preliminary to the seizure of the whole of Tripoli and Cyrenaica. The 1,500 men disembarked there have put the town into a state of defense. The Turkish garrison retired under the fire of the Italian warships' guns, and though for a time the Turks kept up a desultory fusillade from the neighboring heights, the Italians' response was too hot for them, and they withdrew to the interior.

No confirmation from other sources has been received of a German report of an Italian reverse in the neighborhood of Tripoli, and the conditions existing there do not point to the possibility of any reverse of great consequence. On the other hand, other dispatches describe ineffective attempts on the part of the Turks to recapture Tripoli. Last Sunday the Turks made a night attack on the Italian advanced posts, but made no headway, and at dawn retired to the interior with some losses. The Italians are said to have had no dead. The relatively small garrison occupying Tripoli was supported by heavy firing from the warships.

The Fighting at Tripoli.

A telegram from Tripoli to The Daily Mail, dated yesterday, says:

"At 3:30 this morning Turkish horsemen attempted to attack the Italian advance posts at Boumliana Springs. They were driven back by Italian sailors, and fled, leaving their arms and ammunition on the ground.

"Preparations for the landing of the expeditionary corps, which will arrive the day after to-morrow, are almost complete. The town is quiet and the inhabitants welcomed the Italians with joy.

"The Italian Governor has suspended many taxes and reduced the customs duties. The police service is already admirably organized. Patrols of sailors go the rounds, and 200 Arab gendarmes have been enrolled. All Ottoman subjects of the Turkish race will be expelled from the town at the end of a week from to-day.

"Four thousand Turkish soldiers are scattered among the desert oases behind the town. Desertions from their ranks are frequent. All the Arab reserves called up by the Turks have gone back to their homes.

"The Turks appear to be completely demoralized, and are said to be short of food and to be living on half rations."

A Tripoli dispatch published by The Daily Express says:

"The Boumiliana fortification was attacked at 2 this morning with the object of cutting the aqueduct furnishing Tripoli with drinking water. The earthworks were held by 250 Italian marines under the command of Major Cagni. After twenty minutes' heavy firing the Ottoman troops were repulsed.

"It happened that I was the first to witness the fight at Boumiliana. I was placed behind the entrenchments which supported the hottest part of the firing.

"It had been expected that the Turks would attack the city, and the guards had been doubled at the wells which supply the city with water. The troops were commanded personally by Major Cagni, the hero of the north pole expedition.

Two Attacks Repulsed.

"Tripoli is still held by the Italian marines. Two attacks by Turkish troops were repulsed last night. The first, which I have just mentioned, was without result. The second took place about 3 o'clock, when sixty-two men who had left their horses with the rear guard advanced within forty yards of the Boumiliana earthworks. They were obliged to leave a number of wounded on the field.

"The Italians had noticed figures on the dunes which separate the oasis from the desert, and which are 600 yards distant from the Italian intrenchments. These earthworks sheltered 250 Italian marines, and only 100 men came to reinforce them. The moon was now full and threw a silvery light upon the expanse of sand. One could distinctly see the Turks advance, prudently and slowly utilizing as cover the small depressions which furrow the approach to the desert.

"Major Cagni had ordered his force to allow the Turks to advance to within 200 yards. There was absolute silence. When the Ottoman soldiers had deployed their entire line of skirmishers they dashed forward, but were stopped by heavy fire, direct and admirably regulated, which gave an impression of forces much superior to those which were really engaged.

"The Turks were flung back into the sands. For five or six minutes small blue flames from their Mausers were seen, but immediately afterward they fled in disorder behind the dunes. The guns of the Carlo Alberto and the Sicilia, which could now be used without danger to the Italians, began to thunder, following up with their missiles the flight of the retreating Turks.

"I was able to cross the field of operations, and advanced to 100 yards from the entrenchments. Rifles and articles of equipment were lying all about. I saw a wounded man begging for a surgeon's aid. A dead man was lying at the bottom of a hole which he had scraped out himself to obtain cover.

"There were no casualties among the Italians. On the battlefield three other bodies were found. An Arab spy who was captured asserts that the Turks carried off their wounded."

LONDON, Wednesday, Oct. 11.—A dispatch to a London news agency from Pera says that the Turkish torpedo boat Tocad, Hamid-Abad, Alpagut, and Antalia, while returning from the Ionian Sea were sighted by an Italian squadron, near Mitylene on Sunday.

A smart engagement followed and three of the torpedo boats were severely damaged and sank. The fourth escaped by hoisting a foreign flag.

A news dispatch from Rome says that the Turkish soldiers who retreated to the interior when Tripoli was bombarded have been obliged to open negotiations for the surrender owing to the failure of their supplies.

A telegram to The Morning Post from Tripoli, dated yesterday, reports that the Turkish Army, under Munhir Pasha, is in a pitiable state from lack of provisions and water and that Munhir Pasha has opened negotiations with the Italian Commandant.

The Times's correspondent at Tripoli in a dispatch dated Oct. 8 describes the Turkish Army as being in an unenviable plight and Munhir Pasha as a "dear old gentleman, incapable of independent action without instructions from Stamboul."

"He has been marching to and fro in the desert," continues the correspondent, "wanting to attack the Italians, but lacking backbone to carry through his splendid intentions. Finally, he halted about a day's march outside the town while the baggage and camels were sent unescorted into the interior. Realizing that the Turkish régime was ended and that they were not likely to get their pay, the camel men decamped with the camels and loads.

"Nearly all the local conscripts, as well as the Arabs wh owere armed by the local authorities, deserted, and Munhir Pasha in despair opened negotiations with the Italian commander. As the Turks left both their artillery and their wives in Tripoli, there can never be any intention of serious resistance. The story is one that should whiten Shefket Pasha's hairs with grief."

Troops Landed at Tobruk.

ROME, Oct. 10.—The following semi-official announcement was made this afternoon:

> The first contingent of the Army Corps of Occupation, composed of infantry, artillery, and one company of engineers, left Naples on the night of the 5th inst., and debarked to-day at Tobruk. They established a post for defense, after which the troops reembarked.

It is presumed that this means that after disembarking in force most of the troops again embarked, leaving a sufficient garrison to protect that point, while the rest of the soldiers proceeded to other places.

According to an undated dispatch printed here, an Italian squadron shelled the fort at Tobruk. Soon afterward landing parties from the warships, advancing to occupy the fortification, were fired upon, but, rushing forward, took possession of the smoking ruins.

In the absence of dates it is presumed that this incident occurred before the arrival of the troopships.

The battleships Vittorio Emmanuele, Regina Elena, Roma, and Napoli participated in the bombardment of Tobruk. Officers of the battleships say that the Turkish garrison made little resistance. When the order was given for the landing every sailor wanted to join the 1,500 soldiers who had been taken aboard for that purpose, without anybody in Italy even having suspected it.

Lieut. Lovatelli, a young officer of the Roma, whose grandmother is English, was ordered to unfold the flag of war which had been presented to his ship by women of Rome. He kissed it with tears in his eyes. The moment was one of indescribable enthusiasm.

The boats with the landing parties as they neared the shore were received by a hail of bullets. Without waiting for the boats to reach land, soldiers and sailors leaped into the sea, answered the fire, and then charged with bayonets, driving the Turks before them.

Tobruk is now divided into four zones for defensive purposes, each being guarded with quick-firers.

The greater part of the Italian Army expedition is now at sea en route for Tripoli. This has been learned from messages in conventional language that escaped the censor.

A big contingent, comprising the largest part of the total force, sailed from Naples last night, and another fleet of transports left Taranto at sunrise to-day. More troops departed from Agosta to-night. These three groups will assemble as one east of Malta.

The landing of a whole army corps in Tripoli is looked upon as one of the most difficult operations of the war, despite the fact that little fear of an attack by the enemy is entertained. Accordingly every precaution looking to the safety of the troops has been taken and the strictest secrecy is maintained, even as to the number of transports employed, the hours of their sailing, and the identity of the warships escorting them. The transmission of any message directly or indirectly referring to the military operations is forbidden in any part of the country unless it has the sanction of the official censor.

Many Alleged Spies Arrested.

Several correspondents have been denounced to the courts by the Crown Prosecutor as guilty of betraying State secrets. Wherever troops are concentrated spies, or alleged spies, have been arrested. Still, absolute secrecy is impossible. It is known that the fleet carrying troops to Tripoli is made up of sixty steamers, which have been transformed into military transports and equipped with kitchens, bunks, stables, infirmaries, and powder magazines.

The battleship convoy covers a moving area one mile wide and five miles long. Within this square the troop-laden vessels appear secure from danger, except the ever-present one of a violent storm.

Although the Italian fleet is practically mistress of the sea, the expedition is being conducted as though it were necessary to elude the vigilance of an enemy or repel an attack. All lights on the transports were extinguished and the vessels proceeded in two lines half a mile apart, being preceded, flanked, and followed by battleships and cruisers. The warships in turn are protected on all sides by smaller but faster craft.

The horses at sea are said to be suffering more than the soldiers.

Once safely arrived off the Tripolitan coast it is expected that, with a favorable sea, the troops can be landed in two days. Plans for this have been long preparing. It is known that the General Staff has made a study of the disembarkation of the British troops at Ismailia, Egypt, in 1882, the landing of the American forces in Cuba in 1898, and the landing of the Japanese in Korea in 1904 with a view to avoiding any mistakes that may have been made at those times.

Naval Attachés with Troops.

The Naval Attachés of all the European countries, the United States, Japan, and China, who will accompany the expedition, were most cordially received by the Italian naval and military officers, among whom they found many old friends. Great Britain, in addition to a Naval Attaché, has also sent a Military Attaché. The American Attachéis Commander Andrew T. Long. All the attachés embarked with the expedition at headquarters.

The transports which left Naples were under the escort of a squadron sent purposely by Rear Admiral Aubrey, which was reinforced by other warships waiting outside the Strait of Messina. The great secrecy maintained concerning the sailing of the expedition is explained by the fact that the Government realized the danger of a surprise attack on the forces at Tripoli because of the withdrawal from the blockade along that coast of a number of warships to convoy the transports in their 500-mile voyage. The sailors and troops landed at Tripoli were not considered sufficient in number to resist by themselves a serious offensive movement.

However, although in time of war the greatest precautions are deemed praiseworthy, in this case they seem to be excessive, as of late no Turkish warships have been signaled in the Mediterranean, while the Turkish garrison at Tripoli, which left behind not only the fort batteries and ammunition, but even the field and Krupp batteries, is hardly in condition to make an effective assault upon the town.

The transports and convoying warships were ordered to proceed at a speed of ten miles an hour, but at the last moment, as an extraordinary precaution, they were instructed to slow up at night, even stopping, if it were deemed advisable, as it was considered dangerous to steam so short a distance from each other without lights at night. The expedition is expected to arrive at Tripoli on Thursday.

Reports from Tripoli say that the town is resuming its former aspect. There is much activity to repair the damage caused by the bombardment and to resume all the ordinary services. Large portraits of King Victor Emmanuel and Queen Helena have been hung in the large hall of the palace of the Governor. The market places are again scenes of animation. The first caravan since the bombardment has made its appearance. From the interior reports come that quiet prevails.

Arabs in picturesque attire gather around the cannon captuerd from the Turks, which Commander Cagni has placed in a long line, as an eloquent reminder of the victory. Gradually the town has been cleared of the elements opposed to the occupation. The Commandant came upon a large number of Turkish officers disguised as doctors at the hospital. They had been in communication with the Turkish troops from the garrison, and were immediately expelled.

Warships Helped Repel Attack.

TRIPOLI, Oct. 10.—The Turks apparently do not intend to abandon Tripoli to the Italians without further determined resistance. For several days bands of horsemen have been reconnoitering in the vicinity of the Italian outposts. Several times at night they have been discovered by the searchlights of the warships, and then shells drove them back again into the hills.

At about 1 o'clock this morning a force of 3,000 Turkish troops, with field guns, was discovered advancing in two columns, with the evident intention of recapturing the town. A large body of natives marched with the troops and presented a formidable array. The Italian commander, however, had received an intimation that such an attempt would probably be made, and his men were amply prepared.

The Italian guns were well placed and the Turks were met with a heavy artillery and rifle fire, to which they replied with equal energy. It was moonlight and the fleet turned its searchlights on the contending forces. When the engagement was at its height the battleships and cruisers joined in with their smaller batteries, directing their shells to cover the Italian front and flank.

For more than an hour the firing on shore was continuous, but about 2 o'clock it slackened and then gradually ceased. The Turks retired, but in good order, although it is reported that they suffered heavy losses.

Another body of Turks tried to turn the Italians' eastern flank, but without success. The Italian casualties were slight. The fleet pursued the retreating Turks with a heavy shell fire until 6 A. M.

VALLETTA, Oct. 10.—It is reported here that 40,000 Italian troops left Agosta for Tripoli last night in 50 transports, which were escorted by the second division of the fleet under Vice Admiral Thaon di Revel.

The Italian destroyer Borea, which arrived here yesterday escorting the steamer Assyria, carrying many Turkish refugees from Tripoli, left port this morning. She was permitted to take on only sufficient water to carry her to Syracuse. The Italian Consul raised objection to the action of the British authorities, contending that as the Borea was escorting a steamer filled with passengers, who were liable to mutiny and to seize the ship, she could not be considered as being employed for a warlike purpose, and she should therefore have free use of a neutral port.

The refugees, who were permitted to land, will take the next steamer for Constantinople. They complained bitterly of ill-treatment at the hands of the Italians, saying that they had not been supplied with sufficient food and water.

A second Italian steamer, with 150 Turks and their wives and families from Tripoli, arrived here this afternoon. Many of the refugees will return to Tripoli on steamers which are now leaving here daily.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 10.—At a Cabinet Council to-day it was decided to close all Italian industrial, financial, and scholastic establishments in Turkey and to seize Italian steamers.

Permission has been given to Russian, Rumanian, and Bulgarian vessels loaded with grain to pass through the straits, provided that the grain is not to be discharged at Italian ports.

Moustafa Assim Bey, the Turkish Minister to Bulgaria, to-day accepted the portfolio of Foreign Affairs in the new Cabinet. Rechid Pasha was first selected for this post, but refused to accept it.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 10.—As a result of the Turkish-Italian war about 450,000 tons of goods have accumulated at Taganrog, on the north shore of the Sea of Azoff and neighboring harbors.

Seventy per cent. of the total amount is wheat, intended for the most part for Italy.

BERLIN, Oct. 10.—Although Germany finds that the time is not ripe for an offer of mediation to end the war between Turkey and Italy, pending the completion of the Italian occupation of Tripoli, the Government is endeavoring further to localize the hostilities and to prevent fighting in the Red, Aegean, and Adriatic Seas.

If Turkey will give assurances that she will not interfere in the transport of the Italian expedition to Tripoli there is hope that all other hostilities will be suspended. The prolongation of war movements outside of Tripoli presents great risks to international shipping, and it is even feared that the service on the Suez Canal might be interrupted.

It is learned in diplomatic circles that Italy will probably be willing to indemnify Turkey for Tripoli to the extent of about $12,000,000, but it is a question whether she is still willing to recognize Turkish suzerainty over Tripoli in any form.

LONDON, Wednesday, Oct. 11.—The correspondent of The Daily Chronicle at Constantinople telegraphs that the latest Turkish note to the powers was so conciliatory in tone that Germany has decided with the other Governments to renew her approaches at Rome with a view to an understanding. Some of the answers received by the Porte from the powers on Monday night were favorable to Turkey's request.

Reports from Bengazi that two Italian cruisors were destroyed, and from Derna that two Italian destroyers were blown up by mines are in circulation in Constantinople, but have not been confirmed.

FEARS FOR KING VICTOR'S LIFE.

Monarch Closely Guarded at Naples—Anarchists Made Threats.

ROME, Oct. 10.—Extraordinary police measures were taken during the visit of King Victor Emmanuel to Naples for his farewell to the troops.

The special precautions were due to the fear of a possible Anarchist attempt upon his Majesty, which had been threatened in revenge for the recent firm suppression of anarchistic anti-military demonstrations.

It had also been reported that there were Turkish spies in Naples, and there was some uneasiness lest a mad act be attempted by some Turk.

BATTLE TO CAPTURE SOLDIER MURDERER

Negro Trooper, After Killing Comrade and Shooting Two Women, Opens Fire on Guard.

SHOOTS OFFICER'S HORSE

Only Captured When Lieut. Blaine Puts a Bullet in Him as Soldiers Surround Bridge.

Special to The New York Times.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Oct. 10.—After killing a fellow-soldier and a woman and mortally wounding a second woman, Matthew Carlyle of A Troop, Tenth United States Cavalry, (colored,) stationed at Fort Ethan Allen, was captured to-day by a detachment of the regiment which went out after him and found him at a resort and eating house near the post. The man showed fight, poured a fusillade of shots into the attacking party, shot an officer's horse under him, and surrendered only after another officer had put a bullet in him.

Carlyle's victims, all negroes like himself, were Andrew C. Fox of C Troop, shot and instantly killed on the reservation at the post; a woman known as Clara Washington, also shot and instantly killed at the resort where the murderer stood at bay—a place known as Clarence Bluefoot's restaurant—a quarter of a mile from the post, and another woman known as Beatrice Stewart, shot and mortally wounded in the same resort.

Carlyle was armed with a powerful army rifle, and had a belt full of ammunition. The trouble started when Carlyle, who had been assigned to special duty as a painter, failed to report for work, and was reported to the officer of the day by Fox, who is in charge of the work. He was placed under arrest in his quarters late in the afternoon. He and Fox had trouble before, and the latter had often been the cause of Carlyle's arrest. At noon Carlyle ate dinner at the mess with his troop, but appeared to be morose and said that his arrest probably meant his discharge from the army.

After mess nothing more was seen of him until he emerged from behind the row of non-commissioned officers' houses armed with the rifle. When Carlyle came out Fox was standing in front of the paint house, a few rods away. Carlyle said nothing, but took deliberate aim and fired.

Hearing shots soldiers rushed out, but they fell back speedily when they faced Carlyle's rifle. Knowing that an armed guard would soon be at his heels the man dashed down the road until he reached the Bluefort restaurant, frequented by soldiers and other negroes. A soldier named Blodson gave the alarm to the women. Two of these fled into the underbrush and escaped. The man went directly up the stairs and into the room where the Washington woman lay ill. He fired three shots at her. One blew a part of her head off, another took effect in her right side, and the third took away a portion of her right foot.

Blodson and the Stewart woman hearing the shots started to run from the dining room, where they had taken refuge. The way led through the passage out of doors. Carlyle had by this time come into the passage, and seeing the woman below shot her through the back. She will die. Blodson made his escape through the back door, and the woman dragged herself through two rooms out into the yard.

By this time the guard in charge of Capt. Suplee, officer of the day, had come up and surrounded the house. Carlyle took a position in a northwest window up stairs, and began shooting at his mates outside, who replied. None of the shots took effect except the one that struck the horse ridden by Capt. Godson. The animal was shot in the neck, and afterward died.

Carlyle was outwitted by a ruse. A part of the troops were taken away to a distance, and while Carlyle's attention was attracted toward them, Lieut. Blaine crept up through the underbrush and shot Carlyle through the groin. As soon as Carlyle felt the lead he gave himself up and fairly pleaded for the men to stop shooting. He yelled to Bluefort, who had kept in the house and was uninjured, to come up and take his gun and he would do no further damage. He was lying on the floor and bleeding profusely when Bluefort went in, and almost whimpered in his fear.

The troopers tumbled him into a wagon and took him with all dispatch to the post hospital. An ambulance took the Stewart woman to the same place, and as Fox had already been transferred there, murdered and murderer were under the same roof.

Carlyle is now under Government jurisdiction, and it is not known whether or not the State of Vermont will make any claim on him. States Attorney H. B. Shaw and Sheriff J. H. Allen were on the scene of the murder and collected a large amount of testimony, as the State's Attorney was not certain what the course would be.

FALSE DOROTHY ARNOLD TALE

Origin of a Report That She Had Returned Explained by her Brother.

John W. Arnold, brother of the long-missing Dorothy Arnold, explained last night how a report had become current that his sister had been found. A reporter for an evening newspaper, seeing preparations at 108 East Seventy-ninth Street, the home of Francis R. Arnold, for the family's return from Europe, decided that Dorothy Arnold must be returning there, and telephoned to John W. Arnold at his office to ask about it.

"I told him I was sorry I could not corroborate his theory," said Mr. Arnold last night, "because we were still as much in the dark as to my sister's whereabout as ever. Then I said that I made it a practice never to discuss my private affairs at my office, anyway. This was immediately construed into an implication that I would discuss the matter at my home and tell about my sister's return if questioned there.

"There is, of course, not the slightest truth in it. We have not the faintest clue to Dorothy's whereabouts or evidence that she is still alive."

John S. Keith, attorney for the Arnold family, reaffirmed Mr. Arnold's denial, after consultation with him last night.

this connection it has been pointed out that it would be easy for a political boss to get some of his henchmen to write their own names or those of some other person on the petitions for an independent nomination and report the fact at headquarters, where the boss, forewarned, would have no difficulty in proving the fact, especially as the Levy law does not provide any penalty for inaccuracy of a statement made at any stage of the proceedings involved.

ANTI-TAMMANY MEN GLAD.

Fusion Proposed Between Republicans, Democrats, and Independence League.

Republicans and Independence Leaguers, as well as members of various civic organizations, were jubilant yesterday over the decision of the Court of Appeals declaring important sections of the Levy law unconstitutional. All saw in it a chance to defeat the Tammany ticket this Fall. That Tammany had the measure put through at all, they argued, was proof that Murphy feared fusion this Fall.

Robert Grier Monroe, Chairman of the New York County organization of the Democratic League, who wrote to Samuel S. Koenig, Chairman of the Republican County Committee, and John J. Hopper of the Independence League on Monday, suggesting that the Democratic League co-operate with the Fusionists in trying to defeat Tammany, said he was delighted with the decision, as in his opinion it meant the defeat of the Tammany ticket.

"I felt that the Levy law was an iniquitous measure and an attempt by the Tammany machine to curb the independent Democratic vote in this city," he said. "I think that every Democratic voter, before he votes for any member of the Legislature, will see that the candidate is opposed to any and all future legislation of this character."

Otto T. Bannard, who will take an active part in the fusion movement this Fall, said:

"I am greatly pleased with the decision. Whether it was constitutional or not, it would be an outrage to deprive citizens of the right to vote for candidates they wanted in the way they wanted. This stood out particularly in the case of Justice Scott, whom we all wanted to renominate. Things look bright for fusion."

"It is a good thing and was to be expected," said John Purroy Mitchel, President of the Board of Aldermen. "It is good to know that efforts to defeat popular elections have failed."

Controller Prendergast nodded approval of these sentiments, and added:

"It is the end that crowns the work."

Replying to Mr. Monroe's letter suggesting fusion, Mr. Hopper wrote yesterday that he was sure the Independence League would accept the offer, which he would place before the County and Judicial Conventions of the league.

McNAMARA TRIAL TO-DAY.

Defense Fund $120,000—Gompers Blames Steel Corporation.

Special to The New York Times.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 10.—On the eve of their trial J. J. McNamara, and his brother, J. B. McNamara, declared themselves delighted that the time for their trial had almost come, and the only time J. J. McNamara appeared serious was when it was hinted that he would not be tried at the same time with his brother, but would have to wait his turn.

When the court convenes to-morrow the decision of Judge Bordwell on the formal application for a change of Judges made by the defense will be given. The law of California, unlike that of many States, which makes it mandatory upon a court to grant an application for a change of venue, allows the Judge to settle such matters as seems best to him. Judge Bordwell will probably try the cases.

Clarence Darrow, discussing the finances of the defense, said:

"We have received $120,000. In the last thirty days about $20,000 has come to hand from different places. Although this seems a large sum we have spent or contracted debts for most of it, and we must have at least as much more for the first trial."

Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, said yesterday that the trial of the McNamara brothers for blowing up the Los Angeles Times Building, which begins to-day in Los Angeles, was a "frame up" by the Steel Trust with the help of Detective Burns.

"The alleged accomplice of the McNamara brothers, Ortie McManigal, who is said to have turned State's evidence, is one of Detective Burns's own paid operatives," said Gompers. "McManigal, himself has been planting the infernal machines which Detective Burns has subsequently pretended to discover. The charges against the McNamaras are part of a plot of the Steel Trust against the Bridge and Structural Ironworkers' Union."

Mr. Gompers says the defense will try to prove that the Los Angeles Times Building was destroyed by fire following an explosion of gas. Twenty-one lives were lost in the explosion, and there are nineteen indictments against the McNamaras.

CHINESE TROOPS REVOLT.

Desert to Rebels at Wu Chang After Two Conspirators Are Beheaded.

HANKOW, China, Oct. 10.—Troops at Wu-Chang have gone over to the rebels and cut off communication with that place, following the arrest of twenty-eight revolutionaries at Wu-Chang, capital of the Province of Hu-Peh, and the beheading of four of the number in front of the Viceroy's yamen to-day. The arrests and executions followed the discovery of a revolutionary plot in the Russian concession here. A bomb was exploded, whereupon a search revealed a factory for the manufacture of explosives and a plan for an attack on Wu-Chang.

Much firing can be heard this afternoon in the direction of Wu-Chang. Several large fires are seen.

The authorities had feared that the soldiers were disaffected. Chinese gunboats are patroling the harbor. A message from Chung-King says that the leaders of the movement, in protest against the Government's plan of building railways with foreign capital, are protecting the missions in the district where rebels are operating.

CHUNG-KING, China, Oct. 10.—The revolutionary movement in Sze-Chuen Province has not been entirely put down. The rebels are still in possession of four towns, and the Railway League is paying for the protection of churches in the affected area.

ROYALISTS WIN BATTLE.

Beat Off Attack of Portuguese Republicans—Expect Reinforcements.

LISBON, Oct. 10, (via frontier.)—The Royalists, entrenched near the Galician frontier, were attacked by the Republican forces yesterday. They replied with a hot fire from behind rocks and wooded heights, compelling the Government troops to retire. The Republican artillery was quite useless.

The Royalists expect another column now advancing through the Minho Valley to create a diversion and lead to a division of the Government troops which are now concentrating. The Monarchists keep their line of communications with Spain open, and are able to receive recruits and supplies from sources which the Republicans cannot attack without a quarrel with Spain. The invaders are able to obtain plenty of food from the countryside, but few men join them.

Two hundred peasant women, led by priests, have been marching from village to village singing hymns and cheering for the Church, seeking thus to inspire the men with fighting zeal. Their efforts, however, have been generally futile. The Government is placing sailors from the warships in the front as much as possible, not because it doubts their loyalty but because they are more relentless in fighting the Royalists than are the soldiers, who are likely at any time to encounter old comrades among the officers and men of the enemy. The resignation of Gen. Castro as Minister of War was due to the fact that he was denounced by the Carbonarios as a traitor, because he had not shown enough energy in suppressing the monarchist bands.

for the creditors of the brokerage firm of Lathrop, Haskins & Co., which failed in the smash of the Hocking pool.

REPUBLICANS AGREE TO FUSE.

Name a Conference Committee and Adjourn County Convention.

The New York County Republicans are keen for fusion with the Democratic League, the Independence League, or any other set of voters against Tammany. At their county convention last night at Eldorado Hall, Seventh Avenue and Fifty-second Street, every mention of an alliance against Tammany was cheered loudly, and the convention postponed all public consideration of candidates until a conference could be held with representatives of the Democratic League and the Independence League. This action was expected by the leaders for twelve hours preceding the convention, but it became assured early in the afternoon when word was received from Albany that the Court of Appeals had upset that part of the Levy election law which seemed to make fusion impossible.

The convention was organized with ex-Judge Julius M. Mayer in the chair. Samuel S. Koenig, the Republican County President, read a letter from Robert Grier Monroe, Chairman of the Campaign Committee of the Democratic League, inviting the Republicans to an alliance against Tammany, urging that Mr. Monroe's invitation be accepted. Ex-Justice William N. Cohen attacked the legal capacities of certain Justices of the Supreme Court whom he did not name.

"When," said he, "we elect a Justice for fourteen years and pay him $17,500 a year, he ought at least to be a tolerable lawyer. The bench in this county has fallen in the last ten years and fallen rapidly, and I do not care how strongly my opinion may be expressed or how widely published."

Ex-Justice Cohen said that if there ever was a time when all independent voters should be allied it was the present, when Tammany had sought to use the Legislature of the State to crush out all opposition to it.

C. H. Woodward, Vice President of the County Committee, moved that Mr. Monroe's invitation be accepted and that a committee of seven be named to confer as to a basis of fusion. This motion was carried unanimously, and Chairman Mayer named Samuel S. Koenig, Edward S. Clinch, Ezra P. Prentice, Beverly R. Robinson, Newbold Morris, Isidor Wasservogel, and Julius M. Mayer as the committee.

After the meeting Mr. Koenig said the committee would not take active steps toward fusion, but would await whatever proposals the Democratic League had to make.

The convention was adjourned to meet at 4:30 o'clock to-morrow afternoon in the same hall to hear a report of the conference committee and to make nominations for Sheriff, Surrogate, and four Justices of the Supreme Court.

Very little was said last night about candidates. County President Koenig said the Republican leaders had picked no one even tentatively. It was quite common talk in the convention hall that Supreme Court Justices Scott and Pendleton would get a renomination, and it was apparently expected that John J. Hopper of the Independence League would be the fusion nominee for Sheriff.

FUSION IN KINGS.

Cropsey on Republican-Hearst Ticket for District Attorney.

Complete fusion on county officers was effected last night by the Kings County Republican Convention, and the Independent League. Both parties held conventions, and by agreement nominated the same ticket for the four county offices. Three of the nominations went to the Republicans and one to the Independence League.

The nominees were: District Attorney, ex-Police Commissioner James C. Cropsey; Sheriff, Charles B. Law; County Clerk, Charles S. Devoy, all Republicans; Registrar, Edward T. O'Laughlin, Chairman of the Independence League in Kings.

DAYTON NAMED IN QUEENS

To Run for District Attorney on Republican Ticket—No Opposition.

The Queens County Republican Convention nominated James A. Dayton of Bayside for District Attorney last night. The meeting was held in Dauer's Hall, Richmond Hill, and the office of District Attorney was the only one to be nominated by the convention. Dayton got a unanimous vote.

The new candidate is a graduate of New York University and was admitted to the bar in 1901. He served as Assistant District Attorney under ex-District Attorney Darrin from 1906 to 1909. He is married.

Assembly and Aldermanic Nominations.

Republicans in the Twelfth Assembly District nominated for Assemblyman last night John J. Hanlon, a clerk of 373 First Avenue. Adjourned Republican Aldermanic conventions resulted in the nomination of Henry Bossert in the Twelfth Aldermanic District, and Richard Hoolahan in the Thirteenth District.

ORGANIZE TO FORCE PASSPORTS IN RUSSIA

Leading Men Here Expect to Have Congress Abrogate the Russian Treaty.

GATHERING AT THE WALDORF

Attitude of Russia in Denying American Passports Deemed an Affront to All Americans.

Some of the best-known men in the city gathered at the Waldorf-Astoria yesterday afternoon to launch a protest against the continued refusal of the Russian Government to recognize American passports issued by the Secretary of State to certain classes of American citizens.

The purpose of the movement is to bring about a nation-wide agitation against what was frequently described at the meeting as an affront and an insult to the whole people of this country. Mass meetings are to be held in this and other cities, and Congress is to be petitioned to abrogate the present treaty with Russia, unless that Government yields recognition of this country's passports. While American citizens of Jewish religious faith have been most frequently discriminated against, some of the speakers declared that Baptists also have been denied admission to Russia because of their religious views.

The meeting was organized with William G. McAdoo, President of the Hudson & Manhattan Railway Company, as Chairman, and Bernard Nolan, Secretary. James Creelman, President of the Civil Service Board, in nominating Mr. McAdoo, declared that the recognition of the integrity of the American passport was the concern not of Catholics or Jews or any other religious denomination, but of the people of the United States, and the American Government should know how the people of this country feel on the subject. This Government, he declared, should set in motion all its machinery to the end that Russia shall honor American passports whenever issued.

Edward Lauterbach said that at one time the relations between this country and Russia had become so strained that the Secretary of State had declined to issue passports to American citizens of Jewish faith except on their promise not to enter the borders of the Czar's empire. He said the present failure of Russia to honor American passports was largely due, he believed, to lassitude on the part of Government officials, but he disclaimed any intention of criticising either the present or the preceding Administration. There should be now an agitation behind the Government, he thought, not by Jews only, but by all citizens regardless of class or religion.

Congressman Henry M. Goldfogle, who, it was stated, has been working for ten years for the establishment of the American passport, said that at last, with many of the best people of this country behind it, he expected success for the movement. The public conscience, he said, was aroused and the people would come to realize that not only the American passport but the honor of the Government was at stake, and put a stop to an affront which Russia now puts on the whole American people.

Congressman Jefferson M. Levy, a member of the House Committee on Foreign Relations, said he had been informed of discrimination by Russia against Baptists as well as against Jews. He declared his belief that every member of the Foreign Relations Committee was in favor of abrogating this Government's treaty with Russia, and would be ready to report in favor of this action at the coming session of Congress.

Ex-Congressman William S. Bennet said that when in Congress he had taken many passports to the Russian Ambassador to be vised. Each time he was asked if the person applying was a Jew, and when he knew he, of course, said yes. In all such cases the representative of the Russian Government would say very politely that he had orders from his home office not to indorse the passports of Americans of Jewish faith. He said the American people ought speedily to recognize that this injury to one was the concern of all. This sentiment was roundly applauded.

The meeting concluded with the election of these officers and committees of a general organization to be known as the Citizens' Committee to Protest Against Russia's Discriminations:

President, Andrew D. White, ex-Ambassador to Germany; Vice Presidents—James Creelman and William Jay Schieffelin; Treasurer, Allan Robinson; Secretary, Bernard Nolan, General Manager, Henry Green.

Advisory Board—William S. Bennet, Speaker Champ Clark, Gov. Woodrow Wilson, H. M. Goldfogle, the Rev. Dr. John Wesley Hill, Edward Lauterbach, Gov. Judson B. Harmon, Senator Boies Penrose, the Rev. Dr. C. H. Parkhurst, the Rev. E. B. Sanford, Andrew D. White, and Bishop E. R. Hendricks.

Executive Committee—W. G. McAdoo, Chairman; Edward Lauterbach, James Creelman, Andrew D. White, Allan Robinson, W. J. Schieffelin, John Whalen, William Hayes Ward, and Henry Green.

Finance Committee—Lee Kohns, W. J. Schieffelin, Cleveland H. Dodge, Edward Lauterbach, and Lucien C. Warner.

Former Ambassador White was not present, but wrote that he heartily approved of the movement, and said he would do anything in his power to advance its purposes. Similar letters were received from Govs. Wilson and Harmon and Speaker Clark of the House of Representatives.

A mass meeting at Carnegie Hall, or some other large auditorium, to protest against passport discrimination is expected to be one of the early results of yesterday's organization.

REX BEACH TO WRITE BASEBALL FOR TIMES

Novelist Will Describe World Series Games for This Newspaper's Readers.

STORY FROM MARQUARD, TOO

He Will Discuss the Battle Scientifically—Col. Lampton to Picture the Amusing Features.

Rex E. Beach, who is famous both as a novelist and an athlete, has been engaged by THE NEW YORK TIMES to write the descriptive account of each game in the world's baseball series, which begins at the Polo Grounds on Saturday afternoon. The crowds, the enthusiasm, the rooting for the Giants and for the Athletics, and each game as a spectacle and as a scientific performance will be described for THE TIMES readers by Mr. Beach.

Yours truly, Rex Beach.

Novelist Who Will Describe World's Baseball Series for The Times.

To thousands Mr. Beach is known chiefly as an able and clever novelist whose books abound in gripping descriptive narrative. Among his novels are "The Ne'er Do Well" and "One Who Knows," both new, while "Going Some," "The Silver Horde," "The Barrier," and "The Spoilers" were of earlier production and are still popular. With Paul Armstrong he dramatized "Going Some," and with James McArthur he turned "The Spoilers" into a play. All these have made him widely known in the world of books and the drama.

He was an all-around athlete before he was a novelist, and he is an athlete still. While at Rollins College, Winter Park, Fla., and the Chicago College of Law he played regularly on the baseball teams. Later he was left tackle on the football team of the Chicago Athletic Association, and was credited with winning in 1906 the championship of America for his association against the Boston Athletic Club.

In swimming he won several American records. He represented the Chicago Athletic Association on its regular swimming team, was Captain of its water polo team, and trained the team which defeated the New York Athletic Club. He also represented the Chicago Association on its track team, specializing at one time in throwing the discus.

It is said that Mr. Beach has one of the largest collections of medals for all-around athletics of any college man in the country. His special medals include those for the 100-yard dash and weight throwing and for the high jump.

While in college and as a member of the Chicago Athletic Association he became well known in amateur circles for work in boxing, handball, indoor baseball, and tennis. He has refereed several boxing contests, and reported the Jeffries-Johnson fight at Reno.

In spite of this varied athletic activity he found time for bicycling. On one occasion he entered a twenty-seven-mile road race. There were 450 entries, with "Pop" Smedley as the favorite and Beach the dark horse. When the eighteenth milepost was reached Beach was fifth. Near this point, however, he was unfortunate enough to fall, sustaining severe injuries. Forgetful of his hurts and to the surprise of all who saw his mishap, he jumped pluckily to his bicycle and finished, winning one of the prizes.

When only 19 the gold rush to Alaska drew him, and he remained in the North from 1897 to 1902, becoming so interested in that country that he has made regular trips there since for material and color for his books and magazine articles. Even in that country of hardy adventurers he soon came to be known for athletic prowess, on one occasion winning a swimming race in arctic waters against the Alaska natives.

In addition to Mr. Beach's story of the spectacle, Richard Marquard, the Giants' star left-hand pitcher, will write for THE TIMES a story of each game of the series from the technical point of view. To Mr. Marquard the National game is more than a spectacle. It is a science, and as such he will discuss it for TIMES readers.

Saturday's game, moreover, will be pictured for THE TIMES from still another angle—that of the humorist. Col. W. J. Lampton, satirist, poet, and humorist, has been engaged to turn his funny lens on the contest.

AUTHORITIES AGAINST ROCKEFELLER 'TREE'

Three Quoted by Wharton Dickinson Throw Great Doubt Upon Plantagenet Claim.

WAS LADY SUSAN TOO YOUNG?

If Born as Late as 1605 She Could Not Have Been the Mother of Oil King's Ancestor.

To make still stronger his criticism of the John D. Rockefeller pedigree, which was printed in yesterday's TIMES, Wharton Dickinson has written to point out that according to three leading authorities Lady Susan Clinton was one of the youngest children of the third Earl of Lincoln. This is important, as it is on this lady and her marriage that the entire pedigree rests.

According to the family tree put forward by Elroy M. Avery of Cleveland for himself and Mr. Rockefeller they are both descended from John Humfrey of Boston, whose son, John Humfrey, according to the records, was born in 1621. To connect this stock with the descendants of the Plantagenets it is necessary to identify the elder Humfrey with the —— Humphreys of Kent, who married Lady Susan Clinton.

But Lady Susan, it appears, was the seventh daughter of the third Earl of Lincoln, who had in all eight sons and nine daughters. He was born in 1571, and under the most liberal computation is not likely to have taken unto himself a wife until he was 20 in 1591. As the genealogists do not state in what order the children came or at what intervals, it is impossible to state accurately the year in which Lady Susan first saw the light, but it may be assumed to be reasonable that she was not born before from 1605 to 1610.

But even taking the earlier date, it would appear that it is almost incredible that she could really have been married young enough to present to —— Humphreys of Kent a son and heir as early as 1621.

Here is Mr. Dickinson's letter:

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The lists of children of Thomas Clinton, third Earl of Lincoln, given by the greatest authorities on the early peerage of England all place Susan near the end. First we have Emonson in his Baronagium Genealogicum, Volume II., Page 99:

"'1. Henry Clinton first son dyed young 2 Thomas Clinton second son dyed young 3 Theophilus Clinton third son succeeded as (4th) Earl of Lincoln in 1618 died 1667. Married 1st, Bridget, daughter of William Viscount Say and Sele, married seconly Elizabeth daughter of Sir Anthur Gorges Kut and widow of Sir Robert Stanley Kut. O. B. s. p 1675 [children Berrisford 14 Frances married John Gorges. 15 Arabella married —— Johnson. 16 Susan married —— Humphreys of Kent Esq. 17 Sarah."

"Thirdly, Collins in his Peerage Edition of 1812, Vol. II., Page 209, gives: 1, Henry, and 2, Thomas, who both died young. 3, Theophilus, his successor [who he says further down the page was nineteen years of age at his father's death, 1618-19.] 4, Edward; 5, Sir Charles; 6, Kuevitt, sixth son; 7, Robert, seventh son, died without issue; 8, John, [not James as Edmondson and Jacobs have it,] eighth son, who died unmarried. With nine daughters, Catharine, Lucy, Ann, and Dorcas, who died young; Elizabeth, who was married to John, all by first wife; 4, Edward Clinton, fourth son; 5, Charles Clinton, fifth son; 6, Robert Clinton, sixth son; 7, Kuevitt Clinton, seventh son; 8, James Clinton, eighth son; 9, Catherine; 10, Lucy; 11, Ann, and 12, Dorcas, all died young; 13, Elizabeth, married John Berrisford of Lincoln, England; 14, Frances, married John Gorges; 15, Arabella, married —— Johnson; 16, Susan, married —— Humphreys of Kent, Esq.; 17, Sarah."

Secondly, Jacobs in his Peerage, Vol. I., P. 485, table, gives us:

"1, Henry Clinton died young. 2, Thomas Clinton died young. 3, Theophilus, Earl of Lincoln, born 1599, died 1667. 4, Edward; 5, Charles; 6, Robert; 7, Kuevitt, and 8, James, all died unmarried. 9, Catherine died young. (He omits 10, Lucy; 11, Ann, and 12, Dorcas.) 13, Elizabeth married John Berrisford of Ledenham, County Lincoln, and died July 28, 1624. Frances (married) to John Gorges, Esq., and heir to Sir Ferdinando Gorges Knight. Susan (married) to —— Humphreys of the County of Kent, Esq.; Arabella, who was wedded to Isaac Johnson, and Sarah."

It will be noted that Collins varies from Edmondson and Jacobs in two particulars: First, he substitutes a "Gohn" for the "James" of the other two, and, secondly, he makes Susan precede Arabella.

I have no wish to enter into a lengthened controversy, as I am too busy with my own work, but the facts speak for themselves. WHARTON DICKINSON.

HIS "FAMILY TREE."

It Is Certified and Vies with Mr. Rockefeller's in Paradoxes.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is nothing short of shocking that you should call attention so publicly, hence so rudely, to the slight discrepancy in the family trees of John D. Rockefeller and Mr. Astor. My good Sir, I have before me the "certified family tree" of a branch of my family—the Colstons of Virginia, including the Travers, Carters, Peachys, and others—and I here assert that it makes Mr. Rockefeller's forbears mere pikers in comparison.

A marriage at 10, with a child at eleven! Whoof, my tree gives me a dear old aunt who married at 72 and became the mother of eight children—and they were not a ready-made lot, either, and this, too, in five years.

Marshall Field, the late Chicago merchant, spent something like $30,000 on his tree, which was published in two volumes. Although he was of the Massachusetts branch, he gave considerable space to my Virginia branch of the family. In this branch was a somewhat noted Indian fighter, Col. John Field. This warrior is represented as marrying a sister of George Rogers Clark, whipping the Indians at Point Pleasant, West Va.; returning to Virginia, fighting throughout the revolution with Washington, was present at the Yorktown surrender, retired to his estates, lived happy, died, "and was buried at Field Manor on the Rapidan."

Not only would this sister of George Rogers Clark have had to have been married before she was born, and become the mother of nine children before she was 10 years old, but would have had to disappoint the very large and charming family she actually reared. And the monument recently erected at Point Pleasant in honor of those pioneers who fell in that great battle with the Indians records the solemn fact that all that is mortal of Col. John lies beneath it.

All of which is submitted in prideful boast that Mr. Rockefeller has no monopoly on energetic ancestors. MORTON WATKINS.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS IS A DUST DISEASE

Remarkable Experiments Which Prove This Described at the Academy of Medicine.

MONKEYS WERE INOCULATED

The Experimenters Believe That the Virus of the Disease Is in the Dust of the Rooms.

Dr. Marcus Neustaedter related last night before the neurological division of the Academy of Medicine the results of a series of experiments conducted by himself and Dr. William C. Thro of Cornell Medical College for the purpose of demonstrating a theory about the manner of the spread of infantile paralysis.

Prof. Max G. Schlapp of Cornell University presided, and many eminent medical specialists were in attendance. After hearing Dr. Neustaedter's remarks and viewing the stereopticon reproductions of Dr. Neustaedter's photographs and historical slides, they warmly commended the demonstration as an epochal advance in the medical knowledge of the disease. Among those who participated in the discussion which followed Dr. Neustaedter's paper were Dr. Benjamin Rosenbluth, who dealt with 117 cases of infantile paralysis at Beth Israel and Mount Sinai Hospitals, Dr. Israel Strauss and Dr. Thomas Wood Hastings.

Experiments on six monkeys were related in great detail by Dr. Neustaedter as proving, first, that the disease is eminently an infantile ailment and prevails principally among the very youngest children, those who play on the floor; second, that the disease is one which occurs mostly in the dry season; third, that the character of the neighborhood and the living premises in which it is found does not play a material part in its spread—that, in fact, it may occur anywhere; fourth, that children in the same family may be attacked one after the other and that in a given house children may be attacked in different families in fairly quick succession and along the lines of neighborly communication, and, fifth, that the upper air passages appear to be the channels of the infection.

Distinct Advance Toward Remedy.

After hearing the paper several of the specialists expressed the opinion that a distinct advance had been made toward obtaining some means of prophylaxis which would render it possible for the medical profession to check epidemics of the disease such as have prevailed recently in this country, particularly in the eastern United States, as well as abroad. Dr. Neustaedter said that he and Dr. Thro were convinced that the virus of infantile paralysis lurks in the dust and obtains its entrance to the system through the naso-pharynx.

The experiments related by Dr. Reustaedter were begun in the early part of last year. At that time he and Dr. Thro began to collect the sweepings of rooms where poliomyletis (the scientific name of infantile paralysis) had been suffered by children, and prepare these sweepings for injection into monkeys. Rhesus monkeys were used in all of the experiments.

During March the two experimenters collected the sweepings from ninteen different cases of the disease of from three to six months' standing after the beginning of the paralysis, which is a distinct mark of the disease. These sweepings were gathered from rooms where the childrenu had been playing. After assembling collections from the wall, floors, and wooden trimmings of the rooms, the experimenters dried them for several days, after which they sifted them, macerated them, and filtered them through paper and a Berkfeld filter. The maceration was performed in what is known as a normal salt solution.

After keeping this solution on ice for six days it was injected into the first monkey through a trephine opening in the right frontal skull. This was on April 8. The needle was inserted under the outer lining of the brain. Seven days later the animal became quite ill, but recovered completely in three days. The spinal fluid of the monkey was not withdrawn for examination before the injection and no spinal fluid was withdrawn during the illness. Into the spine of the monkey was injected a few days later the nasal discharges of the nineteen human patients, but there was no noticeable result.

First Positive Results Obtained.

The experimenters were not discouraged by the failure of their first attempts, and on April 2 they made injections into their second monkey in the same way as the first, with solutions of sweepings from a case of six weeks' standing. The monkey became very ill on May 6. Both first and second monkeys were killed. The autopsy revealed few systemic changes.

The third monkey was injected on May 16 at the laboratory of the Cornell University Medical College with extracts of sweepings from three different cases, which had occurred in a single house, filtered through a Berkfeld filter. The cases were of less than two weeks' standing. Prior to injecting the monkey with two cubic centimetres of the filter solution, a spinal fluid was withdrawn and examined. After twenty-four hours the monkey rallied from the effects of a frontal skull injection and remained well until may 23. On that day it kept to the corner of its cell in a recumbent position and the spinal fluid was withdrawn and examined. Its right hind leg was found partly paralyzed on that day, and on the following day all four limbs were paralyzed. The monkey could not turn over and lay on its back, the muscles of its neck rigid. When the monkey was killed the autopsy failed to show any signs of meningitis or inflammation of the brain. The reports on this monkey for evidences of infantile paralysis were unsatisfactory, and a fourth monkey was injected on May 26.

The preparations for injections were made in this way: The sweepings of the case of one week's standing were injected into the brain after being shaken constantly for six hours with 100 cubic centimeters normal salt solution evaporated to a consistency of five-sixth. The monkey was tapped and five cubic centimeters were injected. Half an hour after the injection the animal was lively and continued in good health until Aug. 26, when there was paralysis of the right forepaw, with the characteristic wrist drop, following the appearance of symptoms of extreme sensitiveness, dullness, and listlessness. Four days later a lumbar puncture was made and one cubic centimeter of clear spinal fluid was extracted. This monkey was not killed.

Rapid Infection Achieved.

On Aug. 29 Dr. Wallrath of Staten Island sent to the experimenters the sweepings of a room in which a four-year-old child had been stricken with poliomyletis and had been paralyzed in two days. The sweepings were macerated in thirty cubic centimeters of sterile water and five of them were injected into the spinal canal of a new monkey, the fifth in the series of experiments, after a like amount of spinal fluid had been extracted. Seven days afterward the monkey showed a paralysis of the right fore leg and a marked paresis of both hind legs. When a Lumbar puncture was made, only two drops of gelatinous material were obtained. The animal showed the same symptoms on the eighth day and was then killed.

The autopsy on this fifth monkey showed that there was an acute inflammation of the membrane of the spinal canal in the kidney region and a lesser inflammation in the spinal membrane about the neck. The blood vessels of the brain, cortex, and spinal cord were noticeably congested. There were homorrhages in the gray matter of the spinal cord, and hyperaemia was apparent in the cord, the medulla, the pons, the ventricles, and the basal ganglia.

The fourth monkey was then injected with a culture from the fifth monkey. The sixth money also received an injection of the same solution. Both became violently ill and manifested all the symptoms of infantile paralysis. Dr. Neustaedter showed stereopticon slides of sections taken from both the fourth and sixth monkey, as well as photographs of them in various stages of their illness. These slides convinced the doctors present that the monkeys had the disease.

Conclusions from the Experiments.

Summing up the results of the experiments, Dr. Neustaedter said that the first monkey had been injected with sweepings and had given no results; that the second monkey had been injected with sweepings, and had given results of doubtful but apparently negative value; that the third monkey had been injected with sweepings, and had given results of doubtful but of apparently positive value; that the fifth monkey had been injected with sweepings, and had given results of undoubtedly positive value; that the fourth monkey had been injected with apparently virulent mucous, and had given results of no value with sweepings and had given evidences of the disease from which he recovered, and had been injected with emulsions from the brain and spinal cord of the fifth monkey, and had contracted the disease in a violent form, and that this last experiment, injecting an emulsion of the brain and spinal cord of an infected monkey into the sixth monkey, had caused the disease to manifest itself in an indisputable way in him.

Dr. Rosenbluth, speaking of the 117 cases of the disease which had come under his observation at Beth Israel and Mount Sinai Hospitals, said he had taken pains to learn the original diagnosis of each case, and that in 65 per cent. of the cases the diagnosis had characterized the disease as of the upper air passages, and in 35 per cent. as of the intestinal tract. From this he gathered that the disease was one communicated by dust. He indorsed Dr. Neustaedter's theories. Dr. Strauss said that the disease might be compared with tuberculosis, also a dust disease, which is frequently taken into the system through the intestinal tract. Dr. Hastings and others concurred in this view.

BRIG. GEN. HOYT WEDS NURSE

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 10.—Following a romance that began not so very long ago in St. Paul, Brig. Gen. Ralph Wilson Hoyt, U. S. A., Commander of the Department of the Lakes, and Miss Cora McKeever Harbold of Dillsburg, York County, Penn., a trained nurse, were married this afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas D. Richardson, 423 Wister Street, Germantown.

Only a very few intimate friends were present, and the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Long, pastor of the Methodist Church at Dillsburg, and an old friend of the Harbold family. Gen. Hoyt is 62 years old, and his bride is 32.

Miss Harbold's mother, Mrs. Mary Harbold, lives in Harrisburg. The bride came here from Dillsburg and was graduated from the Orthopedic Hospital. After receiving her diploma, she nursed here for a time, and then went West. She has a brother, Lieut. Robert H. Harbold, U. S. A., who is on duty at St. Paul under Gen. Hoyt.

Some time ago Miss Harbold went to visit her brother, and while there she met the General. The General has many friends in this city, but few of them knew anything about the marriage. He left Chicago a few days ago without announcing where he was going, and when he arrived here he went immediately to the home of the Richardsons in Germantown, where Miss Harbold has been visiting for the last few weeks. This afternoon in the library of the Richardson home the ceremony took place. There were only half a dozen persons present, including the clergyman. Immediately after the ceremony the General and his bride hurried away in an automobile. Where they will spend their honeymoon is unknown beyond the announcement made at the house that they were going West and that they will occupy apartments in St. Paul.

MEMORIAL MEETING IN A PARK

Stover Selects the Battery as the Proper Place to Honor Dead Friend.

A memorial meeting for Dr. Theodore Ruggles Timby, the inventor of the revolving turret, will be held at 2:30 to-morrow afternoon in Battery Park. Commissioner Stover selected the park as a suitable place to honor the memory of the inventor and his friends, for Dr. Timby told the Commission that it was in Battery Park in 1841 where he used to sit and watch the ships passing, that the idea of a revolving turret for fighting vessels came to him. Dr. Timby died on Nov. 9, 1909.

The stand for the speakers will be the band stand which is within a few feet of the statue of John Ericsson, the builder of the Monitor.

The speakers will be the Rev. Dr. H. Allen Tupper, Park Commissioner Stover, Will Carleton, the poet; the Rev. Dr. I. K. Funk, and the Rev. Dr. H. M. Wharton of Baltimore.

SHUSTER USES FORCE.

Ex-Shah's Brother's Property Seized in Spite of Russian Consul's Protest.

TEHERAN, Oct. 10.—The property of Shua-Es-Sultaneh, brother of the ex-Shah of Persia, was to-day seized, by order of Treasurer General Shuster. The National Council ordered that the property be confiscated, but Gen. Darmes, who was sent yesterday to take possession, was opposed by a body of Cossacks, headed by two Russian Consulate officers, who threatened to open fire.

The matter was then referred to the Russian Minister, who was asked to give a decision by 10 o'clock this morning. No decision was forthcoming, and the Treasurer General, after notifying the Minister, dispatched 100 gendarmes, under an American officer, who seized the property. The Persian Cossacks retired. The Russian Consul General strongly objected to the procedure, stating that the property was mortgaged to a Russian bank.

CAGED IN POST OFFICE LIFT.

Three Women and Twelve Men Had to Climb Down a Ladder.

Three women, eleven men, and the operator were imprisoned yesterday morning in one of the elevators in the Post Office Building, when it stuck between the second and third floors. The car projected for about half its length below the ceiling of the second floor, and nothing that could be done would budge it. It was an hour and a half before the passengers were extricated, but as there was no risk they took the matter very coolly after the first shock, notwithstanding the closeness of their quarters.

The accident occurred about 11:30, and the elevator was filled to its capacity. Several persons had crowded into the car at the third floor, and as soon as Charles Schep, the operator, turned on the power he realized that something was wrong.

The car began to fall at far more than its ordinary speed. The women passengers shrieked a little, but happily the car fell only fifteen feet before it stopped with a jerk as the safety clutches took effect.

Word ran through the building that one of the elevators had fallen, and there was a rush of employes to see what had happened. Postmaster Morgan and Assistant Postmaster Murphy ran out with their clerks, and inquiries were called down the shaft to learn if any one was hurt. Reassuring answers were shouted back, and the work of getting the passengers out began. At the suggestion of Postmaster Morgan ladders were brought into requisition. The grillwork along the side of the car was cut away with cold chisels. The first to emerge from the cage and to crawl slowly down the ladder amid the cheers of the onlookers was Miss G. C. Regan, an employe of the postal money order department. Next came Miss Teresa Swenson, telephone operator in the office of District Attorney Wise. Then her sister, Marie, a stenographer in the same office, followed. The men came forth last, dusty and disheveled but cheerful.

AFTER OTHER POLICEMEN.

More Disclosures Like That in the Horay Case May Be Made.

At the request of William Murphy, counsel for ex-Policeman Reuben R. Huntington, who was dismissed from the force by Commissioner Waldo on Monday, the criminal charge against him will be tried before Judge T. C. T. Crain in General Sessions next Monday, instead of before Judge Edwin Swann. Huntington is co-defendant in the case of the People against John Horay, who was convicted of robbing John Kondratiuck, a Russian, of $340. Horay made a confession, in which he said that he was assisted in the robbery by Huntington and that eight other policemen committed perjury when they testified that on the day of the crime they saw Huntington in the Union Market Station.

A reason given by Mr. Murphy for asking that the case be tried before another Judge was that Judge Swann had openly stated that Huntington was equally guilty with Horay.

It was announced at Police Headquarters yesterday that Detective James J. Burke of the East Twenty-second Street Station had been suspended from duty by Commissioner Waldo for conduct unbecoming an officer while investigating the Horay case. Evidence taken during the Horay trial was to the effect that Burke, instead of trying to run down the persons guilty of the robbery, tried to cover it up when he learned that Huntington was involved in it.

Judge Swann is still examining witnesses in the case, and it is rumored that some startling disclosures concerning persons holding positions at the Criminal Court Building and involving several other cases will be made in a short time. Judge Swann refused yesterday to make any statement.

HUGH GRANT'S WILL UPHELD.

Supreme Court Decree, in Friendly Suit, Confirms Widow's Life Interest.

A jury sitting before Supreme Court Justice Blanchard was directed yesterday to return a verdict that a will dated June 4, 1902, and admitted to probate Nov. 30, 1910, was the last will and testament of Hugh J. Grant, once Mayor of New York.

The will gives to Mrs. Julie Grant, the ex-Mayor's widow, a life interest in the residuary estate, with power to dispose of it in her will. The proceedings, counsel said, were friendly and purely formal, and had been instituted to have the will established by a Supreme Court judgment.

RAILROADS IN A DEAL TO GET STATE LAND

Osborne at Albany Inquiry Tells of Transfer to New York Central and Delaware & Hudson.

PART OF CANAL SYSTEM

Central Has Freight Yard Now in Albany Basin—Delaware Deal Not Yet Put Through.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, Oct. 10.—In the new grist from the political mill of William Barnes, Jr., Republican boss of Albany, brought forward to-day by James W. Osborne, Inquisitor-in-Chief of the Senate Committee investigating Albany city and county affairs, was a story of a deal through which, by the action of a Republican State Legislature, a Republican States Land Board, and the city authorities of Albany, the State was to be despoiled of about seventeen acres of land under water—part of the canal system—for the benefit of the New York Central and the Delaware & Hudson Railroad.

The constitution, to be sure, prohibits the State authorities from disposing of any canal lands, but from the story Mr. Osborne and his public records told, it soon became apparent that it never occurred to the parties to this scheme for enriching the two railroads to let the constitution stand in their way, any more than the invalidity of bonds issued by the City of Albany for "public improvements" prevented the State Controller from placing them in the Canal Sinking Fund, as long as it was kown that the proceeds were to be used to improve a highway over which Mr. Barnes's motor car could glide smoothly to his bungalow beyond the city limits.

The lands under water, which figure in to-day's narrative, are situated in what is known as the Albany basis, formerly the terminal of the old barge canal. The story came with additional force because—as Mr. Osborne pointed out—the State at present is preparing to spend $19,500,000 for canal terminal purposes.

Land Deeded to New York Central.

The manoeuvres by which the New York Central obtained its portion of the basin lands began in 1895, when the Legislature passed an act authorizing the State Land Board to deed the acres at the northern end of the basin to the New York Central. The transfer did not occur until 1901, however, when Gov. Odell, as head of the Land Board, signed it.

It was two years later that Walter Melius, who has been City Engineer in Albany since 1900, began to prepare a map on which there appeared a new bulkhead line in the basin, some fifty feet from the shore. Mr. Osborne pointed out that there appeared to be not the slightest authority for this, and that the bulkhead line, which has served the railroads so well in their efforts to obtain terminal facilities, was altogether arbitrarily established.

Mr. Osborne had City Engineer Melius on the stand to-day and plied him with questions regarding the 1903 bulkhead line. As far as his testimony was concerned, it failed to show any authorization from the city administration to establish the bulkhead line.

"Did you consult anybody about it?" asked Mr. Osborne.

"Well," said Mr. Melius, "I think I talked to some Senators. Senator Malby, I remember, was one. He wanted us to fill it all in, but I urged them not to do so. I asked them to give us an appropriation for the purpose of establishing the new bulkhead line to furnish more symmetrical lines and a current to keep the basin clean. We asked for $60,000, and I think we got $20,000."

In 1906, Senator McEwan, now the Republican Mayor of Albany, introduced a bill in the Legislature conferring on the Land Board power to transfer to the city of Albany all the interest of the State in the lands under water at the south end of Albany basin, and to give the city authorities power to transfer the lands to the riparian owners. The Delaware & Hudson Railroad was the largest of these.

Again the Republican Land Board did what was expected from it. The city of Albany took possession of the south end of the basin on Nov. 22, 1906. Not a word, according to Mr. Osborne, was said at the time the bill passed, or when the Land Board transferred the property that it would go to the Delaware & Hudson for terminal facilities. The first heard of this was when Mayor McEwan recommended the reclamation of the Albany basin, out to the arbitrary bulkhead line of Engineer Melius, to provide adequate freight terminal facilities for the two railroads entering Albany.

"This shows," said Mr. Osborne, "that the Senator, who since became Mayor, had the freight yard project in mind when he introduced the bill in 1906. I cannot divine motives, but the fact that nothing was said gives the whole affair an ugly appearance."

Otto Kelsey Called.

When the committee resumed work this morning Senator Bayne of Richmond, Chairman of the committee, called ex-Deputy Controller Otto Kelsey. Mr. Kelsey was asked under what circumstances he had been prevailed upon to take over for the State from Controller Fuller of Albany $102,000 worth of bonds (of the Western Avenue Barnes bungalow issue) after Delafield & Longfellow of New York had pronounced them invalid.

Mr. Kelsey proved a witness of very short memory. The substance of his testimony was that he must have felt satisfied that the bonds were all right or he would not have taken them, but by what process of reasoning he reached the conclusion did not appear.

A mild sensation was created when Senator Wainwright, who is the only Republican member of the committee, announced that he had received from Mr. Barnes the deeds to his bungalow property, showing that this had not been transferred to him until January, 1909, or three years after Western Avenue had been paved with brick. Mr. Osborne protested against receiving the deeds in evidence on the ground that without the testimony of Mr. Barnes himself they proved nothing. Mr. Osborne intimated that the purchase might have been negotiated long before title was passed.

"It seems to me that if this is the same Mr. Barnes—" ventured Senator Fiero, a member of the committee.

"Oh, it's the same Barnes, all right," interrupted Mr. Osborne. "It isn't Mr. Barnes of New York, and there is only one Mr. Barnes of Albany."

This raised a laugh, amid which Mr. Osborne declared his regret that Mr. Barnes was not on hand so that he could ask him about the deeds. It is regarded as certain that Mr. Barnes will be called as a witness at an early date.

LOSES MUTUAL LIFE FIGHT.

Rosenblatt's Appeal for Review of Election Is Decided Against Him.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 10.—In Supreme Court to-day Justice Chester denied the application of Sol Rosenblatt of Chicago to review the election of Trustees of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York. Rosenblatt was the only candidate for the election of Trustee on the Policy Holders' ticket, and as he received 2,200 votes, while the whole thirty-six candidates on the Administration ticket received 13,000 votes, he contended that he should be declared a member of the board. He made the further contention that six of the men on the Administration ticket were ineligible because they are not policy holders.

Justice Chester in his opinion states that there is nothing in the laws of the State or charter of the company which requires that Trustees shall be policy holders.

The Children's Society's Work.

The Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, commonly known as the Gerry Society, according to reports submitted yesterday at its Directors' meeting, received during the five Summer months 7,621 complaints, and out of 2,924 prosecutions obtained 2,460 convictions, while the society's reception room sheltered 4,458 boys and girls. Heavy prison terms were imposed in vicious cases, seven offenders against children being sent to reformatories and two deported.

The society's officers reported that moving-picture show proprietors now understand the law better and regulate their places so well that complaints against them have become rare.

CLOSE PIER TO SUFFRAGISTS.

Customs Officials Refuse to Give Passes to a Pankhurst Delegation.

Mrs. Pankhurst, leader of the English suffragettes, will arrive here on the Oceanic this morning, and if she is received only by the people for whom passes have been issued there will be exactly four. That will be in place of a large delegation waving purple and white and green flags, which the Women's Political Union had planned. It is under the auspices of the union that Mrs. Pankhurst is to speak at the Academy of Music, Brooklyn, next Tuesday. Mrs. John Winters Brannan, one of the union's prominent members, will be Mrs. Pankhurst's hostess.

Mrs. Stanton Blatch, President of the union; Miss Elizabeth Cook, and Mrs. Arthur F. Townsend made the application for passes at Room 115 at the Custom House yesterday afternoon. The small boy who presided over the place received them cheerfully, with upraised pen, ready to strike off all the passes they wanted, until Mrs. Pankhurst's name was mentioned. Then he gasped and looked around helplessly as if in search of the police. He finally gave the women to understand that they must see the Surveyor of the Port. Gen. Henry was not in, but Secretary Ashby was there, and received them with what they considered scant civility.

"This office has issued two passes for Mrs. Pankhurst's hostess," he said, "and one for the manager of her lecture tour, and that is enough."

Mrs. Blatch urged an old acquaintance with Mrs. Pankhurst, and the union's desire to give her a welcome as a distinguished person.

"There are differences of opinion as to who is a distinguished individual," replied Secretary Ashby.

"Don't you issue six passes for every individual coming from Europe?" asked Mrs. Townsend. "Seven persons came to meet me when I reached New York in July."

"You have all the passes you'll get," said Mr. Ashby.

Miss Cook got one pass in the name of Miss Pethick, but when Mrs. Townsend asked for one in the same name the customs agents learned that Miss Pethick accompanied Mrs. Pankhurst and refused.

The members of the union are determined to meet Mrs. Pankhurst, and are very indignant at the treatment they say they received.

The resolution permitting the members of the union to parade with sandwich boards in Brooklyn announcing Mrs. Pankhurst's lecture was passed by the Aldermen yesterday afternoon.

BIG POKER GAME ON A LINER.

Thousand-Dollar Bets a-Plenty on the Mohawk Coming Up the Coast.

A poker game, the stakes in which are said to have been the largest ever waged on board a coastwise vessel, was played on the Clyde liner Mohawk on the voyage from Jacksonville that ended here yesterday. The game was participated in by several well-known Southerners. It started soon after the Mohawk left Jacksonville and, with a few short intervals for food and sleep, did not stop until the Mohawk had passed in at Sandy Hook and was well on her way to her North River pier.

Many of the bets were as high as $1,000. The largest pot, which totaled more than $3,000 was won with three kings, the man who raised it to that figure doing so with a king high four flush. It was said that a majority of the pots averaged more than $500.

The Mohawk brought the Florida delegation for the Glidden automobile tour, which starts next Saturday. Among those in the delegation were Herbert B. Race, President of Jacksonville Motor Club, and one of the prominent bankers of Florida; Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Carter, Stockston Broom, Julian Howard, Edward Corey, Col. Frank Harris, Edward Ainsley, and Miss Laura Ainsley. The party is at the Hotel Martinique.

SIX LINERS COME IN LATE.

All Delayed a Day by Heavy Weather on the Atlantic.

The fleet of transatlantic liners due in New York on Monday came into port yesterday morning. They were the Rotterdam from Rotterdam, the Berlin from Naples, Rhein from Bremen, Saxonia from Liverpool, Kroonland from Antwerp, and the Luisiana from Naples. Rough weather was responsible for their delay. While the belated ships were coming in the Kronprinzessin Cecilie of the North German Lloyd Line came along on schedule time.

All but the Luisiana brought a full quota of passengers, the total on the seven being 6,802, about equally divided between the cabin and steerage. The Rotterdam brought the largest number of cabin passengers, having 922, while the Kronprinzessin Cecilie ran second with 834 in her cabins. The Rhein brought 332, the Saxonia 301, the Berlin 504, the Kroonland 434, while the cabin passenger list of the Luisiana numbered 23.

MRS. VON CLAUSSEN HELD.

Committed to Bellevue for Examination as to Her Mental Condition.

Magistrate Herbert in the Tombs Court yesterday sent Mrs. Ida von Claussen, who gained considerable notoriety through her attempt to have Col. Roosevelt arrested for conspiracy, to the psychopathic ward at Bellevue Hospital for examination as to her mental condition. She said she would appeal to the Emperor of Germany for protection.

Mrs. von Claussen's commitment to Bellevue resulted from a telegram she sent to Justice Greenbaum in the Supreme Court on Monday during the trial of her action for divorce against Dr. William F. Honan, in which she said:

"Justice and liberty is all I ask. If foul play marks your reason, God help you."

She got a divorce in South Dakota in 1905, but contended that she was not a legal resident of that State, and wanted the verdict set aside so that she could sue for divorce here.

When called to the stand yesterday she said in explanation of her conduct before Justice Greenbaum:

"I expected the divorce suit to be the culmination of my legal troubles. I have had seven other lawyers, and Mr. Robinson is the only one who could get me into court. Justice Greenbaum took personal issue with me rather than make a Supreme Court decision. I am fighting for a divorce and for the custody of my child and also for a chance to re-marry."

"BOSS" KUEHNLE INDICTED.

Atlantic City Postmaster Also Named in Graft and Election Cases.

Special to The New York Times.

MAY'S LANDING, N. J., Oct. 10.—The indictments found yesterday by the Special Grand Jury which has been investigating election frauds and graft in Atlantic County were announced to-day. The Court House held its biggest throng of visitors, a special train having been run from Atlantic City. Among those indicted were Louis Kuehnle, the Republican "boss"; Postmaster Bacharach of Atlantic City, and members of the County Road Committee. The indictments announced were:

Freeholders John Unsworth, Frank Enderlin, Lewis Mason, Harry May, and F. Fraley Doughty, and County Engineer E. D. Rightmire for conspiring to obtain "graft" by withholding payment to the contractor on road improvements; Frank Bowman for voting twice; "Boss" Kuehnle for awarding a contract for water mains as a member of the Water Commissioners to the United Paving Company, of which he was a stockholder; Kuehnle again, with Postmaster Bacharach, William Lutton, Charles Cramer, Charles Cornish, and Harry Haeberly, for conspiracy, with Thomas McDevitt and George Amole, to pervert elections; Richard McNally, Charles Magill, Harry Dougherty, James Somers, and John Mahoney, jointly and separately, for aiding and abetting Earl Hughes to vote illegally; John McIntyre and David Henderson for violation of the election laws.

Counsel George A. Bourgeois convinced the court that Bacharach, who is a candidate for Mayor of Atlantic City, should have an early trial and the date was fixed for Oct. 24, when the other defendants, "Boss" Kuehnle, City Clerk Donnelly and others, will be tried jointly.

URGE RECIPROCITY WITH SOUTH AMERICA

John Barrett and J. P. Santamarina Say Our Trade There Is Sadly Neglected.

ENGLAND TO THE FORE

Her Commercial Interests Quick to See the Opportunities Offered in Argentina.

The first American Trade Conference in this city was held yesterday afternoon in the West Twenty-third Street Young Men's Christian Association Building. J. P. Santamarina, who was a delegate to the Pan-American Conference at Washington last February, told a small audience of business men how great is the need for livelier commercial relations between this country and South America.

"The import of American goods is not absolutely indespensable in the Argentine Republic, but highly desirable if equitable conditions can be adjusted," he said. "Knowledge of the South American trade mechanism is the only medium whereby the United States manufacturers and exporters can possibly establish firm connections and sound increase of trade.

"How to foster the South American markets has long remained a secret to the majority of the American exporters, and the means must be clearly comprehended if closer commercial and friendly intercourse is desirable. Reciprocity, based upon universal approval, may become the result of a keen and careful study of mutual conditions."

John Barrett, former Minister from this country to Argentina, had laid stress on reciprocity when he introduced Mr. Santamarina.

"I was in Canada, and went from coast to coast," he said, "and I know that it was the annexation bogey that killed reciprocity. This is unfortunate in itself, and most unfortunate because of its possible influence on our sister republics in this hemisphere. I am interested in that because it is part of my work as Director General of the Pan-American Union to watch the Pan-American spirit as a doctor does a patient.

"Go back, Mr. Santamarina, to Argentina and spread the word there that in this country there is no spirit of territorial aggrandizement. The United States, I know, is interested rather in the independence and integrity of her sister republics. Tell them so. Though buffeted by Canada, I believe that the time will come when we will have reciprocity in trade with Argentina, with Peru, Chile, Brazil, and Mexico."

Mr. Santamarina interpreted the defeat of reciprocity in Canada as showing that we are more feared than loved, and he suggested that the United States might ponder that significance in the discussion of peace treaties. For his own part, he believed that no amount of sentiment would make for peace in this world so much as the bonds of continuous and intertwining commerce. Such a commercial relation, he said, should exist between this country and Argentina, and that this might be brought about, he left with his audience this injunction:

"Study us as we study you."

Then he described some of the wonders of the Argentine Republic, whose exports have increased 225 per cent. in ten years and whose imports have increased 300 per cent. in the same period. He said that the pity of it is that the United States shares to such a small degree in all that business, while England has improved the opportunity, and there is not a large business house in any of the European cities that has not its representative in Buenos Aires. But what of the United States?

"You don't care," he said. "You say you can live anyway. But how long can you live?"

Mr. Santamarina took much to heart the slenderness of his audience. There were not a hundred and fifty persons present, and of these some seemed to be Young Men's Christian Association members who had dropped in to see what was going on.

"When I speak in Buenos Aires they have to call the police to handle the overflow," said Mr. Santamarina. "I am glad that Mr. Root, who has done so much for closer relations between his country and mine, is not here to see the size of this audience. He would feel so sad. But let me tell you that despite all my efforts, I scanned the papers in vain to-day to find any notice of this conference. If it had not been for lack of newspaper support, I should not have been talking here to empty walls."

Many topics were touched upon by the speakers, and special emphasis was given to the advisability of this country sharing in commercial expositions in Argentina, and of maintaining permanent commercial exhibition rooms at Buenos Aires.

NEW PRESIDENT AT FORDHAM

Father McCluskey Succeeds Father Quinn as Head of the University.

The Rev. Thomas J. McCluskey was installed in the Presidency of Fordham University yesterday. He succeeds the Rev. Daniel J. Quinn, who held the office for six years. The installation consisted in the two priests changing seats at the dinner table.

Father McCluskey comes from St. Francis Xavier's College in West Sixteenth Street, where he was President. He received the appointment to Fordham only recently, the nomination coming from the General of the Jesuit order in Europe.

CUBAN WARSHIPS LAUNCHED.

Two Vessels, Nucleus of Island's Navy, Are Named by Gomez's Daughters.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 10.—Cramps shipyard had a double launching this afternoon when the Cuba and the Patria, which constitute the beginning of the Cuban navy, took their initial plunge into the waters of the Delaware.

The official party included Senorita Marina Gomez, sponsor for the Cuba, and her sister, Senorita Narcisca Gomez, sponsor for the Patria, both daughters of President Gomez of Cuba. They were assisted by their sisters, Petronilla, the bride of Dr. De Mencia, and Manuela, the wife of Julio Morales Coello, Secretary of the Cuban Navy.

The Cuba is a protected cruiser 265 feet long, with 95 feet beam. The Patria is a training ship, 200 feet long and 34 feet beam, and has a displacement of 1,200 tons. She will carry ten guns.

The new torpedo boat destroyer Patterson, which was delivered to the Government last Saturday by the Cramp Shipbuilding Company, was to-day placed in commission at the Philadelphia Navy Yard. The Patterson represents a highly advanced type and is one of the fastest vessels in the world. On her builders' trial trip she developed an average speed of nearly thirty-five knots an hour.

OFFERED BAD CHECK AND THEN RAN AWAY

Man Wanted to Leave It as Deposit for Diamonds, but Got Scared.

FORGERY PLANT IN POCKETS

Loaded with "Certified" Checks and Others in Blank—Also a Lot of "Gold Bonds."

A well-dressed young man appeared in the salesroom of the jewelry firm of Ludwig Nissen & Co., on the second floor of 182 Broadway, about noon yesterday and asked to see some diamond pendants. He presented a card of "H. Linderman & Co., 60 Wall Street, Bankers and Brokers, and Managers of Associated Underwriter Corporations," with which firm he said he was connected. He also presented a card of introduction from Sloan & Co., jewelers, of 21-23 Maiden Lane.

"I wish you would lay aside these two diamond pendants for me," he said to John W. Ruefer, Secretary of the firm, who waited on him. "I'll return within an hour with a certified check for $2,023.50 to cover both. I want to take them both to my wife, so that she can decide which she prefers, and then I'll return one of them, provided you agree to remit my payment on it."

Mr. Ruefer consulted Mr. Nissen, President of the firm, and it was agreed that the stranger could have the two pendants under the conditions which he had suggested.

About 1 o'clock the stranger returned with the check for $2,023.50. It was drawn on the Chelsea Exchange Bank and was apparently certified, but the signature could not be clearly made out. Mr. Ruefer asked the stranger whether he would object to his calling up the bank on the telephone for further identification.

"Why, no," replied the stranger, "but there can't be any question about a certified check, can there?"

Notwithstanding this implied protest Mr. Ruefer, placing the check on the counter in front of the stranger, proceeded to the telephone. In a moment he was sorry he had not retained the check, for he saw the stranger grab it and run out of the door.

Immediately the salesroom of Ludwig Nissen & Co. was forsaken. Not only Ruefer and Emil Knopf, Vice President of the firm, and two office boys, named Otis Davis and Albert McGarry, joined in the pursuit of the stranger, but Mr. Nissen himself was at the head of the chase. He succeeded in catching hold of the stranger's overcoat, but lost his hold and very nearly went head foremost down the stairs. South on Broadway the chase continued, hundreds following, when the cry of "Stop thief!" was taken up. At Maiden Lane and Broadway stood Lieut. Detective Michael Summers. He made for the fleeing man, but did not succeed in tripping him until he reached Cortlandt and Greenwich Streets. There he placed him under arrest and then took him back to the jewelry shop, from which he had made his unexpected dash with the check.

A cursory search was made there. In one of the prisoner's pockets was found a regulation stamp for certifying checks. It bore the initials "C. N. B." very minutely engraved. They were so indistinct that they would easily pass for the initials of the Chelsea Exchange Bank. The stamp also bore a weird signature, such as was on the check which had been presented in payment for the two diamond pendants. There were four other checks and three pawn tickets.

While the prisoner was being detained in the office of the jewelry firm, Mr. Nissen called up the Chelsea Exchange Bank, and was told that no check such as the stranger had offered had been certified at the bank. Mr. Nissen also called up A. K. Sloan of Sloan & Co., who had furnished the card of introduction. Mr. Sloan, according to Mr. Nissen, said that he knew the man only slightly and that his name was Albert Linderman. He said that Linderman had come to him and asked for an eight-hundred-dollar diamond pendant of a certain kind which Sloan & Co. did not have in stock, and that he had then referred him to Ludwig Nissen & Co., with which firm Sloan & Co. were on friendly terms.

Mr. Nissen also called up Jacobson Brothers, jewelers of 65 Nassau Street. One of the checks, in the amount of $1,600, was made out to this firm. In answer to Mr. Nissen's inquiry, it was said that a man answering Linderman's description had selected $1,600 worth of jewelry at Jacobson Brothers' shop, stating that he would return later and present a certified check for it. This check was made out in the same manner as the one which was offered to Nissen & Co.

At the Old Slip Police Station the prisoner said he was Herman Linderman, a broker, 27 years old, married, of 946 Freeman Street, the Bronx, with offices with the firm of H. Linderman & Co., bankers and brokers of 60 Wall Street. This address, the police say, is fictitious, and they assert that no such firm exists in New York.

A careful search of the prisoner brought forth gold bonds of the Metals Reduction Company of America of the face value of $9,000. In an inside pocket was found a complete outfit for making out and certifying checks. There was a rubber stamp, an ink pad, a fountain pen, a blotter, and a sheaf of blank checks. Aside from the large check made out to Jacobson Brothers there was another, for $873, apparently in the same writing, but signed differently, made out to A. H. Lehman. Two other checks, all of them drawn on the same bank, were for smaller amounts. There was also a bankbook made out to A. Kneudel, showing a deposit of $630. A little more than $2 in cash was found in Linderman's pockets.

Later he was arraigned before Magistrate Herbert, in the Tombs Court, and held in $4,000 bail for examination on Friday next, on the charge of attempted grand larceny.

DRIVING OUT FALSE SCALES.

Commissioner Walsh Tells How He Is Watching Weights and Measures.

John L. Walsh, Commissioner of Weights and Measures, was the principal speaker at the Budget Exhibit, at 330 Broadway, yesterday. He explained the workings of his department, and how fraudulent scales, weights, and measures had been seized, and the dealers made to conform with the law, and give the public a square deal.

"Every scale, weight, and measure in New York is going to be inspected at least once a year," said the Commissioner. He had a large map showing how records were kept of the various districts inspected, and how he had perfected a system of having his Inspectors drop into a store without warning.

"Formerly," he said, "the Inspectors had a regularly laid out route, and as soon as they entered the first store of this route the word was sent along, and when they reached the other stores all false weights, measures, and scales had been hidden. But now the Inspectors will be in this part of their district, and tomorrow at the other end of it."

The Commissioner told of how the farmers, after thousands of their bushel baskets had been burned up, had been made to conform to the use of a standard basket that gave full measure.

FRIENDLY BANK EXAMINER.

State Official Admits He Was on Terms of Intimacy with the Union's President.

Melburn W. Hutchins, Chief Examiner of the State Banking Department, was examined yesterday by Attorney James C. Cropsey at the Union Bank inquiry in Brooklyn. He admitted that he was an intimate friend of David A. Sullivan, former President of the Mechanics and Traders' Bank, and at the latter's invitation took several automobile trips with him. This friendship continued until 1909. Then he heard something which led him to believe, he said, that Sullivan "was not perfectly on the square."

The Banking Department, according to the witness, had been urging Sullivan to give up the second mortgage business. It would be disastrous in the end, he was told, although Hutchins said the Banking Department could not legally prevent it. Some time in the Summer of 1909 Hutchins heard that two holding companies had been formed to do the second mortgage business of the bank.

"Then the thought struck me that they were trying to fool the department," said Hutchins, "and with that belief I told Mrs. Hutchins that we must break our friendship with the Sullivans. I haven't met him since, except two or three times in Broadway."

STRIKERS RETURN TO SHOPS.

Kruttschnitt Says Harriman Roads Are in Good Shape.

Julius Kruttschnitt, Director of Maintenance of the Union Pacific, was at the New York office of the company yesterday. He says that the strike of the shopmen appears to be over, as far as the company is concerned, and that the men are fast returning to work. None of the company's repair work was sent to equipment manufacturing companies as a result of a stortage of machinists, and the equipment is in excellent shape, he reports.

Excepting the few instances of violence at the beginning of the trouble, there has been no interruption to traffic.

'BLACK HAND FOX' QUICKLY CONVICTED

Takes Jurors Eight Minutes to Decide That Costabile Was a Bomb Carrier.

WITNESSES SCARED AWAY

People's Case Rests on Police Testimony Alone—Leading Attorney for Defense to Cry Conspiracy.

Giuseppe Costabile, known as "The Fox of the Black Hand," was convicted before Judge Foster in General Sessions yesterday on the charge of carrying a bomb after the jury had been out for only eight minutes. Costabile was put on trial Monday, and all the evidence in the case was produced yesterday. He was convicted upon police evidence alone, and his counsel, James E. Brande, attempted to show that there was a conspiracy against his client.

Detective Carreo told of arresting Costabile on Sept. 5 while Costabile was walking along the street with a bomb under his coat. This bomb, according to the testimony of Dr. Daghue, a chemist of the Bureau of Combustibles, contained sufficient powder to shatter a house and kill all the people nearby.

Detectives Castano and Dondero testified to the same facts as Detective Carreo, and then Assistant District Attorney Wasservogel announced that the People's case was all in. Mr. Wasservogel explained later that many of his witnesses had refused to come to court for fear that the "Mano Nera" would revenge "The Fox" if they should testify and he should be convicted.

Costabile, in his own defense, testified that he had never carried a bomb. He said he was on his way to get a prescription filled for his sick wife when he was arrested, and that he never saw the bomb until he reached Police Headquarters.

"Costabile, don't you know Bonoventura, the 'Adder,' who was arrested some time ago while in the act of lighting a bomb in a hallway?" asked Assistant District Attorney Wasservogel in cross-examination.

Costabile turned a shade paler as the interpreter mentioned Bonoventura, but did not have to answer as Mr. Brande objected and was sustained.

Mr. Wasservogel asked Costabile question after question about the Black Hand, naming several notorious Black Handers. Mr. Brande kept objecting and was reproved by the Court for the manner in which he did it.

Summing up, Mr. Brande insisted that the case against Costabile was a "frame-up" and that Costabile would not have dared to carry a bomb under his coat in the daytime as the prosecution's witnesses had testified.

Mr. Wasservogel, in reply, dealt with the facts of the case and ended by saying:

"Some one has committed perjury in this court this afternoon. I leave it to your good judgment as jurors to decide whether a man, who is facing a prison sentence, is less likely to lie than a police officer who is paid to protect the lives of the very persons who are sent to an early grave by such as this innocent defendant."

Judge Foster charged the jurors in five minutes, and they voted for conviction on the first ballot.

GUESTS OF THE SPHINX CLUB

Norman Mack and Augustus Thomas Have a Word to Say at Dinner.

With Norman E. Mack, Democratic National Chairman, and Augustus Thomas, the playwright, as guests of honor and principal speakers, the Sphinx Club held its first dinner of the season last night at the Waldorf-Astoria. About 100 members were present, and the evening was spent in songs, speech-making and professional entertainment, following a good dinner.

Mr. Thomas discussed advertising, since the Sphinx Club is composed of advertising managers. He said that no advertisement was a great advertisement which was not strictly truthful. Mr. Mack drew a laugh by saying that he had followed Bryan fourteen years and expected to be glad of it some day, as he expected to keep it up.

Some of those present were George B. Van Cleve, the new President, who was toastmaster; William Berri, publisher of The Brooklyn Standard-Union; Collin Armstrong, Gridley Ames, James F. Birmingham, F. C. Coleman, B. J. Greenhut, O. J. Gude, Samuel W. H. Goldberg, and John A. Sleicher, editor of Leslie's Weekly.

CLEARED OF KILLING BOY.

Jury Acquits Hickey, Who Shot at Band of Tormentors.

The jury in the case of Frederick Hickey, former Superintendent of the Donao Apartments, at 300 West Forty-ninth Street, who has been on trial before Judge Malone in General Sessions for the past week for manslaughter in the first degree, brought in a verdict of not guilty yesterday after it had been out for only five minutes.

Hickey was charged with killing fourteen-year-old Bartholomew Peluso of 312 West Forty-ninth Street on May 12. Witnesses for the defense testified that a band of boys besieged the Donac Apartments on the day of the shooting and threw ash cans and bottles into the basement, and after Hickey had twice told them to go away grew bolder in their attacks, even swearing at the tenants. Hickey thereupon drew a revolver and fired. Young Peluso was shot in the back, and Hickey contended he had only intended to scare the boys by shooting into the air.

TO RAZE VAN BEUREN HOME.

Old Landmark of Fourteenth Street at Last Crowded Out by Business.

One of New York's most interesting landmarks, the old Van Beuren mansion in Fourteenth Street, was dismantled yesterday and will shortly be torn down. In the spacious yard several of the trees, which for more than a generation have been the pride of Fourteenth Street, were being cut down, while rare pieces of furniture and other heirlooms from both the Spingler and Van Beuren families were being carried away in moving vans.

The merchants of Fourteenth Street could hardly realize that the closing days of the old house had come. Surrounded by stores and towering lofts and in the midst of the noise and bustle of one of the busiest shopping thoroughfares in the city, the members of the Van Beuren family have clung to the place tenaciously as their residence for three-quarters of a century.

The latest occupant was Frederick T. Van Beuren, a son of Col. Henry van Beuren, in whose lifetime the house was built more than seventy years ago. It is just west of Fifth Avenue on the north side of the street, and when it was built the neighborhood was the fashionable centre of the city.

From Tombs to Sue for Divorce.

Supreme Court Justice Pendleton signed yesterday a writ of habeas corpus on which Charles H. Van Winkle will be brought from the Tombs Prison to testify in his suit for divorce against Ruth Olive Van Winkle. He has named Jules R. Gimbernat as co-respondent. Van Winkle was sent to the Tombs from the Domestic Relations Court after refusing to pay his wife a certain weekly allowance.

Dining Room Furniture of Distinction

It was, perhaps, the innate refinement both in proportion and in detail that gave the Furniture designed by the Brothers Adam its Eighteenth Century vogue and makes it to-day as "modish" as when George III. was King.

What, for instance, can add a more pronounced air of distinction to the modern Dining Room than a pedestalled Sideboard, a Serving Table with its swell-front and delicately carven frieze, or a set of shield-back Chairs such as are to be found among our carefully exact Reproductions of the Furniture accredited to the famous architect brothers?

Orientals

The Largest Specialty
Rug House in America

Adventures in Rugs

The good rug weaver of Persia sticks to his weave more closely than a shoemaker sticks to his last.

Only those who are venturesome try to create NEW THINGS for the American and European market.

The results, in their finality, are nearly always disastrous.

A few years ago several weavers in one Persian district invented a new rug.

It had a peculiarly silken lustre and softness of color.

They approximated the richness of some of the best antiques; the weave itself was close and compact, indicating great wearing qualities.

For such high-priced rugs they found an unusual number of buyers in New York City, for the rugs appeared UNUSUALLY DESIRABLE.

What was the result?

Many of the rugs were sold at retail, under a Persian name one often sees in the rug advertisements today.

When they had been on the floor a few months in actual service they became as dull and murky as if they had seen five or six years' wear.

As long as they remained in the shops, WITHOUT WEAR, they retained their freshness and beauty. These rugs could hardly be considered a bargain at any price.

YET THIS SAME WEAVE HAS NEVER DISAPPEARED FROM THE NEW YORK MARKET.

They are Orientals, and every season some of them are brought to America by buyers who have not learned of their worthlessness.

It is impossible for ANY of the product of rug adventurers to creep into Wild's Orientals.

Their careful selection, from long experience and with the ability to differentiate between the good and bad, SAFEGUARDS YOU as well as the name of these rugs.

When you pay $100 for a Wild's Oriental—or $50, or $1,000—it has an intrinsic value of that amount.

Ex-Senator Hopkins's Secretary Tells Committee Why He Thinks They Were Bought.

$1,000 TO $2,500 OFFERED

Representative Groves Tells of Price in Assembly—Senatorial Rates Higher, According to Peffers.

CHICAGO, Oct. 10.—John M. Peffers of Aurora, former Secretary to ex-United States Senator Albert J. Hopkins, gave a new turn to the testimony in the Lorimer investigation before the Senate Commission late to-day when he named four men whom he suspected of voting improperly or corruptly for Senator Lorimer.

According to Peffers, the men were ex-State Senators B. F. Downing and William Fieldstack, and ex-Representatives Carl S. Burgett and Johnson Lawrence. Peffers testified that all but Fieldstack were followers of Mr. Hopkins.

"For the last month of that 1909 deadlock," said Peffers, "the whole idea of the Hopkins camp was to keep our men from being bought. I suspected several of the weak sisters in our camp. They were men that I thought could be improperly influenced."

Peffers began by naming ex-Senator Downing.

"Did you have any suspicion at that time that Mr. Downing voted corruptly?" asked Attorney Hanecy.

"Yes, I did," replied the witness. "He was the sort of man that the Lorimer forces were getting right along. He was drinking and was easily influenced."

Asked why he suspected Fieldstack, the witness replied:

"I thought Fieldstack had his hand out all the time. I met him in Chicago just before the opening of the legislative session, and I asked him if he would vote for Mr. Hopkins for Senator. To this he answered:

"'It cost me just $985 to get elected, and I've got to get that money back some way. I'm not for Mr. Hopkins or anybody like him; I'm out working for myself.'"

Peffers said, however, that he had no proof of corruption against any of these men.

State Senator Frank A. Landee of Moline was the first witness called. Attorney Healy interrogated him regarding the Senatorial deadlock at Springfield.

"I would like to call your attention to an alleged conversation with Charles Luke," said Healy. "Did you have such a conversation?"

"Yes," replied Landee, "I met Mr. Luke in a Springfield hotel a month or three weeks before Mr. Lorimer's election. I was on my way to Albert J. Hopkins's rooms in the hotel. Luke told me he could deliver ten votes provided conditions were right.

"I said to him, 'I thought you were going to vote for Hopkins.'

"He said, 'No, I am not. Hopkins won't come across.'"

HEAR STEPHENSON'S ACCUSER.

Senator Blaine Says His Charges Were Based on Hearsay.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 10.—State Senator John J. Blaine, testifying at the hearing on the election of United States Senator Isaac Stephenson to-day, admitted that the first six of the charges made by him against Senator Stephenson were based on hearsay information. He said he had received no information first hand, and he had brought the charges without a thorough investigation on his own part.

"So you were willing to make these charges, which, if proved true, might put Senator Stephenson in the penitentiary without a thorough investigation? You were willing to jeopardize Senator Stephenson on second-hand information?" asked Senator Heyburn.

"That's true," replied Blaine. "I hadn't time to investigate. From what I had heard, the presumption was that Senator Stephenson was using his campaign funds wrongfully."

How $2,500 was paid to State Game Warden J. W. Stone out of the campaign fund of United States Senator Isaac Stephenson and how Stone, to "cover up" what was done with the money, got his deputies to "pretend" to having received portions of it, was told to-day.

G. L. Kingsley, a Deputy Game Warden, during the Wisconsin primaries in 1908, when Senator Stephenson sought nomination, testified that in March, 1909, when the investigation by the State Legislature was under way, he was called to Stone's home at Madison. The meeting was called at midnight, and among those present were Deputy Game Wardens Kingsley, Johnson, and Richtmann, Assemblyman Thomas and Warden Stone. It was there agreed that each deputy should pretend he had received certain amounts.

In another part of the legislative proceedings it was brought out that $1,200 of the $2,500 which Stone received was paid to James O. Davidson, then Governor of Wisconsin, as a "campaign fund." Davidson's testimony at the legislative inquiry was that the money was put on his desk in envelopes, and not knowing what it was he put it aside for months until finally it found its way into his bank account.

LED INTO BIGAMY, HE SAYS.

Julius W. Kruger Resists Suit of Wife No. 2 on Ground of Duress.

Julius W. Kruger filed yesterday in the County Clerk's office his answer to the suit of Anne B. Kruger, asking that a receiver be appointed for the house at 221 East Eighteenth Street, and also that he be compelled to give her an accounting of income from the property since Nov. 26, 1907. The house, a four-story one, she says, is worth $5,000 and is on ground held on a long leasehold from the Rutherford Stuyvesant estate.

In his answer Kruger says that he was married in 1890 in Jersey City to Minnie Elizabeth Elfers. He says that she bore him three children, one of whom, Florence, born in February, 1894, is still living. The plaintiff in the action, he says, is Annie B. Loane, who entered the employ of his wife and himself as a servant, and continued as such for two years. His wife, he said, became very ill and had to be placed in hospitals in New York for treatment, remaining away from home almost continuously.

During her absence Annie B. Loane, he says, although she knew he was married and that his wife was alive, cajoled him into a bigamous marriage on Feb. 11, 1905. She had him arrested on Nov. 26, 1907, on the charge of assault, and after the case was adjourned told him that unless he gave her $8,000 in cash she would have him sent to State's prison for bigamy.

Kruger says he was without resources to pay any such sum, and was so terrified at the prospective ruination of his business and the disgrace to his wife and child that he lost control of his will. His bigamous wife proposed that he give her half of his property. He was advised, he says, by Bernard J. Isecke, his attorney, to execute an assignment of a half interest in his property and allow it to stand until the statute of limitations had outlawed his bigamy. Isecke told him, he said, that he could then come into court and have the assignment set aside on the ground of duress. Under these conditions, Kruger says, he signed the document on which the suit against him was brought.

ASK FOR MORE MARKETS.

Mayor Gaynor Declares His Approval of Consumers' Petition.

A delegation from the Producers' and Consumers' National League, headed by Meyer Schoenfeld, its organizer, called upon Mayor Gaynor yesterday to discuss the high cost of living and how it could be reduced through the establishment of more markets. They asked the Mayor to open markets for the farmers under the Williamsburg and Queensboro bridges on the Manhattan side.

The Mayor said he was entirely in sympathy with the plan, and talked at length on the high cost of food. He said:

> One of the great impediments of buying from the farmer and reducing the cost in the cities now is the way we have our houses heated. There is scarcely a house in the City of New York where a family lives that has not got a furnace in the cellar. I suppose you know that if you put a barrel of potatoes or of apples in that cellar in just about three days they are all shriveled up and unfit for use. Nor can you put meat there. Nor can you store any of the things that we are speaking of here. If I could buy my potatoes and vegetables and so on by the barrel or the bushel why I would save over 50 per cent. of the cost of living.
>
> Now, it is proper that I should say here that high prices, according to the history of the world, are not, as a rule, an evil. The prosperous periods of the world have always been periods of rising prices.

The Mayor added that he would be glad to have a committee appointed from the members of the league who appeared before him, in order to have the matter brought before the Sinking Fund Commission.

AMERICA CAN DEFEAT ANY ARMY, SAYS TAFT

While Urging World Peace, He Declares Our Military Resources Would Be Irresistible.

DINES AT BALLINGER'S HOME

Is for Giving Alaska Self-Government—Pacific Coast for Him, Says Humphries—Attends Snowden Christening.

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 10.—President Taft and party visited the Puget Sound Navy Yard at Bremerton, fifteen miles distant, inspected the new dock, and delivered an address to the warship crews and workmen this afternoon.

President Taft's two meetings here were the largest he has addressed since his present tour began. The street crowds were very large. When the President reached the Old City Hall he found thousands massed to listen to him. He spoke on the arbitration treaties.

"All the world is looking to us to lead in this great movement for permanent world peace. We have the resources to raise an army large and powerful enough to sweep any other army off the face of the earth," he said. "It is the same with our navy. We are not afraid of any other nation. We can lead the world in this peace movement, and we ought not to let anything prevent our taking that course."

Mr. Taft dined at the home of Richard A. Ballinger with a dozen other guests of the former Secretary of the Interior, and later left for Tacoma.

Alaska was the subject of a speech he made here last night, when he declared that Alaska should have at least a semi-self-governing body. Two years ago he said he had advocated here a straight commission form of Government for the territory.

"That proposition has not met approval," continued Mr. Taft. "I still think it the better way, but I am willing to make a concession for a partly elective and partly appointive form of Government in Alaska.

"I see no more reason for Government ownership in Alaska, however, than elsewhere. I favor the leasing system for the public domain."

Congressman Humphries, who introduced the President, declared that the people of the Pacific Coast "from British Columbia to Southern California, are for Mr. Taft." A great outburst of cheering followed.

The christening of the Snowden baby, whose mother is a niece of Mr. Taft, took place in the President's suite in the hotel. The Snowdens reside at Vancouver, B. C., and the baby is already famous because the mother came to Seattle so that the boy would be born in America, and be eligible to the Presidency. President Taft attended the wedding of his niece, who was Miss Louise Taft, daughter of Henry W. Taft of New York, and has always been greatly attached to her. The baby behaved admirably during the christening.

SURE OF TAFT'S NOMINATION.

President Certain to be the Republican Nominee, Says Longworth.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 10.—President Taft will be the nominee of the Republican Party for re-election to the Presidency "beyond the shadow of a doubt," says Congressman Nicholas Longworth of Ohio, who arrived here last night with Mrs. Longworth from Colon.

"There is confidence in the Republican ranks," added Mr. Longworth, "but the outcome of the approaching struggle between the two great political parties no man can foretell."

Policeman's Body Found in River.

BOSTON, Oct. 10.—The body of Patrolman William F. Frost, who disappeared from his home in Brighton Oct. 2, was found in the Charles River to-day. While irresponsible from a recent illness Frost evidently jumped into the river on the night he disappeared. Frost was married last month.

SEEK WAY TO LESSEN FACTORY DANGERS

State Investigators Hear from Croker That Fire Traps Are Now Building Here.

HE WOULD BAR ALL WOOD

Would Forbid Employes to Carry Matches—Other Lessons from the Washington Place Blaze.

The New York State Factory Investigating Committee, appointed by the Legislature after the Washington Place shirtwaist factory fire which cost 145 lives, to investigate factory conditions in this and other cities and to report remedial measures of legislation to prevent hazard or loss of life among employes through fire, insanitary conditions, and occupational diseases, began a week-long session in the Aldermanic Chamber at the City Hall yesterday. Abram I. Elkus, counsel for the commission, outlined the scope of the investigation. He declared that from year to year the number of unpreventable accidents in industry were becoming smaller and the number of preventable accidents larger.

"Occupational diseases, poisoning, and industrial consumption have practically been permitted to go on unchecked," he said. "Men are permitted to handle arsenic without gloves, to breathe ammonia and turpentine fumes without protection, to fill their lungs all day long with dust and other harmful substances. Charity ineffectively palliates what wise and just social legislation might effectively prevent."

The commission, Mr. Elkus said, was charged to inquire into the following matters:

> Hazard to life because of fire: covering such matters as fire prevention, inadequate fire escapes and exits, number of persons employed in factories and lofts, arrangement of machinery, fire drills, &c.
>
> Accident prevention: guarding of machinery, proper and adequate inspection of factories and manufacturing establishments.
>
> Danger to life and health because of insanitary conditions: ventilation, lighting, seating arrangement, hours of labor, &c.
>
> Occupational diseases: industrial consumption, lead poisoning, bone disease, &c.
>
> An examination of the present statutes and ordinances that deal with or relate to the foregoing matters, and to what extent the present laws are enforced.
>
> To recommend such new legislation as may be found necessary to remedy defects in existing legislation and to provide for conditions not now considered.

For the present, Mr. Elkus said, the commission would confine itself to the first subdivision, the investigation of danger to life because of fire in factories and manufacturing establishments. It hopes to complete its investigations into this phase by next February, when it is directed to report to the Legislature and to prepare a bill to remedy existing defects and dangers to life in factories. It will make recommendations to insure the reguular and systematic inspection of factories, and may suggest revisions of the labor law, where necessary, to obtain speedy and effective compliance with its provisions. The commission hopes, too, to report by Feb. 12 remedial legislation for the proper sanitation of factories and prevention of occupational diseases.

"It is the duty, however, of those who insist upon remedial legislation to establish beyond a reasonable doubt the actual facts of injurious conditions," said Mr. Elkus. "To do this the commission has obtained the services of experts on the fire problem, and on the far more intricate and important problem of sanitation in manufacturing plants. Many witnesses, employers as well as employes, will be examined."

Ex-Fire Chief Edward Croker, who testified yesterday, declared:

"The law should prohibit a stick of wood of any kind in any building—even for window casings and doors. I know this would save life. Many buildings built largely of wood and others now building are advertised to the public as 'fireproof,' when they are really 'fire traps.'"

The former Chief, who likes a good smoke himself, admitted that smoking caused many fires, but said it was almost impossible to prevent employes from smoking.

"The cigarette is a tonic," he said, "and they seem to be unable to get along without it."

He suggested, however, that employes be forbidden to carry matches in working hours, in order to prevent secret smoking and lessen the probabilities of fire. He urged also a strict enforcement of the rule against allowing rubbish and inflammable material to accumulate even a single day.

Asked by Mr. Elkus why all employers did not make use of fire drills, Mr. Croker said:

"There are some who would prefer to have fires. I have known of the chemicals in hand grenades being removed and the vessels filled with oil, so that, when used, the supposed extinguishers would help the fire on."

Mr. Croker declared that many factories still keep their doors locked in working hours to keep the employes from getting out and to guard against theft. He urged that responsibility for factory inspection be fixed upon one city department with power to enforce it, and that that department thereafter be held strictly accountable.

Alfred R. Conklin declared there never could be a reasonable safety from fire in factories until employes were prevented from smoking cigars or cigarettes in places where inflammable material is stored. The fire at the Polo Grounds and that at the Capitol in Albany, he said, were caused in that way.

In the absence of Senator Robert F. Wagner, Chairman of the commission, Assemblyman Alfred E. Smith presided yesterday. Other members of the commission are Senator Charles E. Hamilton of Ripley, Assemblyman Edward D. Jackson of Buffalo, Assemblyman Cyrus Phillips of Rochester, and four members appointed by Gov. Dix—Miss Mary E. Dreier, President of the Women's Trades Union League; Sampel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor; Simon Brentano, and Robert E. Dowling.

Samuel Gompers presided at the afternoon session. Miss Leonora O'Reilly, who said that for eighteen years she was a shirtwaist maker, described conditions in hair goods factories she had inspected. Loose hair, she said, was allowed to lie around where the girls ate their lunch; the rooms were ill-ventilated, and many girls took the loose hair home to work on at night under conditions equally menacing to health. Below one factory, she said, she found a jelly and candy factory, where the floors were dirty with candy stock that ran fluid over them, and new stock was mixed with old materials in unclean vessels.

Deputy State Factory Inspector Henry L. Schnur declared that his department at present could do nothing to remedy the conditions Miss O'Reilly had described in the hair factories, inasmuch as the Inspectors could only make reports on the conditions as they found them, with no jurisdiction for compelling a change. The commission may urge legislation bestowing such power on the inspection department.

The hearings of the commission will be resumed at 10:30 o'clock this morning.

WANT CANDIDATES EXAMINED.

Protest Against Exempting Factory Inspectors from Civil Service Rules.

Asserting that the State Civil Service Commission has opened the way for the intrusion of politics into the Department of Labor, four prominent organizations interested in the welfare of the factory workers of this city have sent a joint letter to the commission warmly protesting against the exemption from civil service examination of eight Factory Inspectors of the fourth grade.

The protesting organizations are the Consumers' League, New York Child Labor Committee, Women's Trades Union League, and the New York Association for Labor Legislation. Their letter declares that, inasmuch as the eight Inspectors are to become Supervising Inspectors, with much authority, their exemption without the customary publicity is open to severe condemnation. While it is not doubted that the present Labor Commissioner will appoint good men to these places, the letter states, the exemption opens the way for succeeding administrations to use the appointments for political purposes. Nothing could be more disastrous to the proper enforcement of the labor law and so to the welfare of the working people employed in the factories of this city, the letter continues, than the invasion of the labor department by politics. The protesting organizations express no doubt that in the event of a hot political campaign pressure would be brought to bear upon the Supervising Inspectors to solicit money from manufacturers and owners of factory buildings.

The State Commission is earnestly urged by the organizations to reconsider its action and put these places on the examination lists.

7TH AVE. LINE SHOULD WAIT

Unless New Subway Is Willing to Bear Much Extra Expense.

From a report presented yesterday to the Public Service Commission by George S. Coleman, its counsel, it appears that if immediate steps are taken to build the Seventh Avenue Subway, south of Forty-second Street, the city would be involved in very heavy expense, which would have to be charged up against the new Subway. On the other hand if the laying out of a Seventh Avenue route and the commencement of construction be postponed till after Jan. 1, 1913, when the extension of the avenue will in any case have been undertaken by the city, the amount chargeable to subways will be materially decreased.

The matter came up through the urging by Commissioner Cram two weeks ago of the immediate laying out of a Seventh Avenue route. Chairman Wilcox told him then that precipitate action would probably cost the city $6,000,000 additional, and the matter was referred to Mr. Coleman to report.

The position in which the proposed Seventh Avenue scheme now is, was thus reported by Mr. Coleman:

"Steps have been taken by the city for the extension of Seventh Avenue and the widening of Varick Street and three million dollars have been appropriated for the work by the Board of Estimate. I am informed by the Borough President's office that plans showing the new street lines are in course of preparation and will probably be submitted to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment about the first of the year for necessary action under the Charter. The Corporation Counsel will then be requested to institute a street opening proceeding, but before doing so will await the preparation of damage maps for use in such proceeding, which, I am informed, will take about six months to prepare. At the end of such period of six months, or about July 1 next, Condemnation Commissioners can be appointed and the proceeding prosecuted. Under the Charter, however, where there are buildings upon a line of a proposed street title cannot vest in the City until after the expiration of six months from date of the appointment of commissioners. It is probable, therefore, that title to the new streets will not vest until Jan. 1, 1913."

Consequently Mr. Coleman urged that though the Public Service Commission could legally go ahead now with laying out a Seventh Avenue route, it would be far more economical if it waited till Jan. 1, 1913.

Another contract for the construction of a section of the Lexington Avenue Subway was approved yesterday by the Public Service Commission, and will now be brought before the Board of Estimate. This is for Section 15, just north of the Harlem River, including the beginning of the Pelham Bay Park and Jerome Avenue branches. The contract goes to the Haggerty-Drummond Company of Philadelphia, which has a New York office at 41 Park Row. It bid on several of the sections of the Triborough Subway, its offer for section 15 being $3,820,129.

AIR RECORD BROKEN BY AVIATOR RODGERS

Exceeds Atwood's Cross-Country Flight of 1,265 Miles by Making 1,398 to Date.

FLEW 214 MILES YESTERDAY

Lands at Marshall, Mo., and Expects to Reach Kansas City To-day—Will Get No $50,000 Prize.

Special to The New York Times.

MARSHALL, Mo., Oct. 10.—C. H. Rodgers, the aviator who is trying to make a coast to coast flight, landed at Marshall at 4:23 o'clock this afternoon, exceeding the world's record for cross country aeroplane flight by 133 miles. The world' record of 1,265 miles was made by Henry Atwood in a recent flight from St. Louis to New York. Rodgers has flown 1,398 miles according to railroad mileage.

After filling his gasoline tanks at Mexico, Rodgers ascended, with the idea of making Kansas City before dark. He sped over Centralia at 3:18 o'clock at great speed and at a height of about 500 feet. Seventeen minutes later he passed Yates, Mo., twenty-five miles west of Centralia, indicating that he was making a speed of nearly ninety miles an hour. He passed Glasgow fifteen minutes later, going more than sixty miles an hour. He crossed the Missouri River at Glasgow and passed over Slater at the rate of more than a mile a minute.

At Slater Rodgers had covered more than 200 miles since he started from Springfield, Ill., this morning. Slater is 85 miles from Kansas City. Rodgers will probably leave Marshall for Kansas City in the morning. He will circle southwest from Independence to Swope Park. George M. Myers, President of the Kansas City Aero Club, has arranged for the whistles on every packing house to announce the arrival of Rodgers at Independence.

Swope Park has been designated as the aviator's landing spot in Kansas City. The large white canvas used in the ceremonies when the balloon Kansas City II. was named last week is to be spread on the ground near the shelter house. It can be seen a long distance, and will direct Rodgers to his landing.

Rodgers landed in a field near Thompson, Mo., and at Nebo, and replenished his supply of gasoline.

Rodgers flew 214 miles to-day. He was in the air from 8:35 A. M. to 4:33 P. M., when he landed at Marshall.

In passing over Roodhouse, Ill., Rodgers slowed up in order to allow the special train which accompanied to change engines and crew there.

Rodgers started his transcontinental flight on Sept. 17 at 4:25 o'clock in the afternoon from the race track at Sheepshead Bay. He got away without mishap and cheered by thousands sailed across New York City into the Northwest. His first stop was at Middletown, eighty miles away.

The good fortune which was his at the start deserted him on the following day, when his aeroplane was wrecked by striking a tree and he narrowly missed being crushed under his engine in the fall. Both at Middletown and at Salamanca, where he was again wrecked on Sept. 24, by running into a barbed wire fence, he was delayed several days pending repairs to his machine.

He resumed his flight, and on Sept. 28, he traveled 208 miles further to Kent, Ohio. From that point his flights were comparatively without incident except that of Oct. 1, when he flew through three rainstorms in Indiana, and several times came near being dashed to earth.

RODGERS WINS NO PRIZE.

No One Can Win Hearst's $50,000 Because Time Limit Has Expired.

Calbraith P. Rodgers, who broke the cross-country record for aeroplane flights when he landed at Marshall, Mo., yesterday afternoon, at the same time lost his last chance to win the $50,000 prize offered just a year ago yesterday by William Randolph Hearst to the first aviator who should cross the continent between New York and San Francisco in thirty days. The New York American made this announcement yesterday:

> The Hearst prize was offered one year ago to-day. The time limit within which the flight must be made to win the prize therefore expires to-day. Messrs. Fowler, Ward, and Rodgers have tried and failed.

The conditions under which the prize was offered provided, not only that the flight must be made in thirty days, but that it must be completed within a year of the date of the offering of the prize. It is this clause which has barred Fowler, Ward, and Rodgers, and which prevents Earle L. Ovington from competing for the Hearst prize.

Mr. Ovington intends to attempt the feat, however, regardless of his ineligibility for the Hearst prize.

OVINGTON STILL TRYING.

Discarding the Queen Monoplane, He Tests the Cummings Bleriot.

Special to The New York Times.

NASSAU BOULEVARD, L. I., Oct. 10.—Earle L. Ovington refused to-day to use the Queen monoplane which had been fitted out for him to use in his proposed flight from New York to San Francisco. He found that in a previous trial it had not come up to the usual expectations. So the management hustled about and finally found the Cummings Bleriot, which was for sale, and bought it for Ovington.

The machine is comparatively new, and, is the one in which Cummings flew at the Boston meet. It was Ovington's first experience with it. He skipped across the field only to find the tail was too heavy. An hour was expended in adjusting this. Then it was found that the propellor did not give enough speed. Another was tried, but it did not fit. Then Ovington sent to the special train, waiting on the tracks of the New York Central at Harlem for the flight to begin, for another. When this was adjusted something else was found to be the matter, and difficulties of this sort were chronic throughout the afternoon.

The monoplane is fitted with a desk chart of the route, a compass, a small clock, a speedometer, and an anemometer. It is a passenger-carrying machine. The extra seat will be utilized for carrying mail bags and a lunch, which will be sent every morning from the private train which will follow the aviator. A set of thermos bottles will complete the equipment. The first "first-aid" kit ever carried on an aeroplane in this country will go along, too. Under the rear seat a moving-picture machine is arranged in such a way that all Ovington has to do is to turn a crank in order to take pictures of the towns over which he passes.

FURS AND JEWELS VANISHED.

Suits to Recover $19,000 Against Tiffany & Co. and Revillon Freres.

Two large claims against prominent firms for the loss of valuable property committed to them in 1904 for storage, were entered in the Supreme Court yesterday by John A. Marshall, who has bought up the causes of action of Belinda Carbonneau. Miss Carbonneau says that in 1904 she gave $11,540 worth of jewelry to Tiffany & Co. for safe keeping, and $6,400 worth of furs and wearing apparel to Revillon Freres for storage, and that both houses lost her property.

The jewelry enumerated by Miss Carbonneau consisted of a $7,000 diamond bow knot set with a large pearl, an $800 nugget belt of gold, made in Dawson City, a $1,000 gold mesh purse set with diamonds, emeralds, and rubies; a $100 pioneer badge set with diamonds, two nugget rose leaves, valued at $100, and two nugget gold chains worth $170.

The furs and wearing apparel alleged to have been lost consisted of a $6,000 seal-lined Hudson Bay fur coat, a $200 seal-lined coat, a robe of eagle feathers lined with lavender cloth, and an ermine stole. Miss Carbonneau demanded the return of her property in 1905, she says, but it could not be found. William M. Kilcullen, attorney for Marshall, filed the lists in the County Clerk's office yesterday.

SYDNEY C. LOVE LOSES SUIT.

Appellate Division Denies His Suit to Nullify His Wife's Divorce.

Sydney C. Love, the former Stock Exchange broker, now living in Oregon, has lost his fight to have the divorce of his wife, Marjorie Burnes Love, obtained in the Supreme Court of Westchester County, declared illegal. The Appellate Division handed down a decision to-day affirming the order of the publication on him of the summons and complaint of his wife.

Mr. Love moved to set aside the order of publication granted Mrs. Love by Justice Morschauser last Spring on the ground that he was living in Baker City, Oregon, and that he had brought a previous action against her. Justice Keogh gave the decree to Mrs. Love, who at that time was residing in White Plains. The latest decision makes Mrs. Love's decree absolute.

NO DANGER NOW OF WATER FAMINE

Commissioner Thompson Says October Rains Made City Safe for Another Year.

TEN MILE RIVER NOT NEEDED

But, Commissioner Explains, It Can Be Tapped Next Summer If the Unexpected Happens.

Commissioner Thompson of the Water Department in a letter to Joseph Haag, Secretary of the Board of Estimate, said yesterday that he had decided to abandon, until next Spring at least, the plan to tap Ten Mile River in order to increase New York's water supply. The Commissioner said that the recent heavy rainfalls had so increased the present supply in the Croton watershed that there was no danger of a water famine before the end of next year. If, however, by the end of the next seven months, there should be danger of a shortage in the Fall and Winter of 1912, it will be easy, he says, for the city to begin, along about next May, the construction work for tapping the river, plans of which have already been completed. The Commissioner uses the department book term "M. G.," meaning million gallons, in giving his measurements. Here is his letter:

Oct. 10, 1911.

Joseph Haag, Esq., Secretary Board of Estimate and Apportionment.

Dear Sir—In my communication of Aug. 11, 1911, making application for funds to obtain a temporary supply of water from the Ten Mile River I stipulated that I would incur no expense in connection with this proposed work until I had notified the Board of Estimate and Apportionment of the condition of the water supply. I had intended making my report about Nov. 1 next, but the recent heavy rains have so materially added to the supply that I consider it advisable at this time to acquaint the board with these conditions.

The total storage in our Croton reservoirs on Sept. 30, 1911, amounted to 33,033,000,000 gallons as against 59,069,000,000 gallons on Sept. 30, 1910. Sixty per cent. of the normal rainfall for the month of October has already fallen during the first eight days. The attached table shows the changes in storage at the various reservoirs during the week ending Sept. 30, 1911.

The change in conditions brought about by the October rains, which have amounted to 2.37 inches, makes a review of the present situation, with particular regard to the proposed temporary supply from the Ten Mile River, pertinent.

In my communication to you of Aug. 11, 1911, detailing plans for a temporary supply from the Ten Mile River, I stated that, under the conditions assumed, we would need the temporary supply from the Ten Mile River if the storage in our Croton reservoirs on Jan. 1, 1912, was less than 30,000,000,000 gallons; that by the 15th of October, 1911, plans, specifications, and contracts would be ready, and that by that time we could begin construction. From the weekly table above referred to, and from our records, the following facts appear:

Storage at Croton Reservoirs Sept. 30, 1911	33,000	M. G.
Required for consumption from Sept. 30, 1911	25,000	M. G.
Difference	8,000	M. G.
Amount required to make up the 20,000 M. G., which it has been assumed will be needed on Jan. 1, 1912, to prevent shortage, and which must be furnished by the flow in October, November, and December	12,000	M. G.
Total of	20,000	M. G.

Our records show that there has not been a single year in which, if the flow of the river in October was 2,000 M. G. or more, the aggregate flow for the months of October, November, and December was less than 12,000 M. G. We have already had in the first eight (8) days of October a flow of 2,800 M. G., and the present flow of 5,000 M. G. for the present month is conservative, while, according to our records, there is no year in which, with a flow in October of 5,000 M. G., the aggregate flow of October, November, and December fell below 17,500 M. G.

It is therefore more than probable that we shall not need any supply from the Ten Mile River, and it is certain that, under the worst conditions, it would be reasonable to assume we would not need it, if at all, before the end of next year, say October or November. If by the end of the next seven (7) months the danger of such a shortage in the Fall and Winter of 1912 seems probable, we can, say, May 1, 1912, begin construction on the plans for the temporary supply from the Ten Mile River, which we have already completed, so that water from that source would be available by the end of September or the 1st of October, 1912. In the meantime, I recommend that no further action be taken to carry out the plans for an additional supply from the Ten Mile River.

These conclusions are based on the assumption that the house-to-house inspection and other measures taken to check the waste shall be continued until there is no longer any danger of shortage.

HENRY S. THOMPSON,
Commissioner.

The Commissioner sent a copy of the letter to Controller Prendergast, as he had understood that the Controller was preparing a report regarding the project, to be read at the meeting of the Board of Estimate to-day. He said the facts in his letter to Secretary Haag came to his notice only on Monday evening, when he received a report from his chief engineer.

DALY DEFEATS DE ORO.

Champion Successful Over Challenger in Billiard Match, 50 to 39.

John Daly, world's champion at three-cushion billiards, defeated Alfredo De Oro, challenger for the title, in the first block of their 150-point match, at Doyle's Billiard Academy last night. The score for the first night's play was 50 to 39, eighty-six inning being required to complete the block. Each contestant registered 4 for high, De Oro getting his in the twenty-fourth inning, and Daly in three different innings—the thirty-fourth, thirty-fifth, and seventy-second. Another block of fifty points will be played to-night and the match will be completed to-morrow night.

De Oro won the bank and scored once, jumping to a lead which he did not surrender until the thirty-fifth inning. Daly failed to count until his sixth inning, at which time De Oro had scored three. In the tenth inning De Oro was leading, 8 to 3, but in the next ten innings Daly showed up better and the twentieth found him only one point behind, the score being 9 to 8. At this stage De Oro began to crawl away again and in the thirtieth inning he was leading, 19 to 12.

In the thirty-fourth inning Daly got in his first good run of 4, and made the score 20 to 17. In the next inning he repeated and jumped ahead for the first time, leading by the score of 21 to 20. From this time to the sixty-seventh inning the game was a nip-and-tuck affair, the point coming slowly and the two remaining always close together. With the score tied at 34 points, Daly began his spurt in the sixty-eighth inning, and was never again headed. His run of 4 in the seventy-second inning gave Daly the lead of 41 to 35.

Beginning with the sixty-seventh inning De Oro failed to score for fifteen consecutive innings, while Daly gradually drew away. At the end of the eighty-first inning Daly led, 46 to 35, and during the next four innings each picked up 4 points, the match ending in the eighty-sixth inning, with Daly leading, 50 to 39.

Both men contributed several sensational shots and likewise indulged in considerable safety play. De Oro played safe seven times and Daly six. The champion showed much more steadiness than the challenger after once hitting his stride, and his form in the latter part of last night' match makes him a heavy favorite over De Oro. A large crowd witnessed the match.

GLIDDEN TROPHY RETURNED.

Last Year's Winners Send Famous Prize to A. A. A. Contest Board Chairman.

The Glidden trophy was turned over to Chairman S. M. Butler of the American Automobile Association's Contest Board yesterday by the Carl H. Page Company. This world-famous reliability trophy, which the Chalmers Motor Company has held for more than a year, was sent on to the New York representative for delivery to the Contest Board, as this year's Glidden Tour starts from here on Saturday. When the big silver trophy had been turned over to the A. A. A. officials the Contest Board returned to the holder's representative the bond filed insuring the return of the prize.

The trophy was won last year in the longest and hardest endurance contest ever held. The contesting cars traveled 2,851 miles from Cincinnati to Chicago by way of Dallas, Texas. Most of the roads were very bad and very hot weather was encountered during the journey. Not only was last year's Glidden Tour the severest endurance contest ever run in this country, but it was also the first time in the history of the event that a medium-priced car had been victorious, all the previous winners having sold for more than $4,000. In this year's Glidden Tour the competition for the trophy will be for teams of three cars each.

NOTES OF THE BOXERS.

The Sharkey A. C. will resume its mid-week shows this evening after a lapse of several months, and will put on entertainments every Wednesday night during the Fall and Winter months. The star bout of to-night's show will bring together Soldier Delaney, the Sharkey heavyweight, and Tommy Dugan of Detroit. In the semi-final X. O. Egers and K. O. Sweeney will clash. On next Saturday night Ted Nelson and Connie Schmidt of Hoboken will come together in the feature bout.

Joe Kastner, known as the Butcher Boy, announces that he is anxious to mingle with Sailor Burke inside a ring. Kastner's defi does not end with the sailor, as he announces he is willing to take on any other middleweight in the country if Burke cannot be induced to accept his offer.

The Fordon A. C. will stage another show this week, having engaged Benny Franklin and Lew Meyers for the star bout of an entertainment to be held at the Grand Street clubhouse to-morrow night.

At the Longacre A. C. to-night Kid Black, the west side featherweight, will hook with Frankie Pass of Brooklyn in the star bout of ten rounds. In the semi-final of six rounds Artie Edwards will clash with Kid Mack of Jersey City.

Willie Lewis is training at Savin Rock for his ten-round bout with Jeff Smith, the New Jersey welterweight, at the National Sporting Club to-morrow night. This bout is the first of a busy campaign which Lewis has mapped out for himself to prove that he is the welterweight champion of the world. Smith is training in New Jersey and is confident that he will gain the popular verdict over the New Yorker.

WOMEN COMPETE IN MATCH PLAY AT GOLF

Nearly All the Winners for National Title Come Through Easily.

Women fought it out at match play in the first round of the National golf championship at Baltusrol yesterday. Most of the winners came through rather easily as only one contest was carried to an extra hole. This was the clash between Miss Florence McNeeley of Philadelphia and Mrs. H. R. Stockton of Plainfield, the first named obtaining the victory on the nineteenth green.

Getting down to the real favorites, it may be said that Miss Dorothy Campbell, holder of three titles, won as she pleased over Mrs. P. Manchester of Chicago, while Mrs. R. H. Barlow, the Eastern champion from Philadelphia, eliminated Miss Florence Harvey, one of Canada's best. Miss Lillian B. Hyde of the South Shore Field Club, who won the Metropolitan title for the second time at Scarsdale last Spring, put out Miss F. H. Rosenheim, one of the New York hopes.

A former National champion met speedy elimination when Miss Harriet S. Curtis of Boston lost to Miss Georgianna Bishop, the Brooklawn player, another erstwhile title holder, both National and Metropolitan. From the standpoint of brilliancy the scoring honors went to others than yesterday's leaders. Neither Mrs. Barlow nor Miss Campbell gave indications of record performances, though there is no telling what the last named might have done had she needed to extend herself. Going out in 47 the Scotch girl turned for home 6 up. Only three more holes were then necessary to return Miss Campbell a winner by 8 up and 7 to play. She made the tenth, eleventh, and twelfth in 4, 6, and 4, thus placing her in a position to better her score of 93 made on Monday.

On the other hand, Mrs. Barlow did go the full round, yet her inward half seemed poor by comparison with the outgoing of 46. Mrs. Barlow was not nearly so steady as during the testing round.

Neither Miss Hyde nor Miss Bishop scored particularly low, though the last named made few mistakes, except on the greens. Miss Anita Phipps, the far-driving Springfield girl, placed all other efforts in the shade by going out in 44, including a 6 at the eighth hole. Of course, there was no one able to stand a pace like that, consequently her opponent, Mrs. N. P. Rogers of the home club, soon found herself hopelessly out of it. After passing the half way point 5 up it was no trick at all for Miss Phipps to win by 6 and 4.

Another reversal of form marked the fine work of Miss Frances C. Griscom of the Merion Cricket Club, who went out in 46 against her club mate, Miss H. E. Maule. In the qualifying round Miss Griscom barely squeezed in with 113. Good length off the tee, backed up by a steady short game, tells the story of Miss Griscom's success.

That Miss Kate C. Harley, the Fall River player, will have to be reckoned with again was demonstrated by the clean cut manner in which she disposed of Miss Myra Helmer, the Midlothian record holder. Although only 1 down at the tenth hole Miss Helmer failed to hold her opponent thereafter. Neither scored low, but Miss Harley's better direction told in the end, the Fall River golfer winning by a 3 and 2 margin.

Mrs. V. M. Earle of Deal had few anxious moments in her match with Miss Edith Cheeseborough, the lone hope from California. The summary:

Championship, First Round.—Miss Florence McNeeley, Merion, beat Mrs. H. R. Stockton, Plainfield, 1 up, (19 holes;) Miss E. W. Allen, Oakley, beat Miss M. K. Wetmore, Baltusrol, 2 up and 1 to play; Mrs. R. H. Barlow, Merion, beat Miss Florence Harvey, Hamilton, 3 up and 1 to play; Mrs. V. M. Earle, Deal, beat Miss Edith Cheeseborough, San Francisco, 8 up and 7 to play; Miss Frances A. Griscom, Merion, beat Miss H. E. Maule, Merion, 7 up and 6 to play; Miss K. C. Harley, Fall River, beat Miss Myra Helmer, Midlothian, 3 up and 2 to play; Miss Lillian B. Hyde, South Shore Field Club, beat Miss F. H. Rosenheim, Deal, 6 up and 4 to play; Miss Neblitt, Toronto, beat Miss Edith Nobitt, Wilmington, 4 up and 3 to play; Miss Louisa A. Wells, Brookline, beat Mrs. W. J. Faith, Wykagyl, 2 up and 1 to play; Miss Anita E. Phipps, Springfield, beat Mrs. E. P. Rogers, Baltusrol, 6 up and 4 to play; Miss Dorothy Campbell, Hamilton, beat Mrs. P. Manchester, Skokie, 8 up and 7 to play; Miss Grace Semple, St. Louis, beat Miss E. F. Chandler, Huntington Valley, 4 up and 3 to play; Miss Margaret Curtis, Essex County, beat Mrs. C. W. Rendigs, Midland, 6 up and 5 to play; Mrs. E. H. Fitler, Merion, beat Mrs. M. W. Phelps, Brookline, 6 up and 4 to play; Miss Georgianna Bishop, Brooklawn, beat Miss H. S. Curtis, Essex County, 3 up and 2 play; Miss E. S. Porter, Brookline, beat Mrs. M. D. Paterson, Baltusrol, 6 up and 4 to play.

The special event in the afternoon con-that all those who apply for seats on non-qualifiers. The scores:

Young Gans Defeats Jones.

Young Joe Gans decisively defeated Smoke Jones in their ten-round bout, which featured the show of the Brighton Beach A. C. at Coney Island last night. Gans held the lead throughout the bout, scoring heavily in every round. In the early part of the bout Gans devoted his attention to Jones's stomach, and his blows had the latter covering up much of the time. In the closing rounds Gans changed his tactics and tried for Jones's head, being as effective with these punches as with the body blows. In the last four rounds Gans had a most decisive lead over his opponent, but the latter was able to withstand the attack and go the full distance.

In the semi-final, which went the full six rounds, Young Allen outpointed Young Lundy.

Loughery Knocks Out Nelson.

After leading practically all the way from the opening bell, Ted Nelson of Australia collided with a knockout punch from Young Loughrey in the fifth round of their bout, which was scheduled to go ten rounds, at Brown's Gymnasium last night. Neither man was in good condition and the pace showed on both from the third round until the finish. Nelson, although outpointing his opponent, did not enjoy a very big lead when the finish came.

SPENCER WISHART APPEALS.

Disqualified Auto Driver Carries Case to A. A. A. for Decision.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 10.—Spencer Wishart of New York, who finished second in yesterday's 200-mile automobile road race in Fairmount Park and who was disqualified because he covered part of a lap without a mechanician, to-day announced that he has taken an appeal to the American Automobile Association, whose rules govern the contest.

After changing tires on the twenty-second lap Wishart's mechanician was not quick enough in climbing into the car, and the driver went off without him. He picked up another man at the pits. Ralph Mulford, who finished third, entered a protest that Wishart, under the rules, did not drive the entire distance with a mechanician, and the Contest Committee of the Quaker Motor Club allowed the protest.

Wishart declares his disqualification was based on a trifling technicality; that he did not know for a few minutes that his mechanician was missing and that when he discovered his absence the rules prohibited him from looking back.

White Bread Eaters

Beri-beri! What's That?

A recent press dispatch from Paris to the New York American quotes Thomas A. Edison as saying, that in France:

"They (the French) do not unbalance the wheat for the sake of appearance, but retain the gluten qualities in an extraordinary way. I think that most of the indigestion in America comes from the desire to make bread look pretty, and in so doing, unbalancing the wheat, taking from it qualities most essential to nutrition and health.

"It has been found in countries where that dreaded disease known as beri-beri flourishes (Beri-beri is a fatal disease attacking the nerves and nerve centres) that in the process of polishing and whitening rice, elements are taken from the food that, if allowed to remain and be fed to the patients suffering from the disease, actually cures them."

In the making of white flour, the vital elements of the hard, outer coat of the wheat are "thrown away," because they darken the flour. Nerve starvation is a natural result.

No one can "beat" Old Mother Nature. She places in wheat and barley certain elements (Diastase, Potash, Lime, etc.) up under the outer shell. Diastase is the element which helps to transform or digest starch and make it useful for the body. The Potash goes to rebuild the gray matter in the nerve cells.

In the making of

Grape-Nuts

these brain- and nerve-building elements are purposely preserved, among them the valuable Phosphate of Potash, (grown in the grain) the essential tissue salt of all gray nerve matter.

For growing children, for men and women who work with body and brain, there is no better food than Grape-Nuts.

Grape-Nuts contains all the meat of the wheat and barley from which it is made. A dish of Grape-Nuts and cream is the cereal part of the daily morning meal of hundreds of thousands of people all over the world.

*None out when winning run was scored. Two-base hits—Smith, Becker, Snodgrass. Three-base hit—Hummel. First base on errors—Brooklyn, 2. Left on bases—Brooklyn, 11; New York, 4. If the Giants are not more familiar with the speed and slants of Jack Coombs or Chief Bender next Saturday than they were with the delivery of Cy Barger at Washington Park yesterday Connie Mack is likely to carry that first game back to Philadelphia in his little grip Saturday night. The lanky Superba moundsman made the new champions look like everything except flag-winners, and incidentally he closed the Superbas' home season with a notable triumph over the McGrawites, 2 to 1. The finish came in Brooklyn's half of the tenth inning with one out, a single by Zach Wheat, and a long double by Red Smith being the ingredients in the manufacture of the deciding run.

That the battle had to go beyond the regulation distance for settlement was due entirely to the wonderful playing of Fred Merkle, who stepped into the breach on four different occasions and blotted out prospects that had loomed up decidedly rosy for Brooklyn. All of these timely performances came before the ninth inning, and were easily the principal factors in keeping the Superbas from denting the plate. Merkle's record of six assists at first base will undoubtedly rank as the top mark of the season for major league first-sackers. He gave an exhibition of taking care of difficult chances in the vicinity of first base that made even Brooklynites gasp in wonder, and the fans of Gowanus are quite accustomed to seeing first base guarded like a miser's roll. Aside from Merkle's play there was nothing uncorked by the McGrawites that bore a championship label.

But getting back to Old Cy Barger, the shining light in the Superba triumph. The lanky flinger got away to a start that brought visions of an early exit to the clubhouse, and then settled down to some fancy work that made the champions look like bush leaguers. Two of the five safeties that Cy allowed came in the opening chapter, when he also hit Snodgrass, and then Cy's generosity flickered out. In the remaining nine innings he allowed two clean hits and an infield scratch. Only two of the Giants reached second base after the first inning, and neither of the pair traveled any further. Barger was as effective in pushing Brooklyn forward as he was in making the Giants back up, collecting safeties on three of his four trips to the plate. In the ninth inning Cy delivered the hit that sent in Brooklyn's first run and deadlocked the two teams.

The Giants did all their damage in the opening frame. Beals Becker greeted Barger with a double to left, but was thrown out at third trying to advance on Burns's grounder to Barger. Burns moved up when Snodgrass was hit, and trotted home when Jack Murray planted a single in left field. Merkle lined into Smith's hands, and a quick throw doubled Snodgrass at second base.

Other Giant advances came but seldom and quickly faded. In the third Maxwell drew a pass and Burns got another gift after Becker had skied to Wheat. Snodgrass hit to Tooley and was smothered with Burns on a double play. The next New Yorker to get on was Devlin in the sixth inning after two were out, and he was thrown out trying to steal. In the ninth inning Snodgrass doubled to left with two out and Murray lofted to Northen. In the tenth Merkle opened by beating out a hit, but the next three batsmen went out in order without being able to advance him.

Brooklyn collected a pair of passes and a single in the first inning, but Northen was caught napping, Smith forced Daubert at third base, and Tooley ended the inning with a grounder to Maxwell. In the second Coulson got two bases on an error by Fletcher, and advanced on Hummel's out, only to be thrown out at the plate by Merkle, who grabbed a grounder by Erwin. The Superbas had runners on the paths in the third, fourth, and sixth innings without becoming exceptionally dangerous.

In the seventh inning Erwin drew a pass and Barger singled to centre. Merkle made a great stop of Northen's sizzling bounder and retired the batter at first base, while Erwin and Barger advanced. Merkle also got in the way of Daubert's drive and threw Erwin out at the plate. Daubert hustled down to third a moment later and scored the throw, but Barger did not sprint home until Jake was being tagged out. In the eighth Wheat and Smith opened on Maxwell with singles, and then Merkle got in some more flashy work. He made a fancy catch of Tooley's liner and shot the ball to Fletcher, doubling Wheat, and breaking up the rally.

Hummel started the ninth inning with a triple to right centre, was held at third while Erwin was being thrown out by Snodgrass, and dusted home on Barger's single. Wheat opened the tenth with a single past Snodgrass, and Smith hit over Becker's attic for two cushions, scoring Wheat with the winning run.

SHERMAN PICKS GIANTS.

Vice President Says They Will Have Practically a Walkover with Athletics.

Special to The New York Times.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 10.—If you want to know who is going to win the world's championship baseball series, the New York Giants or "Connie" Mack's Athletics, just leave it to James Sherman, Vice President of the United States. He says he knows and does not intend to keep it secret.

Mr. Sherman was in this city for a few minutes to-day enroute to Rushville, where he was the guest of honor at a big Republican rally to-night. He refused flatly to talk politics, but smiled at the mention of the Giants and said that they would not only win, but would have practically a walk-away of it in the world's baseball series. Mr. Sherman is a baseball fan and he never lets the opportunity slip by to see a good game.

RUSH FOR TICKETS OVER.

If You Haven't Got Yours Go to 1,133 Broadway To-morrow Morning Early.

Well, after all, don't worry too much about being left for tickets for the world's series. Secretary Gray announced yesterday after the mail orders had all been filled that there was a good supply of seats to put on public sale to-morrow morning at the St. James Building, second floor, 1,133 Broadway, at 9 o'clock. The mail orders were attended to yesterday, but it was late last night when the last orders were filled. It is very evident that the early arrivals at the sale on Thursday morning will get good seats, for the mail-order sale, according to the officials, did not take up all the tickets.

Several thousand dollars have been returned to the applicants, because they did not submit certified checks. No count has been made of the money received for seats, but on an off-hand guess Mr. Gray thought that the amount exceeded $300,000.

The club officials anticipate a big crush at the sale of bleacher seats on Saturday morning, and a platoon of police will be on hand to keep the crowd in check. As there will be in the neighborhood of 40,000 reservations at the game, it is believed that all those who apply for seats on Thursday morning will be accommodated.

GETTING SHIBE PARK READY.

Ticket Supply for Philadelphia Games Exhausted—$100,000 Returned.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., Oct. 10.—Workmen were busily engaged to-day in putting Shibe Park in shape for the first of the world's championship baseball games to be played in this city next Monday. Additional benches and desks were installed and equipped with telegraph wires to accommodate the army of visiting newspaper men from all sections of the country, while new fences were erected in the outfield to prevent the spectators from overflowing the playing field.

Those in charge of the press applications say that never before has an interleague contest excited so much interest in all sections of the country, and the demand has been so great that many applications for scorers' seats will have to be refused.

In spite of the extra force of clerks put at work last week, it has been impossible to catch up with the large amount of mail containing requests for seats for the first two games to be played here. The supply of available tickets was quickly exhausted, and it is estimated that more than $100,000 will have to be returned to the senders with notice that their demands cannot be complied with.

ATHLETICS SLUG JOHNSON.

Washington's Great Pitcher, in Fine Form, No Terror to Mack's Team.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The Athletic pitchers worked in something like their true form to-day, and the All Stars went down to defeat by 3 to 2, the winning run coming over in the ninth inning with no one out, on Collins's single and Baker's hard double to the right field fence.

Coombs pitched the first four innings and his bases on balls to Milan and Gessler, coupled with Chase's single, and Davis's error, gave the All Stars their two runs.

Plank pitched three innings, allowing one hit, and Bender finished up the game, but one hit being registered off his delivery.

The way the champions hit Walter Johnson surprised the spectators, as he had all his well-known speed and control. Eddie Collins hit three singles, while Harry Davis slammed a fast shoot over the right field fence for a home run. Sensational fielding plays were made by Chase and Elberfeld. The score:

Reds Shut Out Cleveland.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Oct. 10.—Cincinnati defeated Cleveland in the first game of the interleague series for the championship of Ohio to-day, by a score of 4 to 0. Suggs outpitched Blanding, holding the American Leaguers safe all the way. Jackson and Lajoie, Cleveland's most powerful batters, particularly, were at sea. Outside of Sugg's pitching the throwing to bases of Catcher O'Neil of Cleveland was a feature of the game. Bescher batted hard, getting two doubles. It was announced that owing to the desire of the Cincinnati club to rush work on its new grandstand the remainder of the series will be played in Cleveland. Score by innings:

Seniors Score Easy Victory.

The Columbia seniors won an overwhelming victory over the sophomores by the score of 14 to 1 in one of the interclass baseball games on South Field yesterday afternoon, and strengthened their hold in the round robin series for the E. T. Collins medals. The contest was loosely played, and the seniors won more through the errors of the second year men than by their own work with the bat, because O'Neale, who pitched for the sophomores, twirled a steady game. He was opposed by T. M. Sanders, who has played regularly as short stop on the 'Varsity nine. His work in the box, however, has been unexpectedly strong, and it is likely that Harry Fisher, the new coach, will use him in that role next Spring. The score:

Batteries—Sanders, Lommell, and Roseff; O'Neale and Callahan. Umpire—A. M. Lee, Jr., Columbia.

WIRE-TAPPERS CAUGHT.

One Sentenced to Three Months for Cutting In at Laurel, Md.

LAUREL, Md., Oct. 10.—A gang of wire-tappers were caught operating outside of the race track here this afternoon. Paul Heintz, alias White, was sentenced to three months in the House of Correction by the local Justice. The gang is alleged to have been operating in the interest of pool rooms in Washington and New York.

YALE'S SCRIMMAGE POOREST OF SEASON

Fumbling of Full Back Anderson Prevents 'Varsity from Scoring Twice on Scrubs.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 10.—Yale coaches to-night pronounced the afternoon scrimmage of the eleven the poorest quality of play shown since the season opened. The fumbling of Full Back Anderson, the ex-Wisconsiner, was constant and cost the regulars two chances to score. They were unable to cross the scrubs' goal line during the afternoon. The second team secured the ball on one of Anderson's misplays in midfield and rushed it on line-smashing advances to the regulars' ten-yard line, where they lost it on a fumble. Church twice scored ten-yard gains on plunges through guard, Childs boring a path for him.

Capt. Howe rested and Foss took his place. Foss injured his nose and retired and Francis was compelled to quit on account of a shoulder bruise, but both men will be in the game in two or three days. All the first string regulars were in line except Capt. Howe. Walter Camp, Jr., and Bill Howe divided the afternoon at right end.

More coaches than at any previous practice this season were present, Lydig Hoyt, George Adee, Ed Glass, Ted Lilley, Joe Swan, and former head coach Howard Jones joining the squad.

It was admitted to-night that the trip to Minneapolis of Springer Brooks of the resident staff will allow him more than a week with Harry Williams, the former Yale half back and present University of Minnesota coach, to study Williams's 1911 gridiron models. Williams invented the tackles shift that pulled Yale out of a slough last Fall. He sent ex-Capt. Tom Shevlin East with some of his formations, but Shevlin was able to remain only one day. Neither Shevlin nor Williams can come East now, but Brooks will study Williams's play in operation and return to teach them to Yale in time for the West Point game.

LEHIGH AT PRINCETON.

Tigers Do Not Anticipate Hard Battle with Pennsylvanians.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 10.—Princeton anticipates little trouble against Lehigh to-morrow, the coaches regarding the contest against the Pennsylvania eleven as a mid-week practice. With the exception of Brown being displaced at left end by Dunlap there is no change in the 'Varsity line-up since the Villanova game. MacGregor said last evening, however, that McCormick would be displaced at right guard early in the game by "Dutch" Brown. This shows that the big fellow's trial at that position to-day proved satisfactory.

Pendleton will act as field captain in the absence of Sam White, who is not yet in condition to play.

The Tigers had a long, gruelling scrimmage this afternoon, made doubly hard by the presence of Substitute Waller at halfback on the scrubs. Waller was freshman captain last year, but is ineligible for the 'Varsity this year. He is reporting to afford the 'Varsity more thrilling scrimmages. His long end runs, fierce tackling, and the splendid spirit he showed in breaking up the first team's open play, kept the 'Varsity from scoring on or even threatening the scrubs.

The right side of the 'Varsity line continued to show the same weakness to-day that has bothered the coaches for weeks. McCormick offered the poorest defense to the scrub back that has been witnessed here in some time, and at offensive tactics he was little better. His right to that position is at least being questioned by the coaches as is shown by "Dutch" Brown's tryout in that position.

Marshall Mills, '02; Phil Brasher, '06; Ad Kelly, '98; Knox Taylor, '96; Vetterlein, '06, and Balliett, '94 were all active in the coaching department to-day.

SEVERE TEST FOR HARVARD.

'Varsity Regulars Driven Hard Against "Subs" and Second Team.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Oct. 10.—Coach Haughton and his assistants to-day put the Harvard team through a harder practice than even the old timers remember for so early in the Fall. The regulars had forty minutes' continuous work in scrimmage against the substitutes and then were sent into another hard session against the second team, which came into the field fresh. The 'Varsity was almost down and out at the end of the day's work, but there will be more of the same kind of work to-morrow and Thursday.

The team's showing in the early games has been disappointing, and the coaches are resolved to make every man go to his limit now, so that an absolute line may be drawn on the physical abilities of the men. There was no scoring done by the 'Varsity eight either against the substitutes or the scrub. The substitutes not only had their goal line clear, but made a lot of ground themselves by playing through the regulars' left wing, which has shown signs of improvement against Holy Cross.

Storer was at centre on the 'Varsity, otherwise the line from tackle to tackle was comprised of the pick of the squad. Freedley of last year's freshmen was at quarter back and Campbell and Blackall were in the backfield with Wendell. Blackall now has the call over Morrison. Harvard's uneasiness over the quarter back situation was shown to-day by the fact that Potter played on the substitutes and was not allowed to run back any kicks or to take chances of being hurt. He did, however, try two field goals, but missed one and had the other kick partially blocked.

The second team proved strong against the tired regulars, and made a lot of ground. Also the regulars lost the ball twice on downs inside the scrubs' ten-yard line. Dana and O'Brien, the substitute ends, improved greatly in their play. Dana, who is very rangy and keen for following the ball as well as a hard, sure tackler, is pushing Felton hard for the regular place at left end.

Slow Practice at N. Y. U.

The 'Varsity team resumed work at New York University yesterday and was soundly shaken up by the coaches for the slow work in the game Saturday. There was no snap against the Muhlenberg eleven, and it is evident that a shake-up will be made in the line-up this week. A fast end must be developed to take care of the forward pass formations that the coaches have devised, and it is possible that Capt. Brennan will be moved into right end from his position at full back. Thompson, who played right tackle on Saturday, may be moved back to Brennan's place, since he has had some experience behind the line, and if this change is made Andrade will take right tackle. The coaches devoted special attention yesterday to the tackles and ends, in breaking up interference on end runs. Comfort did some work in punting, and Moore had special coaching in drop kicking.

New Formations for Cornell.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., Oct. 10.—New formations for the game with Pennsylvania State on Saturday were put in operation at Alumni Field this afternoon after the entire Cornell squad had been given a three hours' drill in exercises designed to develop speed, and had done a lot of sprinting about the field. The coaches placed on the 'Varsity as many of their best men as they had, aiming to get their strongest combination together for Saturday.

It was noticed that a new scheme to use Fritz as an end was being tried out. Up to this time he has played half back, going in usually to relieve the first man. Although he does not weigh more than 160 pounds, he is very fast and a good dodger. Coach Van Norman and Bill Harris, who is here helping, gave him special attention in the preliminary practice. The coaches are anxious to find a strong man to relieve Eyrich at left end when the latter is tired out. Fritz seems especially good in handling forward passes and covering on-side kicks.

Capt. Munk and Eddie Butler were among those absent to-day, although the captain was permitted to watch the game from the side lines. Both men are rapidly improving, and should be in the line up by the end of the week. Krogstadt again played at left tackle in the captain's place, and Dixie Smith ran the team smoothly as quarter back.

Munns was again in at right guard, and it looks as if he would win the place against such good men as Hale and Delano. The coaches are aiming to develop two heavy half backs in Collins and McCormick, and two fast ones in O'Connor and Hawkins.

West Point Developing Punters.

Special to The New York Times.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 10.—The practice at West Point was short to-day and consisted entirely of developing punters and strengthening the defensive work of the linemen to protect the kickers. Coach Beacham is casting about for a good punter, and the orders were to punt on the first down. Devoe, the 200-pound guard, was drawn back out of the line and got off some good long punts. Hodgson also is thought well of by the coaches and alternated with Brown in doing the punting.

Hyatt slightly twisted his knee early in the scrimmage, and Keyes took his place. Between Keyes and the new man, Pritchard, the race for first substitute has become a hot one. Pritchard is the speedier and is better in running back punts, but Keyes may, perhaps, be the better general. Walmsley is improving in his passing, and with Sibert it now looks as if the Army will have two good centres to rely upon. Waddell, a plebe, has also recently come to the front in the centre position. To-morrow there will be no drills, and a hard scrimmage will be held in preparation for next Saturday's game.

Indians Trying to Develop Speed.

Special to The New York Times.

CARLISLE, Penn., Oct. 10.—The Carlisle Indian football players in preparation for the Georgetown game at Washington on Saturday, this afternoon put in the most strenuous practice of the season, Coaches Warner and O'Brien giving close attention to the development of speed in several departments of the game. The Redskins were given a short talk in their training quarters, and after going to the field were drilled in starting quickly and getting off all of the fundamental exercises with snap. Coach Warner has devised a gauntlet running practice, and this was worked out with great effect to-day. The signals were put through with lots of steam, and the concluding scrimmage between the 'Varsity and second teams was as brisk as probably any mid-season game of the country.

Scrubs Hold Navy Regulars.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Oct. 10.—With the services of Coaches Wheaton, Ingram, and Clay in their back field the scrubs gave the Naval Academy regulars a half hour of the hardest kind of fighting this afternoon. There was no score, and honors were even. Wheaton, the old Yale back, made several good gains, and the forward pass was worked for a few yards against the regulars. On one forward pass, however, Gilchrist recovered the ball and ran fifty yards, but was caught by Oceresch. Big Brown played a great defensive game for the regulars, but failed in his attempts to carry the ball. Capt. Dalton and Rodes rested this afternoon, their places being taken by Collins and Nichols. Weems was moved to centre on the scrubs, Ingram taking his place.

Electric Topics Discussed.

Members of the Electric Vehicle Association of America held their second annual convention yesterday in the Engineering Societies' Building, with a large delegation of central station men, vehicle, battery, tire, and accessory manufacturers present. Many interesting papers were read and discussed. Prior to the convention proper the election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows: President—W. H. Blood, Jr.; Vice President, Arthur Williams; Secretary—C. E. Firestone; Treasurer—Harvey Robinson; Board of Governors—H. H. Rice, W. P. Kennedy, W. W. Freeman, Frank W. Smith, Frank L. Dyer, F. M. Tait, P. D. Wagoner, J. T. Hutchings, Hayden Eams, Louis Burr, Louis Ferguson, and Charles Blizard.

Glidden Tourists Exempted.

As the result of a conference yesterday between a committee from the Newark Board of Trade and J. B. R. Smith, State Commissioner of Vehicles for New Jersey, automobile owners taking part in the Glidden tour will be allowed to pass through New Jersey next Saturday without taking out a New Jersey automobile license. About eighty-five cars will take part in the tour, which is scheduled to leave New York Saturday morning for Jacksonville, Fla. The action taken yesterday means a considerable saving to the tourists who would otherwise have been compelled to take out tourists' licenses, according to the State law.

Battling Nelson Fights To-night.

Battling Nelson makes his first appearance in a New York ring to-night in a ten-round bout against Willie Beecher at the Madison A. C., Sulzer's Harlem River Park, 129th Street and Second Avenue. There is a certain interest that attaches itself to ex-champions, and because of this the Madison A. C. will probably be crowded. Nelson as lightweight champion was a sure-enough wonder. He won his title from the toughest lightweight crop of boxers imaginable, and was going strong up to the time he was defeated by Wolgast. Even now Nelson refuses to concede that Wolgast is his master, and would give almost anything to get on another fight with him. Nelson is essentially a marathoner, but he has trained for weeks for a fast ten-round bout, and against a rough, boring-in fighter like Beecher, is likely to furnish an interesting session. The battle gives Beecher an exceptional chance to jump among the lightweight contenders, and he promises to make the most of it.

DOHERTY'S TOBY BEST DOG IN SHOW

Massachusetts-Bred Boston Terrier Wins Over Trimount Kennels' Entry.

Doherty's Toby was adjudged the best dog in the show of either sex yesterday at the annual exhibition of the Boston Terrier Club of New York, which was concluded last night at the new Grand Central Palace. Toby is a white-faced dog with no specially distinctive markings by Rouge B-Peggy, and a trifle over two years old, scaling about fifteen pounds.

Prior to yesterday's victory he had scored blues at Chestnut Hill, with Fred Davis as the judge, and again at Framingham. At the recent Clinton show he was placed in the reserve division of the winners class in which Sudbury Nemo was adjudged the best.

Selection as to the best animal in the show was made between Toby and Trimount Tiny, which had swept everything before her in the classes for bitches. There was a largely increased number of spectators in attendance at yesterday's session over that of the opening day, most of whom awaited the judging and placing in the long list of specials at the end of the show.

Trimount Tiny, as evidenced by her frequent wins in the classes to which she was eligible, was proclaimed the best dog of her sex in the judging of the early afternoon. Dondero's Girl was the reserve selection. The first named had caught the judge's eye in the limit and open classes of the first day of the show for dogs scaling between 12 and 17 pounds, while Dondero's Girl had tallied a win in the division for bitches not exceeding 28 pounds.

Still another entry of the Trimount Kennels, Trimount Maider, was a sterling figure in the bitches classes. Three blues fell to the portion of this good-looking Boston dog when she was placed first in the novice, limit, and open classes for bitches between 17 and 22 pounds.

In the champions class Champion The Demon had everything his own way. A similar state of affairs reigned when the veterans' class was called and Mrs. Charles D'Almaine's Gramatan Dixie adjudged the peer of the old timers.

Harry Bacco's Lady Batch carried off the honors in the members and breeders' classes, scoring in both instances over Evergreen Perfection, which was placed second. Mrs. George H. Pell's Champion Batch was accorded the blue over Evergreen Progenitor and Progenitor's Duke in the dogs class bred by members. The summary:

RICE BOATS THE FRESHMEN.

Fifty First-Year Men Taken Out on Hudson for Rowing Practice.

Freshman crew practice was begun in earnest at Columbia yesterday when a squad of fifty first-year men went to the rowing quarters at Edgewater. It was the largest squad that Coach Rice has ever had for his freshman combination, and he was able to boat five separate crews. The green men went out in barges for the opening work, and it is probable that they will be kept in the heavy boats until the Spring, when they will have their first tryout in racing shells.

Most of the new men had never seen a boat before, and they had to be taught the rudiments of the game before Coach Rice would let them row on the water. Three barges were sent out one after another and Rice followed in a single skull. He took them about half a mile upstream and let them paddle about. After the first squad had finished Rice sent out the two remaining boats.

The 'Varsity crew will not begin work until later in the week. Rice expects to have at least four 'Varsity shells on the water from the beginning. It is believed that if the increase in the size of the squad continues it will be necessary to enlarge the quarters.

HIGHER PRICES FOR HORSES.

Fairy Queen Brings Top Bid for a Single Horse, $1,750.

It took the horse buying public a day to warm up to the good things in horseflesh offered at Durland's in the present sale in which many good show prospects are offered, and the second night of the auction was productive of more spirited bidding, better prices being obtained.

The presence of many purchasers with several newcomers desiring to increase their stables made the evening's offerings bring some top prices and the gathering in of the choice equines was accomplished only by those of skilled experience.

G. B. Tayor, H. L. Petit, and George Phillips were the heaviest purchasers of the lot and were successful in getting a string of the best horses in the sale, many of which are either champions of some note or likely candidates.

G. B. Taylor purchased Royal Victoria, a hackney mare of the Seelig consignment, for $1,800; the pair Perfect and Perfection for $950; Lord Knickerbocker, a bay gelding of the runabout class by Fandango, for $325; Lady Sandy, a combination mare, for $450; the pair of harness horses, Max and Climax, for the sum of $1,250, being the heaviest buyer of the night.

George Phillips bought the Seelig road four and a pair of cock horses in three lots, paying $900 for the wheelers, the same figure for the cock horses, and finally landing the leaders after some spirited bidding from $500 up to $950. This was one of the best collections of the catalogue.

The best price of the evening paid for a single horse was received when Fairy Queen was knocked down to R. E. Sause, who acted for Godfrey Preecs, the price being $1,750. The summary:

Racing on Speedway To-morrow.

The third Fall matinee of the Road Drivers' Association of New York, which was originally scheduled to take place to-day, has been postponed until to-morrow on account of the holiday, and with fifty-two horses entered in the twelve events scheduled for competition, the brushes promises some good sport. The brushing of last Sunday showed a marked improvement over anything seen on the Harlem Speedway in years, and with as good a card, and the same horses, a repetition of the Sunday sport is assured. With the exception of the Class A pace and Class A trot, the fields are well balanced, with enough entries to make the sport exciting and productive of some close finishes.

TAMMANY'S REPULSE.

The hardihood of Tammany in the last legislative session had its culmination in the Levy amendments to the election law. That law was a direct assault upon the liberties of the people. Its object was to confirm Tammany in its hold upon power in this city and in the State. We doubt whether the people of New York have had a due sense of the audacity and the dangerous scope of this attempted abridgment of their rights guaranteed under the Constitution. The Court of Appeals has declared the act unconstitutional in the two principal provisions, which were drawn in the interest of Tammany Hall. The court stamps as unconstitutional the provision prohibiting the appearance of a candidate's name in more than one column on the official ballot, and the provision requiring personal registration of voters in the rural counties who did not vote at the last election.

The first of these provisions was intended to make exceedingly difficult or impossible the organization of fusion movements in this city. For instance, a candidate named by the Republicans and afterward named by a fusion party or by the Independence League, would have had the right to determine in which column his name should be placed, but it could be placed in but one. If he chose to have it placed at the head of the Republican column, the other groups or parties nominating him would have been obliged to place at the head of their column a mere cross-reference, referring the voter to the Republican column. Anybody can see that this would have made any fusion movement hopeless. The other provision, relating to registration up the State, was a crafty attempt to take advantage of the fact that something like 150,000 Republican voters remained away from the polls last Fall. It was hoped that by requiring their personal appearance for registration, which in most of the up-State counties would have involved great personal inconvenience, the Republican vote would have been much diminished.

The act was declared unconstitutional by Justice GAVEGAN of the Supreme Court in this district, and an order issued requiring the Board of Elections to prepare the ballot under the old election law. On appeal this order was set aside by the Appellate Division, Justices INGRAHAM, MCLAUGHLIN, MILLER, and DOWLING concurring, and Justice CLARKE dissenting. In writing the opinion of the court Justice INGRAHAM said concerning the provision forbidding the printing of the candidate's name in more than one column:

> It certainly cannot be assumed that the electors are so little concerned with the persons whom they desire to elect for office that they will not take the trouble to look through the ballot and pick out the names of the candidates for whom they desire to vote.

The opinion of the Court of Appeals will enlighten the Justices of the Appellate Division as to the breadth of meaning in that provision of the Constitution which declares that "no member of this State shall be disfranchised or deprived of any of the rights or privileges secured to any citizen thereof, unless by the law of the land or by the judgment of his peers." The Levy law did deprive, and was wickedly intended to deprive, the people of this State of rights guaranteed by that provision of the Constitution. It deprived the nominees of certain parties or groups of the rights accorded to other parties or groups. It deprived, and was intended to deprive, certain political parties or groups of the rights exercised by other parties, Tammany, for instance. It deprived the voter of his right freely to exercise his choice of a candidate at the polls. As the court says, it "discriminates between electors" in the opportunities afforded for voting for the candidate of their choice. All this was clearly pointed out in the opinion of Justice GAVEGAN, whose elucidating statement of the vices of this law entitles him to the gratitude and the respect of the community. It will be a source of justifiable pride to Justice GAVEGAN that his view of the law has been so completely sustained by the highest court.

Perhaps Archbishop FARLEY was right when he said, or implied, the other day at the unveiling of the Dongan tablet, that the Governor does have something to do with the preservation of our liberties. Here was a direct assault upon the liberties of the citizen, and Gov. DIX altogether failed to safeguard those liberties. He signed the Levy bill. The Governor is not a lawyer, and perhaps he might be personally excusable for failing to perceive that the measure, conceived in evil and wickedness, was a dangerous invasion of privileges secured to us by the Constitution. But the Governor at least could have taken professional advice, and he should have had the best advice. He stood upon the first line of defense, and he failed to do his duty. The court, as has happened in innumerable similar cases, has made itself the great defender of the people. The Court of Appeals has not failed us, and for that let us be thankful.

FRANKLIN'S LOST COMRADES.

Whatever may be said against it, there is certainly something very fascinating about the theory advanced by Mr. STEFANSSON, arctic explorer for the American Museum of Natural History, that the fair-haired, beard-wearing Eskimos he recently saw in Victoria Land are descendants of the survivors of Sir JOHN FRANKLIN'S lost party. In his account of these strange people, published in Sunday's TIMES, Mr. STEFANSSON says:

> In the forties of the last century FRANKLIN'S expedition, with its full complement of men, was lost near the coast of Victoria Land. Some of these men are accounted for by journal entries of officers, who themselves later perished, and others by graves and unburied skeletons along the route toward Back's River, but many are yet unaccounted for.

FRANKLIN'S two ships, the Erebus and Terror, were shut in by ice in the Fall of 1846 twelve miles north of King William's Land. Here the party remained all Winter, and here, in June, 1847, Sir JOHN died. Another year passed, and Capt. CROZIER, now in command, seeing no immediate prospect of getting out with the ships, deserted them with 105 men. They started southward hoping to reach some outpost of the Hudson Bay Company or some shelter established by Sir JOHN on previous expeditions to the arctic shores. Not one of these men is known to have escaped, and though thirty-nine rescue parties in all were sent out to find them not nearly enough evidences were found to account for the deaths of all of them.

It is very pleasant to think that all of these gallant men did not perish miserably of starvation and cold, but found friendly Eskimos and, despairing of rescue, settled down to live out their lives among the kindly natives. This view of one of those ever-interesting mysteries of history is supported by the fact that among these people Mr. STEFANSSON found persons named with the names of white men. With the caution of the true scientist Mr. STEFANSSON gives his views with no more confidence than that they explain the existence of a remarkable people. True theory or not, it is important and interesting.

THE SUGAR ROBBERS.

Meriden has been supposed to be in Connecticut, but nobody would imagine that there could come out from that State such a farrago of nonsense as an alleged classmate of the President at Yale has addressed to him on the sugar situation. The ignorance shown by somebody in the telegram is irritating or amusing according to the way it is looked at, but the spirit shown is worthy of a highwayman who would go to any lengths to forward his own selfish desires. When the President hears that he is "making good" in the opinion of a man thus self-revealed he cannot fail to ask himself what he can have done to merit approval from such a source. Dr. SMITH, if there is any such person, calls the President's attention to the fact that sugar is dear, adding that "no reports have appeared in the public press of any shortage in the sugar crop, and no good reason has been given for the increase in price." Dr. SMITH associates the rise in price with the customs frauds of the Sugar Trust, and he wants the Secret Service and the Department of Justice to camp on the trust's trail until its hide is stretched on the wall.

There is no particular reproach attached to lack of information about the causes of price movements, but when a man uses the President's name to catch the public's attention for such nonsense it is time for plain speaking. There is a trifling shortage of two million tons or so in the sugar crop, and the trust has been selling cheaper than the independents, its misdeeds having been followed by fruits meet for repentance. Whoever is responsible for the drought in Europe is responsible for the larger part of the shortage, the trust's complicity being limited to foresight which has enabled it to meet the demand without extortion. If the trust should be driven out of business the country would be left to the mercies of those who have been charging higher prices, because their foresight and efficiency have not enabled them to serve the public on equally excellent terms, or perhaps even because the independents have a share of the faults of humanity in trade which the alleged Dr. SMITH attributes to the "robbers."

If Dr. SMITH is accessible to information he ought to be obliged for being told that a part of the cost of sugar is due to the tariff, which is levied by Congress. He ought also to know that the only surplus in the world is in Russia, and is kept there by what is called the Brussels Conference. Russia belongs to the Conference, and is under an obligation not to export over 200,000 tons because its bounty system would enable it to break the price in the world's markets. The United States is not a party to the Conference, nor is the trust, but there is a more serious obstacle to our profiting by the Russian surplus. Since that sugar is made abnormally cheap by a bounty system it could not be admitted here without a countervailing duty. If Dr. SMITH, assuming that there is such a Meriden person, chooses to agitate for a reduction of the duty on raw sugar, or for a modification of the differential upon the refined article, or for the removal of the countervailing duty, he will have an arguable case, although he might perhaps be surprised to learn what there is to be said to the contrary. As the case stands he merely discloses an ignorance and prejudice which disqualifies him as an adviser of the President. The only excuse for mentioning him is that it may serve a useful purpose to let those who follow some denouncers of the trusts know the sort of leaders they have.

OBITER DICTA.

Sir FREDERICK POLLOCK'S statement that the British courts would have decided our trust cases similarly to our own Supreme Court, but would have used fewer words in doing so, is one of the most soothing utterances on the trust question which can be imagined. It calls attention to the fact that the decisions themselves are less the cause of our perplexity than the remarks of the honorable Justices "on the side." If the court in its earlier opinions had confined itself to delivering its decisions the trusts it slew would have been just as dead, but the country would not have been terrorized by the declarations that all combinations were equally dangerous and detestable, and that the court neither would nor could relieve the situation. This was the same as saying that no relief was possible, since nobody imagined that it was possible to secure a loan of the light of reason from Congress, to whose unreason the court apparently had humbled itself.

It is worth saying this for the emollient it applies to the trust situation, which is more nearly solved by the application of the light of reason than is generally appreciated. President TAFT has asked what bad trust can escape the application of the light of reason. It is equally pertinent to ask what good trust can suffer by the application of the light of reason. It ought to be better understood that the light of reason is a shield as well as a sword. The punishments of the wicked are the protection of the innocent. The complications of the bad trusts are nothing to the good trusts. It is only trusts with records like the bad trusts that need lie awake nights. Unproved allegations may be troublesome, but cannot be destructive, even in bills of complaint. Persecution of the good trusts cannot extend to manufacture of evidence. Even if bills of equity should multiply, their teeth are drawn by each fresh application of the light of reason. Even more soothing will be the withdrawal of the trust prosecutions from the purview of equity to the realm of fact. The trusts which have been slain would have had a better chance for their lives before a jury, and the chances of other trusts are manifold better than those of the trusts which were selected because of their eminence in wickedness.

It is to be hoped that our highest court will take in good part the learned and shrewd comment of Sir FREDERICK. No more than the rawest apprentice attorney are Judges exempt from the venerable advice that decisions of the law are best accompanied with fewest reasons why the law is what it is.

FORBIDDEN FRUIT.

Upheld by public opinion, Dr. WILEY is again Chief Chemist of his bureau in fact as well as in name. At the meeting on Monday of the newly constituted Board of Food and Drug Inspection within the Bureau of Chemistry, Chief WILEY signalized the withdrawal of Solicitor MCCABE and the accession of the friendly Dr. DOOLITTLE by the announcement that he would begin a campaign against the shippers of immature and unripe fruit.

The "ripeners," who paint the green orange and dress the unripe banana with a deceptive yellow, may soon be without occupation. More scientific methods of shipment by expeditious routes have made it less necessary to pluck fruits and vegetables in the unripe stages, and, of course, the process of sweating them into a semblance of ripeness is inherently deceptive. Also fruits preserved with benzoate of soda may before long be forbidden by the overruling of the American Remsen Board by the judgment of more eminent chemists and physicians abroad. Dr. WILEY'S restoration of power came upon the day of the receipt by the Department of Agriculture of a full copy of the report made by the Referee Board of the Prussian Government sustaining Dr. WILEY'S report, based upon experiments with his "poison squad," that sodium benzoate is harmful when used in preserving foodstuffs. The Prussian Referee Board had before it both the work of Dr. WILEY and the report of the Remsen Board, and declared that Dr. REMSEN'S experts had drawn conclusions not warranted by the facts. It therefore recommended to the Prussian Government the exclusion of benzoate of soda from foods, as it has already excluded the preservative from wines. The preservative, it says, gives the "appearance of freshness to foodstuffs that already have entered upon decomposition, and the buyer may be deceived as to the quality."

Chief WILEY is assured that Secretary WILSON will approve all the decisions of the Bureau of Chemistry in cases for prosecution of manufacturers without reference to the authority of Solicitor MCCABE. It is merely an assurance. MCCABE is still Solicitor of the department, and in this position he gained a personal and official ascendency that enabled him to hold in abeyance thousands of cases which Secretary WILSON was commanded by the Food and Drugs act of 1906 to refer to "the proper District Attorney." By subtle "jokers" in appropriation acts, by changes in the regulations that conformed to the act of 1906, by the garbling of court decisions and of official correspondence, the Chief Chemist was deprived of practically all power to enforce the law in the public interest and put Dr. WILEY'S position and that of other faithful officials in jeopardy. Mr. MCCABE dared prepare and send to his Chief and to the President his case against them in which the vital facts had been suppressed, and, upon its incomplete data, the Attorney General ruled as MCCABE had plotted. But for the unexpected publication of all the facts, his conspiracy might have been successful. For the good of the service he should be removed.

The suspicion grows that the Italian war with Turkey over Tripoli was arranged by Mr. GEORGE TYLER as a neat advertisement of his forthcoming production of "The Garden of Allah." Mr. TYLER was certainly busily employed on some matter in the backyard of Tripoli last Spring.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Genealogy Is Full of Illusion. Underlying all, or almost all, investigation of pedigrees, and vitiating its results, including the beautifully drawn genealogical "trees" which are the source of so much innocent and amusing pride, is the fallacious assumption that a person is or can be in any significant or measurable degree the descendant of a remote ancestor in some way distinguished.

The commonly accepted idea or conception is of a family started by one man and gradually increasing by "branches" from the single main stock, or, more diagrammatically, a pyramid standing on an apex buried deep in the past and with its base spread out over a more or less wide area of to-day. The trouble with both the tree and the pyramid is that both are upside down—that descent is not from one ancestor, but from many, the number doubling, except for a little intermarriage of relatives, with every generation.

When the constantly dividing line has been traced back only a hundred years the number of ancestors is, or may be, thirty-two, and for the now living man to vaunt himself on being the descendant of any one of the thirty-two, and to treat the other thirty-one as non-existent, though each of them contributed just as much to his "blood" as did the selected notability, is obviously a grotesque and fantastic error. The ancestry of every one of us is almost infinitely complex and that of everybody is at once royal and plebeian. Also, it is always much the same, such differences as are to be found being but episodic—impermanent ripples in the broad racial river.

Into this welter and confusion of heredity the Mendelian laws have at last brought some traces of comprehensible order. By denying—and disproving—the one certainty we thought we had, which was that "like produces like," those laws, however, have taken away the last valid reason for pride of ancestry. Like does produce like, sometimes, and in a sense, but the sense is not that of general understanding, and it may very well happen that the trait that made one of innumerable ancestors famous was what the Mendelians call a "recessive character" and reappeared in none of that ancestor's descendants.

A New Post for Major Hemphill. Richmond, Va., is to be condoled with, and Charlotte, N. C., to be congratulated on the transfer of the valuable services of Major JAMES CALVIN HEMPHILL from the editorship of The Times-Dispatch of the former city to that of The Charlotte Observer. Major HEMPHILL gave up his post as editor of The Charleston (S. C.) News and Courier, in which he had for many years exerted a beneficent influence which extended far beyond the borders of the old South State, nearly two years ago, and in the interim he has made the editorial page of The Times-Dispatch a force to be reckoned with in the politics of Virginia and the Nation. No other journalist of the South excels Major HEMPHILL in clearness of vision, sagacity, and fairness of mind, while his command of humor, and the perspective of large experience which shows in all he writes, lend unusual charm and force to his work. He leaves Richmond to take editorial control of a long-established and influential newspaper, in an important centre of the South, and he carries with him to his new post the sympathy and good wishes of all his fellows in the journalists' calling.

Fidelity at Last Attained. For more centuries than anybody can number with exactness, the magnetic compass has been counted one of mankind's most valuable possessions, and until very recently the idea that it could be replaced by anything else, or that it was even capable of essential improvement, had occurred to nobody. And enormously valuable it has indeed been, since without it any except the most timorous navigation would have been impossible, or at least dangerous to the point of impracticability. Realizing their dependence on, and indebtedness to, the compass, men have praised it, and, so far as they can love an insentient thing, have loved it. They have even gone to the length of crediting it with virtues and qualities it never had, and "true as the needle to the pole" has become the favorite simile in every reference to unalterable loyalty.

As a matter of fact, however, and sailors have always known it to their sorrow, the fidelity of the needle to the pole is nothing more than a poor, weak tendency to point somewhere near a constantly shifting spot not very far from the pole, and when the needle can find an excuse for pointing somewhere else it always does it. The untrustworthiness of the magnetic compass is the cause of constant anxiety to every navigator. He spends no small part of his time every day in correcting as well as he can its vagarious deflections and deviations, and when he has no other guide he is never sure either of his course or his destination.

It is, therefore, news of the very utmost importance that there has been invented a compass that is gyroscopic, not magnetic—a compass that has, not a tendency, but a determination, to point "true north," and that cannot be seduced from its allegiance, as can its predecessor, by anything metallic from a cargo of railway iron or a sixteen-inch gun to the jackknife in a third mate's pocket. The new compass requires the constant turning of a heavy wheel at the rate of something like 9,000 revolutions a minute, and therefore cannot be used on any vessel that does not carry a dynamo and an engine to run it. Small craft and most sailing vessels must probably continue, therefore, to pretend contentment with the old compass, but others—all steamships and the men of war—will be devoutly thankful if the gyro compass proves to be as good as the rather extensive tests already made of its practicability and utility seem to indicate.

Imprisonment Wouldn't Be Vindication. One of the men in the shoe machinery trust is quoted as vowing that he will never pay a fine, but, in case of conviction under the indictments found against him and his associates, he will go to jail. Better imprisonment with self-respect, he says, than liberty with a tarnished name.

That is a fine sentiment, and does credit alike to head and heart, but it is a little hard to understand in its present application. If, as the bold machinery man says, he has not broken the law, he will be acquitted and there will be as little need of paying a fine as of going to jail. In case of conviction, what difference as to the tarnish on his name would it make should he exercise such small choice as he may have, if any, in regard to the nature of the penalty he must suffer?

He could pay the fine while still protesting his innocence of intentional or conscious lawbreaking, just as he could do the same thing as he went to jail. His self-respect would not suffer for taking the lighter of two punishments, both of which he considered undeserved, and it is conviction, not sentence, that tarnishes a name.

AN "EQUAL PAY" COMPROMISE.

Suggests That No More Men Teachers Be Paid Higher Than Women.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As a means of avoiding the gross injustice of paying more than "market" rates to a certain large section of city employes in schools at a time when the alarming 23 per cent. increase in the budget is awakening apprehension among those called on to pay, and when all eligible lists of teachers and Principals are crowded with applicants for the pay so many profess to be unable to live on, permit me to suggest a remedy: All present men in the school system to be kept, but no more appointed, or, if appointed, only at the rates now paid to women.

In this way equal pay will be attained, and, as the women declare that they do exactly the same work as the men, and that it is only the inequality they object to, all will (or may) be serene again.

A first-rate woman is so far superior to a third-rate man in the "profession" that to have any but the former is a great error of judgment—and the Principals' Association less than a year ago demanded of the examiners that they pay some attention to the personality of men to whom they granted licenses.

It is said that this proposed "measure of justice," alias "equal" pay, will cost only $3,750,000 more per year. Experience shows that at least three times that amount will be the real expense, and the new budget is 23 per cent. advance over the old. ROBERT P. GREEN.

New York, Oct. 10, 1911.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

A letter to THE TIMES signed by Charles S. Estes, and referring to the "Equal Pay" bill, calls attention to the fact that this bill will add from $3,000,000 to $5,000,000 to the city's annual expenses, and generally deplores the passage of such a measure on the ground that "If there shall ever arise such a condition that the schools must have a few men the city is estopped from offering such inducements as will secure these few men," &c.

It might be well for Mr. Estes to take the time to look over the tax lists of the City of New York and convince himself of the amount annually paid into the city treasury by women. If he does this he will find that the tax-paying women will be obliged to contribute their share of the $3,000,000 to $5,000,000 additional expense caused by this tardy justice to women school teachers. And should he wish to pursue the matter further, he will discover no record of any property being declared exempt from taxation, nor even the slightest reduction made on account of the owner being a woman.

A CATHOLIC AS GOVERNOR.

President Taylor Objects to Introducing Religion in Politics.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Not as a Protestant, but as an American citizen who believes that religion ought to be kept out of politics and that sectarianism ought to be watched at every point in connection with our institutions, I raise my protest against the statement published in your paper this morning, and alleged to have been made by Archbishop Farley in New York.

We are not looking for Governors that are either Protestant or Catholic, but as citizens we have a right to object to any church, whether Protestant or Catholic, claiming specific attention in connection with our nominations to political offices.

Mother with Insane Husband.

With her husband in an insane asylum and four small children to support, their mother has asked assistance from the Charity Organization Society. The insane husband, before his commitment, badly misused his wife. Since the family has been under the society's care the mother has worked unceasingly to regain her self-support. The cares of home and her lack of skill, however, have made it impossible to earn more than a small part of the income she needs. In another year the eldest boy will be of working age. He is even now eager to begin work, which augurs well for the solution of this family's difficulties. Meanwhile the Charity Organization Society needs a fund of $250 with which to pay a pension of $5 a week during the coming twelve months. This fund must be secured if the family is to be kept together.

Contributions may be addressed to the Charity Organization Society, 105 East Twenty-second Street, and will be acknowledged.

The society acknowledges with thanks the following contributions received in response to former appeals in THE NEW YORK TIMES: "C. B. B.," $1; Cash, $5; "A Friend," $5; "A. I. H.," $5; "J. W. S.," $4; "B. N.," $1; "Working Girl," $1; "Release," $100; Howard Opdyke, $2; Mrs. G. F. Satterlee, $5; N. Stager, $[illegible]; Cash, $3; Cash, 10 cents; "Alexander," $1; "K. B. E.," $1; "Architect," $5; "An Old Woman," $1; "T. J. R.," $2; Miss M. Greene, $7.50; Miss B. Greene, $7.50; Mrs. Robert Stobo, $3; Dr. L. McLean, $2; Anonymous, $20; "Mother and Father," 10 cents; "I. B. D.," $10; Henry Wollman, $1; Mrs. F. C. Whittlesey, $10; Fred C. Bowman, $10; "C. K. ARGUE APPEAL IN COAL SUIT.

McReynolds Calls Statements in Railroad Brief "Maliciously False."

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—In his argument before the Supreme Court to-day J. C. McReynolds, special attorney for the Department of Justice, charged that certain statements made in a brief by counsel for the Central Railroad of New Jersey were "maliciously false." The case was the appeal in the suit against the Anthracite Coal Trust.

"I wish to call attention of the court to the language in the brief filed by the Central Railroad of New Jersey," said Mr. McReynolds, "and to state to the court that these statements are maliciously false."

Mr. McReynolds cited quotations from the railroad brief in which it was asserted that the Government had "deliberately quoted parts of the record condemned by the lower court," and through an "artificial juxtaposition of unrelated facts" had created a false atmosphere. The railroad brief alleged that the Government had gone back thirty years, collected disconnected incidents and put them together "artificially" in such a way as to give an impression of violation of laws where really none existed.

The attorney for the Government was angry and was making a stinging speech when the Chief Justice interrupted by announcing that the court would pass on the language.

"Of course the court will take into consideration the language employed in the briefs," said Chief Justice White.

Mr. McReynolds moved to strike from the files the entire brief for the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey and the Lehigh Valley and Wilkesbarre Coal Company. The court allowed four hours to each side for the argument of the question, and Mr. McReynolds for the Government and Everett Warren for the Temple Iron Company were heard, but the argument was not concluded.

BILLS FOR KEEPING HORNET.

Washington Departments at Odds Over Paying for Painting Captive Filibuster.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—The seizure of the Hornet for violation of the neutrality laws when she was sent on a filibustering expedition to Honduras last year is giving other departments than the State Department something to think of. The vessel is still being held. While the Hornet was in charge of Commander Eberle of the gunboat Wheeling it was discovered that her engines, boilers, and shafts were in danger of being badly injured by rust, and Eberle decided to put her in order. He sent forty of his men aboard and had her machinery scraped and chipped and bought a few hundred pounds of red lead and slapped it on everything that would rust. Then he turned her over to the United States Marshal at New Orleans.

When the bills came in Eberle wrote to Washington that they were the business of the Department of Justice so long as the Marshal was in possession of the Hornet. The Department of Justice demurred, and the Navy Department asked the Controller to decide who should be responsible for taking care of the boat and out of what fund the money should be taken to pay for the paint and other bills.

It was pointed out that there were but two funds from which the bills could be paid. One was that for "relief of vessels in distress" and the other the contingent fund. The Controller decided that a vessel captured for violating the neutrality laws and held under guard in a safe harbor could hardly be regarded as being in distress and refused to authorize the payment from it. He finally in sheer despair held that the money could be taken from the contingent fund, and the Department of Justice must charge such expenses up against the Hornet. If ultimately the owners do not pay them the only recourse will be to sell her again at auction to reimburse the Government.

THE WRECK OF THE FAN

He sits all day in a padded cell, the wreck of a brilliant man; in his better days we knew him well, for he was a Baseball Fan. He watched the scores in the daily press as the season neared its end, when the race grew hot and bitterness knew reason not or friend. As the days wore on and the nerves grew tense he sat and figured out the averages and team per cents. with a heart that was good and stout. He figured at dawn when he first arose on a cuff or a wall or chair, and he figured at noon in a clerical pose on the back of a bill of fare. He studied the tables daily set before him in the news, and his brow grew damp with beads of sweat that were glistening and profuse. He cast great figured columns up and he cast great columns down, and when he went to dine or sup his brow wore a wrinkled frown. His eyes grew strange with a feverish light and burned with a lurid glare. His sleep was troubled with dreams at night and he twisted out his hair. And after the season's fateful end the wreck of a mind once clear was found by an old and faithful friend and given asylum here.

For they found him afar on a barren shore with a pencil in his hand, and they heard him mutter o'er and o'er: "Now, how does the matter stand? If the Cubs win six and the Cards lose two and the Giants lose them all and the Reds drop five ere the season's through and the Phillies play fast ball and lose but three and win ten straight and the Pirates lose not one and the Tigers split with an even slate, are the White Sox in the run if they win fourteen and lose but four and the Senators lose two and the Yankees sprint and win one more than the Naps or the Colonels do? Can the Pirates lead if they win them all and the Giants drop but three, by the fraction of a decimal, for the finish then would be, Cubs six-four-six-naught-naught-naught-five, and the Giants' score would stand at six-four-six-naught—man alive, get out the big brass band, for the Pirates win by the thousandth part of one per cent., and then we are one ten-thousandth less—O heart, be still till I count again."

So he muttered on and they brought him here, where he sits through the Autumn days and the Winter winds that blow so drear, with deep lines in his face and the glimmer of mania in his eyes, and still he mutters on: "If the Cubs lose once and the Giants twice are the Pirates' hopes then gone? If the Cards drop five and the Reds win two and the Tigers claw down three, then what can the Naps and the Phillies do, and what will the standing be? If the Cubs stand five-four-five-naught-naught-one-naught-naught-two-three-four then the Giants have to win three games to be three ten-thousandths more, and the Pirates may win one, lose two, tie one with five to play and lead by the hundred-thousandth part of a point on the finish day; and the Giants might from now lose all and the finish count would stand in twenty places of decimals, but where would the White Sox land?" And then the gentle keepers come to the cell where he sits and tries to figure it out by rule and sum with the glare in his lurid eyes, and they give him a draught from a sleeping cup and they look at the sums he's done and find that he's reckoned the standings up to the millionth part of one. And all of his days he must tarry here, the wreck of a brilliant man we knew in his better days and clear when he was a Baseball Fan! J. W. FOLEY.

HOW COMMON LAW SPREAD OVER SEAS

HELD ITS OWN WITH RIVALS

Tendency Always to Imitate British Models in Criminal and Constitutional Law.

The alliances and conquests of the English common law, Sir Frederick Pollock told his audience at Columbia University yesterday, were not due to "any superior justice or convenience" of rules. The quality of the common law of England which has enabled it to more than hold its own with its rivals, Sir Frederick thought, was the quality of toughness.

The technical part of the lecture dealt with the conflicts and compromises of the common law with the canon law, the law merchant, and the laws of equity. The untechnical part dealt with the spread of English common law beyond England. Sir Frederick said in part:

"The common law, like the English language, contains a great deal of mixed and composite material, but has an individual structure and character which are all its own; and, also like the English language, on the whole, has had the best of it in competition with rivals.

"There is no case, I believe, of the common law having lost ground in the presence of another system; there are certainly many where it has gained; and the question is forced on an inquiring mind, to use the words of a recent ingenious Frenchman: 'To what is due the superiority of the Anglo-Saxons?'

"Whatever we might say if we could throw ourselves back into Coke's frame of mind, we can surely not be content to say that it is due to the intrinsic virtues of our race or altogether to the superior justice or convenience of our rules.

"The more we look into other civilized modern law the more we shall find that under all differences of terminology and procedure the results come out not much unlike. No sane and impartial man will believe that in the main there is not as good justice in Edinburgh as in London, or at Montreal as at Toronto.

"Besides, one thing the boldest champion could never say in our praise is that we take any pains to make our ways easy for strangers who have a mind to learn them. The fact remains that the common law shows assimilative power which to all appearances grows by what it feeds on.

"There is this great difference, that other laws are special and personal, while the common law is not. It is the law not of a class or of a kindred, but of the whole kingdom, and the men who dwell therein. On the other hand, the canon law, to take the case of the greatest rival, is personal though it is universal.

"Doubtless it is binding on all Christian men, but it is the law of Christians only; we do not speak here of the justice which many prelates from the Pope downward—say, for a domestice example, the Bishop of Durham—administer as temporal princes with territorial jurisdiction, for, though such justice may be bound in principle to accord with the law of the Holy Church, it is in itself not spiritual, but secular.

"Our Lady the Common Law takes, as a matter of course, whatever other jurisdictions have left for whatever reason, and keeps it with very little chance of losing it again. Moreover, being of a free hand, she knows how to take as well as to give nobly and without false shame, which is a high point of generosity and something of a divine secret. Her cloak will open as wide as the Madonna's and the children she welcomes under it are adopted for her very own. Where the occasion was not ripe for full intimacy, she has been polite in making friends of rivals and possible adversaries.

"About the same time as the annexation of the law merchant in England was completed, Our Lady began to extend her influence beyond seas in various ways. I do not speak here of the simple transport of English law by English colonists to countries where no civilized law was in possession, but only of cases where another system or tradition was there already. If, indeed, a few historical facts had been different there might have been curious questions as to the local laws of colonies by settlement.

"Nobody, for example, ever heard of a colony being under the law of Scotland, not even Nova Scotia. But what if there had been Scottish colonies before the Act of Union? At this day I conceive that may be a theoretical question as to what is the proper law of a ship registered in Glasgow and sailing from the Clyde.

"The British ensign is no more English than Scotch or Irish. Under what law would be a boat's crew who landed from such a ship on an unclaimed island?

"The practical answer is that the modern maritime law of the two jurisdictions is identical either by statute or as a part of universal sea law. But certainly there is no authority for assuming that English law, as such, is the general national maritime law of British subjects, though I have known arguments reported which seemed to make that assumption, or even to extend some such doctrine of the 'predominant partner' to the conflict of laws on land.

"Here, however, we are near touching on one of Our Lady's little secrets, or rather a family secret of all jurisprudence, namely, that any clever student can put a number of questions which lawyers and men of affairs, in the exercise of their common sense, have tacitly agreed to avoid in practice.

"Only one law, the common law, has ever gone forth into the world beyond the narrow seas under or in company with the British flag; and wherever the British flag has gone much of the spirit of the common law has gone with it, if not of the letter also. Everywhere our system has made its mark, and often without official confidence.

"The tendency to imitate English models is strongest in criminal and constitutional law, considerable in mercantile law; while in the private civil law of property (excluding real estate) and obligations it is less though not negligible, and in the regions of real estate, the family and succession, it hardly exists. Indeed, those are not parts of our system which any English lawyer would recommend for general adoption.

"Most remarkable is the success of English criminal law, for it would be hard to name a British possession where it does not prevail under one form or another."

In the evening Sir Frederick was the guest of honor at a reception given in the Columbia University Law Library by the Law School Alumni Association.

MAINE BOILERS INTACT.

Discovery Disposes of Theory That Battleship Was Blown Up by Them.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—At least one fact has developed beyond controversy in connection with the excavation proceeding inside the coffer dam inclosing the wreck of the Maine in Havana Harbor. The ship was not blown up by her boilers.

Some have contended that the explosion of the boilers caused the magazines to explode in turn. But a report from the army engineers shows that the tops of the boilers were found intact, except that one of the forward boilers, which was not burst, had been driven bodily astern by the last from the magazines. It had gone clear through a heavy bulkhead and against one of the after-boilers.

Another curious discovery was that an ammunition case had been blown aft from the magazines into the rear boiler room without exploding the smokeless powder it contained.

The report shows that instead of being able to float only the after third of the hull more than half of the ship can be pumped out and floated out of the dam. This will greatly reduce the work of removing the wreck from the harbor.

The engine rooms have been found almost completely filled with mud. The engines, so far as uncovered, were found in a remarkable state of preservation. But they are of no use except as junk. It is expected that the bones of a number of bodies will be found in the engine and boiler rooms when all the mud has been removed.

IRVING C. STERN AND MISS BRANDEIS WED

Youngest Son of Louis Stern Married to Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur D. Brandeis.

CEREMONY AT SHERRY'S

Held in Tapestry Room Hung with Autumnal Leaves—Dinner in Ballroom—The Wedding Attendants.

The wedding of Miss Ruth Brandeis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur D. Brandeis of New York and Omaha, Neb., to Irving C. Stern, youngest son of Louis Stern, and a member of the firm of Stern Brothers of this city, took place at 6 o'clock last night at Sherry's. The Rev. Leo Franklin of Detroit, Mich., a friend of the bride's parents, performed the ceremony.

The tapestry room at Sherry's, where the ceremony took place, was hung with Autumnal leaves, the east end being converted into an immense bower of oak leaves, broken by clusters of white chrysanthemums. An aisle was formed by gilt standards, festooned with smilax and topped with bridal roses.

The bride wore a gown of brocade velvet on satin, and a Court train, trimmed with rose point lace. Her veil was a shawl of rose point lace, caught up with a coronet of natural orange blossoms, and reached to the floor. This veil is an heirloom in the Brandeis family, and was first worn by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Herman Freedman. Her mother also wore it at her wedding.

The flowers carried by the bride were white orchids and lilies of the valley. Her only ornament was a large bowknot of diamonds, a gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Leola Brandeis acted as her sister's maid of honor. She wore a costume of pale pink chiffon, trimmed with rosebuds, and carried pink roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Beatrice Stern, a sister of the bridegroom, was the flower girl. She wore a frock of Irish lace over blue, and carried a basket of pink roses.

Mr. Brandeis gave his daughter in marriage. Melville Stern was best man for his brother. There were no ushers.

A reception followed the ceremony, after which dinner was served in the small ballroom, where the orchestra was screened by Autumnal flowers and foliage. Mrs. Brandeis, the mother of the bride, wore a gown of brocaded gold on satin, with antique lace, and carried mauve orchids. She was assisted in receiving by the Baroness de Graffenried, a sister of the bridegroom, who only arrived here from Europe with her husband, Baron Leo de Graffenried, a few hours before the wedding.

Among the immediate family present, besides Louis Stern, the bridegroom's father, was Mrs. Melville Stern, sister-in-law of the bridegroom; also Mr. and Mrs. H. Hugo Brandeis and Emil Brandeis of Omaha, Neb., and Mrs. Cora Sloman of Detroit, Mich., an aunt of the bride.

Later the couple left on a short bridal trip. Upon their return to the city they will stay at the Ritz-Carlton and will sail for Europe the first of the year for a six months' trip. While abroad they will be the guests of the Baron and Baroness de Graffenried. Mr. and Mrs. Brandeis, the bride's parents, live at 763 Fifth Avenue.

EVENING OF RARE JOY WITH SCOTCH PLAYERS

FRESH AND CHARMING

With Delightful Acting by a Company of Players, Almost Every One of Whom Scores a Personal Success.

BUNTY PULLS THE STRINGS, a comedy in three acts, by Graham Moffat. William Collier's Comedy Theatre.

Rab Biggar	Edmond Beresford
Bunty Biggar	Molly Pearson
Susie Simpson	Jean Cadell
Tammas Biggar	Campbell Gullen
Weelum Sprunt	Sanderson Moffat
Eelen Dunlop	Amy Singleton
Teenie Dunlop	Margaret Nybloc
Jeems Gibb	George Ingleton
Maggie Mercer	Marjorie Davidson
Dan Birrell	Will Jaxone

It would be practically impossible to overestimate the joy of such a performance as that of "When Bunty Pulls the Strings," the new Scotch comedy by Graham Moffat, which, with a company as Scotch as the play itself, kept the audience in roars of delighted laughter at the Comedy Theatre last night. Certainly nothing so fresh and charming has been seen here in many a long day, and if the attitude of the first night's assemblage was a token, as it surely seemed to be, it will be equally as long before playgoers grow weary of the delight it offers.

Mr. Moffat, the author, is a Scotchman himself, but one, it seems, who has been able to see the peculiarities of his people as others might see them. One says might because to have seen as much as Mr. Moffat did has meant in the very beginning a keen sense of humor and a gift for observation. It is inevitable that Mr. Moffat should be compared to Mr. J. M. Barrie, but neither of them will be the loser by the comparison. The whimsicality of the race is in them both. And both have set some portion of it forth for the delectation of their less fortunate fellow-mortals. And so we now have "When Bunty Pulls the Strings" with its gorgeously amusing reflection of dour Scotch life, its delicious bits of satire on customs and manners grown into disuse, its appealing touches of sentiment—all displayed through a series of naturally moving characters, each of whom appears to have suddenly stepped out of the very life of an oldtime Scotch village.

The village of Lintiehaugh stands but a few miles distant from Thrums. There is Tammas Biggar, Elder of the kirk, prosperous shopkeeper, ruling his children with a rod of iron, keen for the bawbees, a pillar of righteousness in his neighbors' eyes, yet with memories deep in his heart which he himself cannot look upon without a feeling of shame; his two children, Bunty and Rab, the former a delightful picture of girlishness whose impulse is to "mother" everybody, and finally dispose of all her relatives in a way calculated to insure their happiness. Rab, on the other hand, is the typical Scotch youth, ambitious to change the dullness of Lintiehaugh for the exuberant joys of Glasgow, and whose spirit of rebellion urges him even to so daring an offense as to whistle the Psalms on the Sabbath Day. Then there is Weelum Sprunt, with a boy's soul in a man's body, who at the early age of 29 enjoys the honor of standing at the church door in custody of the "plate." Love for Bunty is the ruling force of his life, and some of the prettiest and tenderest scenes of the play are concerned with his wooing of her. For the rest you are no less interested in the doings of Eelen Dunlop, the elder Biggar's old sweetheart, cruelly jilted by him thirty years ago, on the appointed day of their wedding, and of Miss Susie Simpson, who unblushingly offers to relieve Biggar of his indebtedness towards her, provided he will give her the position recently held by his deceased wife.

The title sufficiently indicates the course of events. It is Bunty who pulls the strings, and she does so in such fashion as to prove that no one else could have done it half so well. Tammas Biggar, the self-righteous Tammas and pride of the village, has not always governed his own conduct by the principles laid down by him for others. Jamie, his eldest son, has proved something of a wastrel, and in order to save him from prison Tammas is forced to part with £150. To do this he has been compelled to draw upon the money confided to him by Miss Susie Simpson. Being the Sabbath day, Tammas characteristically postpones any answer when she proposes that he make it right by marrying her. Presently there arrives upon the scene Eelen Dunlop, accompanied by her niece, Teenie. Biggar's dismay on finding himself confronted with the woman he callously deserted thirty years previously, gives way to his old affection which quickly revives. It is a very pretty entanglement, which only the deft fingers of Bunty can unravel. Fortunately, she is equal to the occasion. The money saved for her own marriage with Weelum Sprunt shall be devoted to the release of her father from Susie's grasp, albeit the sacrifice entails a lengthy period of waiting on the part of herself and her lover. Then, fortunately Bunty's shrewdness leads her to the discovery that Weelum Sprunt is the rightful heir to certain properties which his Aunt Susie had laid forceful hands upon, and that after all the money lent to her father rightfully belongs to her fiancé. So all ends happily for everybody concerned.

All this is told with the most delightful frankness, the dialogue being punctuated by lines so fresh in their application and yet so obviously true to the characters, that they provide occasion for continuous rapid-fire laughter. And even the uninitiated would be able to recognize the essential truthfulness of the types, even though there were not already plenty of evidence of their genuineness. For the benefit of those in doubt it may be added that there will be no difficulty in understanding the dialect.

As they are drawn by the playwright so, too, they are generally acted, the little company imported for the occasion being almost without a flaw.

As Bunty, who is forever pulling strings, Miss Molly Pearson is as pretty as a rosebud, and thoroughly charming, with just the right suggestion of self-reliance and resourcefulness, yet capable when need be of a little show of tenderness. And there is a most appealing figure of a different kind of Scotch girl—one of a more clinging variety—by Miss Margaret Nybloc, who, with Miss Amy Singleton, playing her mother, succeeded in striking some of the truest notes of the performance.

Miss Singleton was delightful. And so, too, in an exactly opposite way, with the sour personality of a disappointed maiden lady, was Miss Jean Cadell. Her performance, indeed, provided one of the finest hits of the evening. Another splendid figure, that of the dominating Scotch father, was provided by Mr. Campbell Gullen, and there was plenty of opposing spirit in the son as played by Edmond Beresford. A little more obvious in his acting than most of the others. Mr. Sanderson Moffat was still highly amusing as the lugubrious bridegroom, who stands nervously by the plate until relieved by the resourceful Bunty.

The enthusiasm was enormous, as indeed it might well be, and after the play was over the audience remained to cheer and to call the actors forward half a dozen times.

It will not do to miss "When Bunty Pulls the Strings." It is the freshest and most wholesome thing that the theatres in New York has housed since the days of "Peter Pan."

DICKENS HERE TO LECTURE.

Son of the Novelist Speaks of People His Father Drew in Books.

Alfred Tennyson Dickens, eldest surviving son of the novelist and godson of Tennyson was at the Hotel Astor last night. He is paying his first visit to the country, which his father wrote up in Martin Chuzzlewit and American Notes and will lecture here in the Winter on his father's life and works.

Mr. Dickens has passed his life for the most part in Australia in sheep farming, but his flocks were killed by a disease called the fluke and lately he has been lecturing in England. Landing at Boston he was entertained yesterday by some of the publishers of that city and Gen. Charles W. Taylor of the Boston Globe related an interesting reminiscence of Charles Dickens. He reported the speech Dickens made at the last dinner given to him before he sailed for England, and held back his copy till the last edition to prevent it being sent broadcast by the Associated Press of the time. In that way he secred a good journalistic beat.

Asked as to how far his father drew his characters from life, Mr. Arthur Tennyson Dickens said:

"Well, I have always understood that the newspaper reporter, who is represented as having met Martin Chuzzlewit on his arrival in this country, was drawn from Gordon Bennett, Sr. Then Great Expectations was published while I was at school at Wimbledon, and it was quite clear to me that Joe Gargery and his wife were drawn from my father's sister and her husband.

"Of course Mr. Micawber was my grandfather and Mrs. Nickleby my grandmother, and many people associated Horace Skimpole with Leigh Hunt. When Hunt complained of it my father wrote and assured him that if he had copied him it was quite unintentional, and a little later he induced Lord Russell, the Premier, a great friend of his, to award Hunt a pension of £200 a year from the Literary Fund."

Mr. Dickens's recollections of his godfather are slight, as the last time he saw the poet he was only 11. Moreover, he left England some years before his father died, but kept an active correspondence with him almost till the day when he was found dead at Gad's Hill.

PROTEST FROM TACOMA.

Its Mayor Objects to Reflections on the Mount Rainier Roads.

Mayor William Wolcott Seymour of Tacoma, Washington, called at THE TIMES office yesterday afternoon to protest against the scolding which, he said, the writer of Topics of the Times had given the Tacomans for proposing to President Taft a trip by night up the dangerous glaciers of Mount Rainier, where, according to reports in others papers, the Taft automobile was at times within a few inches of toppling over a 1,000-foot precipice.

In the first place, said the Mayor of Tacoma, he didn't believe that the President's auto ever was within a few inches of any fall, and he couldn't recall any 1,000-foot sheer drop in the localities described, familiar as he was with them. In the second place, he objected strenuously against having his fellow-Tacomans chided for negligence, inasmuch as their city and county roads aren't dangerous at all, but the very tiptop of perfection, solid, safe, and smooth, with well-settled and well-kept granite.

The poor roads, said Mayor Seymour, are to be found only in the Government's own reserve on Mount Rainier, and had been kept in that condition by the Government despite the urgings of the much-abused Tacomans. Maybe the Presidential auto did get stuck in the mud there, he said, but it was the Government's own mud, and should not be thrown at the doors of the Tacomans.

"We don't like to be misrepresented as living in a wild and woolly West," he declared.

SCHOOL STUDENTS STRIKE.

Youths in the Baron de Hirsch Institution in Rebellion.

A strike of about forty of the fifty students of the Woodbine Agricultural School for Jewish Boys, at Woodbine, N. J., which has been carried on ever since July, is described in an appeal which has just been made by the strikers' leaders to the Jewish Community of New York.

The boys set forth that their strike was forced by harsh and unsympathetic treatment on the part of the school's Superintendent, H. W. Geller, whose dismissal, together with that of the matron, Miss Lydia Cantor, the boys demanded. The Directors of the Baron de Hirsch Fund, which controls the affairs of the school, refused to grant the boys' demands, and after an investigation sustained the Superintendent and matron.

The school, which is one of the chief institutions under the Baron de Hirsch Fund, was established nineteen years ago. For the last six years Mr. Geller has been the Superintendent. The school provides board, lodging, and education free of charge to Jewish boys wishing to become farmers and farm laborers, and gives special training in farm work.

According to Eugene S. Benjamin, President of the Directors of the Baron de Hirsch Fund the present trouble was started by a discharged teacher at the school, who, he says, made trouble among the boys, suggesting to them that they had not been treated properly by Supt. Geller.

Jailed for Letting Minors in Theatre.

Moses Mass, proprietor of a moving-picture show at Houston and Pitt Streets, was convicted in Special Sessions yesterday and sentenced to twenty days in the Tombs for allowing minors to enter his theatre. He is the first man to receive a prison sentence under the law. The complaint against him was made by the Children's Society. Deputy Supt. Moore of the society testified that he saw seventy-four children in the place at one time without guardians.

Conservative Investment

THERE is no greater incentive towards thrift and economy than that induced by conservative investment. It is a mistake to imagine, however, that conservative investment is to be determined by surface conditions alone. Margin of safety, stability of earnings, marketability, interest rates and other important factors all have a bearing upon safe and profitable investment.

AMERICAN LOANS ABROAD

Are Increasing to Very Large Amount—Commercial Paper Rates Easier as Demand Increases.

One of the interesting developments of the day was the refusal of the Paris money market yesterday to discount American finance bills except at a higher figure than the current discount rate. This is probably the first time since the 1907 disturbance that the Paris market has discriminated to this extent against bills drawn by American bankers and merchants. The incident illustrates strikingly the cross currents of the world's money markets, for at the very time that the Paris market is thus demanding a higher toll on American bills discounted there, our own bankers are making very large advances to the foreign markets, principally to Berlin and London. The great ease in our own money market makes this action on the part of the Paris discount market of minor importance, and it is chiefly interesting as suggesting the existence of unusual demands upon the money centres of Europe.

In addition to the money which New York has loaned directly to Berlin and London, our bankers are carrying a large amount of commercial bills originating on this side, which usually would be discounted in the foreign markets, but which are now being carried with American money. Including direct advances and these commercial bills it is estimated by some international bankers that this market is loaning more than $200,000,000 to the European markets. This is one of the important reasons for the strength of the sterling exchange market in the face of an unusually large cotton export movement. A continuance of the tendency which is now making itself felt might well lead to a renewal of the gold export movement. If this should occur it would only be because of the great ease prevailing in this market and not because of any American obligations to Europe. Some discussion is being given to the possibility of a further advance in the Bank of England rate, but it was not considered probable yesterday that the rate would be raised above the present 4 per cent. level at this time. An advance in the rate would be of interest to this market inasmuch as it would increase the likelihood of a renewal of the outward movement of gold from New York, for the immediate purpose of an advance in the English Bank rate would doubtless be to attract gold to London to offset the withdrawals of the metal for shipment to Egypt, Turkey, and South America.

Cumulative evidence of the great ease in our money market, which is making possible the employment of American funds abroad, is found in the tendency which is now showing itself toward lower rates in the commercial paper market. Competition among buyers of paper is again developing and the demand appears to be broadening more than the supply. The offerings of paper for discount are smaller than usual at this season, for not only is business less active, but less money relatively is required to carry it on, owing to the hand-to-mouth character of much of the trading. The volume of business, however, though less than normal for this season, is nevertheless fairly large, and in some lines there is no suggestion of slackness, although the very general experience is that current business is being done at less than the usual profit. As an indication of the fact that the volume of business is large despite the restrictive influences which operate against trade as a whole, interest attaches to the showing being made by one of the largest mail-order concerns which last year did a record business and whose business this year though at a reduced rate of profit is showing an increase of 8 per cent. in volume over the business done a year ago.

The stock market itself yesterday supplied few incidents of special interest, and in most cases only fractional changes resulted from the day's transactions. This was particularly true of the more active issues. One of the features of the trading was the reaction of over a point in both Atlantic Coast Line and Louisville & Nashville, which had been notably strong the previous day. One of the other exceptional movements of the session was an advance of 2⅝ points in Norfolk & Western. The filing of the American Tobacco Company plan with the United States Circuit Court was again postponed, but somewhat more definite information became available during the day regarding the status of the proposed reorganization. Indications continue to come to hand that interest in the bond market is increasing.

In a circular sent out yesterday to the employes in the company's offices in Manhattan, Brooklyn, the Bronx, Long Island City, Jamaica, White Plains, and Staten Island the announcement was made that instead of closing at 3 P. OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Except for Activity in Scattered Issues, Dullness Prevails in Curb Market.

DIVERSITY IN BOND TRADING

Six Issues Appear in Trading, with Irregular Price Movements—Braden Copper More Active.

Curb stocks were active only in spots yesterday, and were generally strong, although many closed even with the opening levels. Braden Copper led the mining list in point of activity, reporting transactions of 8,500 all at 4¾. Giroux sold off ⅛ from 3⅞ to 3¾ on transactions of 1,500. Inspiration advanced from 6½ to 6⅝ on sales of 1,500, and Ray Central which reported sales of 1,000 advanced 1-16 to 1⅜. The bond list was comparatively active. Chicago Elevated 5s sold $10,000 at 97½. New York City 4¼s sold $10,000 at 102 13-16. New York, Westchester & Boston 4½s sold $125,000 from 97¾ to 97⅞ to 97¾, closing at 97 11-16. Oregon-Washington Railroad & Navigation 4s sold $30,000 from 91⅞ up to 92, which was the closing price. The Cobalt issues were dull, with the exception of Kerr Lake, which sold 800 at 3⅝.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

The best feature about the market on the Consolidated Stock Exchange from the point of view of the commission houses was the varied character of the trading in odd lots. Total transctions of 36,750 shares were distributed over a list of fifty-three different stocks. American Locomotive, Central Leather, and American Woolen preferred were stocks of which sales took place, with no transactions in them reported on the New York Stock Exchange.

Record Anthracite Business.

One of the contrasts which the general business situation presents is the record coal business which some of the bituminous roads have been doing in the face of reduced activity at many of the country's manufacturing plants. Yesterday the anthracite tonnage for September was reported showing the largest shipments of anthracite ever recorded in September. The total reached 5,730,935 tons, exceeding the previous September record, which was established in 1907. The Lehigh Valley tonnage for the month was the largest of any of the coal roads, with the Reading holding second and the Lackawanna third place. This heavy coal tonnage over the Lehigh Valley is understood to have resulted in a gain of about $300,000 in the road's earnings from coal traffic during September. On the other hand, preliminary estimates of the earnings indicate that the general merchandise traffice showed a reduction of about $50,000 for the month, and passenger traffic a small increase. The operating expenses of the road for the month are understood to have increased about $200,000.

⁂

Increase in Stockholders.

During the recent heavy liquidation in the stock market the question has frequently been raised whether or not the stock coming into the market was going into the hands of permanent investors or was being lodged with those who bought only with a view to a speedy resale when favorable opportunity offered. One of the indications of investment buying of a stock is found in an increase in the list of stockholders. The Lehigh Valley's stock list, it is learned, now includes some 400 names more than it did at the beginning of July. Since that date a large block of the stock variously estimated at from 15,000 to 20,000 shares has been disposed of by one stockholding interest in the company, and it would appear from the increase in the number of shareholders that this stock has been pretty widely distributed.

⁂

The West and Wall Stret.

Those whose attention is centred on events on the Stock Exchange are apt to form the opinion that just as much importance is attached to stock fluctuations in the New York market by the South and West, and in fact by the whole country as is attached to them by those close to the scene of Wall Street's activities. Though traders are likely to lose sight of the fact, it is natural that the importance of Stock Exchange incidents should loom larger within the shadow of the Stock Exchange than in the minds of those thousands of miles distant. On this point the October review of the Northwestern National Bank of Minneapolis says: "Business in the Northwest promises to be quite satisfactory, and fluctuations in the Eastern securities markets have very little influence in this section of the country." It is true, of course, that after the 1907 panic, the West was boasting that it would not feel the effect of that disturbance, although it did feel it in due course, but there is no such condition confronting the country now, and such views as that expressed by this Minneapolis bank shows that there is more optimism outside of Wall Street than in the minds of many people whose days are spent in the Street.

⁂

Record Cotton Bill Purchases.

Just now, cotton bills are coming into the market rapidly and it is plain that the cotton movement is being subjected to no interference whatever by the recent refusal of most New York institutions to join in the plan for the registration of cotton bills at the central bureau established in this city. An illustration of the rapidity with which cotton is coming into the market and is being sold abroad is found in the fact that on Monday one of the cotton bill purchasing institutions in this city paid for more than 70,000 bales of the staple. This is the largest amount of cotton bills ever handled by this institution in any one day, and may be the largest amount ever handled in any one day by a single purchaser in this city.

Chicago Drew Heavily in September.

Compilation of the Chicago currency movements show that September's receipts of currency from the East exceeded $5,000,000 for the first time since 1907. Receipts from the interior were less than a year ago, but more than in previous years, except 1909's receipts which they about equaled. Shipments out of Chicago were $7,419,500 in excess of those of August, where as in 1910, September's shipments exceeded August's by only $4,389,600. The month's net loss on the currency movement was less than a year ago, but with the exception of 1910, the net loss of $8,974,050 was about $1,000,000 less than in 1910, but substantially smaller than in 1909 or 1908. For the nine months of the year to the end of September, shipments totaled $95,503,000 or less than in any like period in the five years for which figures are obtainable, except 1908. Receipts from the East, totaling $15,451,000, were $2,169,000 smaller than in 1910 for the nine months, but substantially larger than in any other previous year, being nearly three times those of 1907, and about double those of 1908. Receipts from the interior were $70,491,000, compared with $63,211,000 in 1910 for the nine months, and were only slightly under 1908, exceeding 1907 and 1909 substantially. The net loss of $9,561,000, compared with $15,634,000 for the nine months of 1910, and $35,841,000 in 1907.

Crucible Steel Earnings Lower.

The annual report of the Crucible Steel Company for the year ended Aug. 31, shows net profits of $2,595,138, compared with $3,528,402 in the previous year. Other income of $134,628, compared with $25,943, in this item of 1910, brought the total income up to $2,729,766, against $3,540,345, last year. The payment of $1,730,278 in dividends against $1,802,192 in the previous year left a balance of $999,488 against $1,747,153. Interest on mortgages increased from $13,463 to $172,248, reducing the surplus to $827,240, against $1,733,690 in the previous year.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Rio Tintos Weak in London—Prices Heavy in Paris, Firm in Berlin.

LONDON, Oct. 10.—Money was plentiful and discount rates were quiet to-day.

Traders on the Stock Exchange were chiefly occupied with the general settlement. Carryover charges for American shares ranged from 4 to 5 per cent. Business for the new account was moderate. Mexican rails were strong on good traffic returns, and home rails improved, but Rio Tintos were weak on local and Paris selling due to fears of reduced dividends.

American securities opened quiet, and during the forenoon prices advanced on light covering. A downward movement followed, but New York support caused a recovery in the late trading and the market closed firm.

UNFILLED STEEL ORDERS.

September Tonnage, However, Is the Highest of Any Month Except August.

The effects of heavy shipments against orders and the hesitation in steel buying during the period last month, when rumors were current of impending proceedings by the Department of Justice to dissolve the United States Steel Corporation, were reflected in the monthly statement of unfilled tonnage issued yesterday. The orders on the books on Sept. 30 were 3,611,317 tons, against 3,695,985 tons at the close of August.

Notwithstanding the decline in orders on the books the tonnage unfilled is still larger than that reported at the end of any month, except August, this year, and compares with 2,674,757 tons on the books at the close of 1910, which was the lowest tonnage of unfilled orders ever reported by the corporation.

NEW RUSSIAN RAILROAD MAN.

M. Rogovine to Represent the Moscow, Vindau, Rabinsk in This Country.

Nicholas Ostrovsky, Chairman of the Moscow, Vindau, Rabinsk Railway of Russia, has appointed W. M. Rogovine as the United States representative of his road, with headquarters at 30 Church Street, this city. Mr. Rogovine was formerly in the Russian diplomatic service, having represented his Government as Attaché at the Court of St. James. Practically all of the large foreign railroads now have accredited agents here except those of Japan and China. The latter transact their business through their Consulates. It is believed that Mr. Rogovine will in time bemade the representative of the State railroads of Russia.

DEFEAT HOCKING COAL PLAN.

Railroad Agrees to Relinquish Control of Certain Companies.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 10. — Ouster proceedings brought by the State of Ohio against the Hocking Valley Railroad were ended to-day on the promise of the railroad company to relinquish control of certain coal companies and competing railroads.

The Supreme Court of Ohio dismissed the petition in error from the Circuit Court, with the consent of both parties to the suit, and upon the condition that the plaintiff would bear the costs.

The suit was originally brought in December, 1903, to oust the Hocking Valley Railroad from its corporate powers and franchises and to liquidate its affairs. It was bitterly contested by the railroad.

The Hocking Railroad, by purchasing a majority interest in the Buckeye Coal & Railroad Company, the Toledo & Ohio Central Railroad Company, the Kanawha & Michigan Railroad, the Zanesville & Western Railroad, and the Sunday Creek Coal Mining Company, sought to gain a complete monopoly of the Hocking Valley coalfields.

Had this plan been successful every independent coal operator in the State would have been frozen out by the "gentleman's" agreements between the coal and railroad companies in the combination, it was averred.

END OF BAY STATE GAS.

Receiver Discharged and Funds Turned Over to Creditors.

BOSTON, Oct. 10.—Many years of litigation over the Bay State Gas Company of Delaware, which at one time controlled the gas business of Boston, ended to-day with the discharge of the receiver, George Wharton Pepper of Philadelphia, and the transfer of the funds of the company to Homer Albers, representing a syndicate of creditors, amounting to $43,874.

The fees of the receiver and other attorneys involved in the case reached several hundred thousand dollars. Mr. Pepper filed his final account in the United States Circuit Court to-day and Judge Putnam released him.

ALABAMA CONSOLIDATED COAL & IRON COMPANY

The undersigned, who heretofore constituted separate Committees, one for the reorganization of Southern Iron & Steel Company and its merger with Alabama Consolidated Coal & Iron Company and the other to represent the security-holders of Southern Iron & Steel Company, have now agreed upon a plan and have accordingly merged, forming the undersigned Committee.

It is the unanimous judgment of the members of the Committee, as a result of investigations of the properties of both Companies, that they will both be largely benefited by the proposed merger and that the basis of consolidation is just to all interested security-holders.

The Plan thus agreed upon has already received the approval of holders of large amounts of securities of both Companies of all classes, and has been lodged, together with an Agreement dated October 11, 1911, under which securities may be deposited with BANKERS TRUST COMPANY (the Depositary under the Plan and Agreement), No. 7 Wall Street, in the City of New York; copies of the Plan and Agreement may be had on application to the Depositary, or to the Secretary of the Committee.

Holders of the securities above-mentioned are hereby invited to deposit their securities under the Plan and Agreement. IMMEDIATE CONCERTED ACTION IS ESSENTIAL to the preservation of the rights of those interested in the properties, and, for that reason, the time for the deposit of securities is limited to NOVEMBER 6, 1911, after which date no securities will be received, except in the discretion of the Committee and upon such terms as it may approve. TOBACCO TRUST PLAN OPPOSED BY INSIDERS

Holders of Debenture 4s Ready to Fight Unless Their Bonds Go In at Par.

PRICE FIXED NOW AT 90

While Debentures 6s Are Rated at 120 for the 50 Per Cent. Cash Distribution, Unequal in Comparison.

Opposition from the inside to the present plan of the American Tobacco Company for its disintegration under the ruling of the Supreme Court may develop, it was learned yesterday. Beside the independent tobacco interests which have been organizing to oppose the plan as it was expected to be reported, there comes new evidence of dissatisfaction among the security holders of the company itself.

Although the plan has been carefully guarded, knowledge of its general terms have filtered out, and important holders of the 4 per cent. debenture bonds, of which there are $47,697,200 outstanding, are ready to fight any distribution of assets which does not recognize the debentures at par. While no action will be taken until the plan has been spread before the court, it was learned yesterday that Brown Brothers & Co. and Maitland, Coppell & Co. have made preparations to organize the 4 per cent. debenture holders and make a contest for a valuation of their bonds at par.

As the plan stood yesterday afternoon the 4 per cent. bonds were received, 50 per cent. in cash at a valuation of 90 and 50 per cent. in the bonds of the Liggett-Myers Company and the P. Lorillard Company, the two companies which are to take over a part of the American Tobacco Company's business.

The 6 per cent. debenture bonds of the American Tobacco Company, of which there are $53,348,000 outstanding, are to receive 50 per cent. in cash at a valuation of 120 and 50 per cent. at a par valuation in the 7 per cent. bonds, which, it is planned, to have the Liggett-Myers Company and the P. Lorillard Company issue. The valuation of 120 put on the 6 per cents for the purpose of the 50 per cent. cash distribution makes the cash to be paid equal to 60 per cent. of par against 45 per cent. of par, to be paid in cash on the 4 per cents.

The holders of the 4 per cent. existing bonds, it is understood, are not opposing the higher valuation put on the 6 per cents., but will contend that as their bonds stand ahead of the stock issues they should figure in the distribution at par.

American Tobacco officials and representatives of the various committees were in session at the company's offices at 111 Fifth Avenue nearly all day yesterday.

It was learned yesterday that the preferred stockholders will retain two-thirds of their American Tobacco issue and will receive for the other one-third preferred stocks of the Liggett-Myers Company and the P. Lorillard Company. There is $78,689,100 of the preferred stock of the American Tobacco Company outstanding which although preferred as to assets in case of dissolution is limited to 6 per cent. dividends.

Of the $53,500,000 cash approximately required for the payments on the two classes of debentures about $40,000,000 is to be supplied by the sale to common stockholders of the common stock of the two new companies. As the plan now stands the common stockholders of the American Tobacco Company are to put up the par value of their American Tobacco Company stock in cash and receive the common stocks of the Liggett-Myers Company and the P. Lorillard Company.

In anticipation of the issuance of the bonds and stocks of these two companies "when issued" contracts have been traded in on the Curb market. The Liggett-Myers 5s and 7s are quoted at 91-93 and 116-125 respectively, and the P. Lorillard bonds at 91⅞-93 and 120-125.

COMMODITY MARKETS.

WHEAT.—Prices worked up in the wheat market, with moderate business and rather limited offerings. The advance failed to awaken much interest in the future market, and operations were professional. The little improvement was credited to covering of shorts on the Government report, and also on the advices of colder weather in the Argentine, and some apprehension of damage. It is six to nine weeks before harvest in the Argentine, and frosts at such an early date before harvest in this country would scarcely be considered serious. The Buenos Aires market opened only ¼@½c higher, but flaxseed was strong, and up about 2¼c on account of the cold weather. The flaxseed is harvested prior to the wheat crop, and therefore in a more dangerous situation. Australian advices were very favorable, predicting a crop of 96,000,000 to 112,000,000 bushels, compared with last year's record crop of 93,000,000 bushels. Russian news was again unfavorable, and Russian exports have fallen off heavily this season compared with last. The European visible decreased 700,000 bushels for the week, compared with an increase of 4,800,000 bushels last year. The American visible increased in the United States and Canada 6,453,000 bushels, compared with an increase of 3,173,000 bushels last year. Receipts were heavy at Spring wheat points, Minneapolis stocks increasing 1,000,000 bushels in three days. Cash Winter wheat markets were higher, with reports of some sales for milling. Export sales were reported of 11 loads of Manitoba wheat at outports, and there were further heavy bookings reported of ocean freight room at outports, November, December, and January loading supposed to be for Manitoba wheat.

CORN.—The market was firm, with fair demand, influenced by the Government report confirming the idea of a small crop, and also on the firmness of European markets. The receipts of corn showed a decrease at Western points, and interior cash markets were higher. A good deal of stress is being laid on the fact that the principal shortage in the corn crop this year is in the big surplus States, and therefore the amount of corn available for market purposes through the Central West will be much less than usual. Export sales were reported of eight loads of corn at outports. Cash No. 2 Western quoted at 76½c, elevator, domestic basis, and 76c, free on board, afloat, for export.

OATS.—The Government report was about in line with expectations, and the market continues to be governed by fluctuations in other grain. Some selling occurred on reports of a slackening in the cash demand, with country offerings freer, due to the fact that farmers are compelled to make room for new corn arrivals, but sentiment is rather bullish, and on the scale down the speculative demand is good. Cash standards quoted at 52½c; No. 2 white, 53c; No. 3 white, 52¼c.

PROVISIONS.—Weakness was in evidence during the entire session. Large packing interests were on the selling side, and although receipts of hogs are not heavy, expectations are for lower prices generally, with investment demand for product rather limited.

COTTONSEED OIL.

Considerable weakness was apparent during the session and prices showed a further setback of a few points following the official close. The October option, which was relatively strong on Monday, was very weak, reflecting a scant inquiry. The crude situation was easier, while the weakness in cotton and lard were not without influence. Inquiry from consuming sources is only fair in the aggregate, and although some foreign demand was reported on the setback, sentiment appeared more bearish. Crude quoted at 4.27 to 4.40.

COTTON.

Considerable irregularity was manifested in the cotton market during yesterday's session, and although the day was not without its new low prices being recorded, there was more resistance displayed toward declining. Evidence of the technical position having become congested was apparent and some large interests which have been consistently bearish were disposed to cover shorts.

Weakness during the early session, with declines at the outset of 2 to 7 points, was due to the willingness on the part of foreigners to meet depressions on this side, while the South offered in large quantities abroad and sold freely in the local market. Moreover, bears were aggressive at times, but subsequent developments made it appear as though their efforts were for the purpose of establishing a more satisfactory covering basis. Nevertheless, a change to the bull side is not believed to be imminent by their attitude, as it is the belief that on a substantial rebound offerings will again increase unless crop ideas are modified considerably or trade demand expands so as to absorb offerings of the actual on a larger scale.

Instrumental in the firmness of the session were advices from the Southeast, particularly Alabama, of farmers holding cotton. Although such claims lack novelty at this time, the advices had considerable influence inasmuch as it was asserted that holders had actually insured the cotton which they were storing, creating the impression that it would not be disposed of until a few months hence, at least. From other sections of the belt, however, the tenor of spot advices is not entirely reassuring, with claims still made that holders are semi-demoralized in some instances, despite the statements that prices are reaching a basis close to the cost of production.

For the first time in several weeks weather conditions were not propitious. Moderate rains were noted in the eastern belt, with predictions of further unsettled conditions over night. The general opinion was, however, that in the event of this moisture proving excessive, the effect would be noticeable mainly on the quality of the plant rather than the quantity.

Southern spot markets were unchanged, to ¼c lower and the local spot market unchanged, with middlings 9.75c. The New York Cotton Exchange will be closed to-morrow, but the New Orleans market does not observe Columbus Day, and the foreign markets will also be open.

COFFEE.

There was a sharp reaction in the coffee market yesterday more than half of Monday's big advance being lost as a result of heavy realizing and selling for a reaction, with some close students of the trading around the ring inclined to claim that Wall Street was taking a hand in the selling. Easier European cables contributed to the weakness here, but the Brazilian markets continued firm, no more reassuring news was received from the coming crop, and unless some disappointment is felt over the failure of spot demand to show more improvement with the advancing tendency of the market, the day's news suggested but little change in the general situation aside from the materially high level of prices compared with a few weeks ago. Business was active in the local futures market, sales for the day being reported about 157,000 bags, and the final tone was steady at a net decline of 15@27 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 11@15 points, in response to the disappointing cables. Offerings were pretty well absorbed early, and prices rallied during the morning, owing to the continued strength of the Brazilian markets, and a continuation of Monday's buying movement, but the selling continued heavy and prices weakened again during the afternoon, although there seemed to be nothing fresh in the way of news. The lowest point was reached late in the day, with December selling off from 13.65 to 13.40c, and the closing bids were at practically the lowest on most positions. Havre opened 1f higher, but reacted, closing ¼ to ¾f higher, while Hamburg was ¼ to ¾ pfennig lower. Of the Brazilian markets, Rio was 75 reis higher, while Santos was from 100 to 150 reis above the previous day. Receipts at the two Brazilian ports of 136,000 bags, compared with 81,000 bags last year, and the interior movement was also relatively heavy, but firm offers here from Brazil were higher.

The local spot market was steady with quotations on the basis of 14⅜@14½c for Rio No. 7. Contract prices follow:

STOCKS OUT OF TOWN

Stronger Tone, Though Trading is Dull in Most of the Markets of Other Cities.

MANY GAINS IN CHICAGO

Sears-Roebuck and Several Local Issues Higher—Tonopah-Belmont Active in Philadelphia.

Price movements in the principal out-of-town markets yesterday were toward higher levels, though trading was limited.

A demand for Sears-Roebuck, which lifted the price 3 points, was the feature of trading in Chicago. After reaching 135, the price eased off a trifle to a close at 134¼. In common with this issue the list in most instances tended toward higher levels. Swift shares sold off earlier, but they finished at their best for the day, 99⅜, a fraction above the previous close. Both issues of Booth Fisheries were strong, the common rising more than 2 points, to 46¼, and the preferred more than 2½ points, to 70¼, at the best, easing off slightly later. Easier prices prevailed in Commonwealth Edison and American Can.

Activity in Tonopah Belmont overshadowed all other movements in the Philadelphia market. Over 13,000 shares of that stock were bought and sold during the session. Had it not been for this issue and United States Steel the local market would have been stagnant. The movement in Tonopah Belmont was said to have originated in the West, the selling coming from scattered sources. On the upturn the stock reached 8⅝, the highest in its history.

Consolidated Power issues in Baltimore moved to a higher level, and on account of the meagre offerings were easily advanced. Mechanics' Bank gained a full point. Seaboard Company shares were firmer. Northern Central was fractionally easier.

The Boston market was extremely dull. Utah Consolidated was strong on a few transactions, but the rest of the coppers were hardly touched. Massachusetts Electric preferred went up more than a point.

Yesterday's transactions on the various out-of-town Exchanges, as reported to THE NEW YORK TIMES were as follows:

TO RATIFY CABLE MERGER.

Western Union Will Vote on Anglo-American Lease To-day.

The annual meeting of the Western Union Telegraph Company will be held to-day, and it is expected that the stockholders will ratify the lease for ninety-nine years of the Anglo-American Telegraph Company and the Direct United States Cable Company, both British corporations, whose stockholders ratified the lease on Sept. 29.

The lease is one feature of the plan of President Vail of the Western Union to bring about reduced rates on deferred messages by cable.

The ratification of this lease will not lead to the immediate establishment of lower cable rates, as it may take two or three months to arrange the details as between the cable lines and the land lines. In this country there is no difficulty over the land lines, as they are owned by the Western Union, but the lines in Great Britain are controlled by the Government, and a reduction there is a matter of adjustment with the Postmaster General.

When it comes to Continental points there are still greater difficulties, as most of the Governments own the land telegraph lines, and before any reduction can be made there it is necessary to obtain the agreement of the Governments signatory to the Berne Convention and that includes practically all the European Governments—to the reduction on the land lines. Postmaster General Samuels of Great Britain has been in negotiation with these Governments for several months, and it is said that satisfactory progress is being made. The Western Union officials hope that the whole plan can be put in operation by the end of the year.

While the details of the deferred cable rate to be instituted by the Western Union remain to be worked out, it is believed that they will be less than half the present rate for immediate transmission. There will probably be two forms of deferred messages, one for "daily cable letters," similar to the "day letter" and "night letter" on the land lines, and a "week-end cable letter" rate, which will apply to messages sent on Saturday to be delivered on Monday.

The Commercial Cable Company, in a letter to the public, signed by George G. Ward, Vice President and General Manager of the company, has sent out an attack on the parties to the merger, which tells of a previous combination which it refused to join. The letter concludes:

"Public support has enabled the Commercial Cable Company and its land line connection, the Postal Telegraph Cable Company, to maintain competition for twenty-five years. The Commercial Cable-Postal Telegraph system has already assured the public that it will continue to maintain its independence and will render a competitive service as perfect and speedy as modern means will permit."

SOUTHERN'S GOOD SHOWING.

President Finley Hopes Old Preferred Rate May Be Restored.

Following the stockholders' meeting of the Southern Railway at Richmond, Va., yesterday the company's annual report for the year 1910-11 was made public. In contrast to the prevailing trend of railway statements, it reflected a substantial improvement in business, with an increase of nearly $1,000,000 in the surplus applicable to dividends on the preferred and common stock.

Gross earnings during the year were $60,345,000, an increase of $3,050,000, while operating expenses were $40,926,000, an increase of $2,291,000. There was a small deficit from outside operations, as compared with a credit balance at the end of 1910, and taxes were $185,000 larger in the later year, but a small increase in other income and a decrease in bond interest and other charges left a surplus of $6,670,000, an increase of $913,000 over the preceding year.

The first dividend payment on the preferred stock since the panic was 1 per cent., made on April 1 last, and a second dividend of the same amount was paid this month, making a total of $1,200,000 charged against the year's income. President Finley says that "it is the expectation of the Board of Directors that, with a continuance of favorable conditions, the rate of dividend may be gradually increased until the full dividend can again properly be paid."

The Southern's large item of discount on securities sold during the financial stringency, which amounted to nearly $10,000,000 at the end of 1907, had been nearly extinguished at the close of the past year. At the end of 1910 there remained $4,853,000. A charge of $125,000 against the year's income and $3,000,000 against the profit and loss expenses, with a small credit from the premium received on first mortgage bonds sold, left a balance on June 30, 1911, of only $1,688,000 to be taken care of in subsequent years. There was a total of $13,667,000 development and general mortgage 4 per cent. bonds in the company's treasury ready for sale.

On the subject of labor, President Finley makes the following comment:

"All questions as to wages and conditions of employment which have arisen during the year have been amicably adjusted. In some cases settlements were reached through mediation under the National law commonly known as the Erdman act. It is proper that recognition should be expressed of the conservative value of the Erdman act as affording a means for the settlement of controversies between railway companies and their employes.

"It is noteworthy that, in the settlement of the recent railway strike in England, through the medium of a special governmental commission, the Government gave an assurance to the railway companies that it would propose legislation in the next session of Parliament providing that an increase in the cost of labor due to the improvement of conditions for the employes would be a valid justification for a reasonable general increase of charges within the legal maxima established under the act of 1894. Another illustration of this same tendency was a statement of the Judge of the Australian Court of Arbitration, acting under the compulsory arbitration law, in settling a controversy as to industrial wages. He said he could not dictate to the employers what work they should carry on, but he could and would prescribe the conditions under which they must employ men, if they chose to employ them; and that if any industry could not afford to pay the 'living wage' which the court awarded, its remedy was to apply to the Federal Parliament for protective duties that would allow it to comply with the award."

THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Auction Sale of Broadway Property Nets Twenty-five Per Cent. Under Assessed Valuation—Investor Buys Tenements—Bronx and Suburban Sales—Real Estate Show Features.

The feature of the realty market yesterday was the sale at auction of four mid-Broadway parcels for the estate of John R. Lawrence. To carry the comparison further the feature of the sale was the fact that the properties sold for nearly $200,000 under the assessed valuations, $199,850, to be exact, the assessed valuations being $803,000, while the public sale netted $603,150. All of the parcels, except one, which was near Twenty-first Street, were between Leonard and Houston Streets, a section which has been comparatively quiet in transfers of property, and where, for some time, in the opinion of realty experts, the assessments have been too high.

This is the first occasion in some time that so many Broadway parcels have been offered at public sale, and it presented, therefore, a favorable opportunity to make a fair estimate of realty values in that neighborhood. Another feature of interest was that the parcels were evidently bought in by various heirs of the estate, showing that they were willing to be more liberal in their bids than outside buyers.

The property was sold by Joseph P. Day in the Vesey Street salesroom, and the sale attracted a number of brokers and operators. Three parcels were purchased by the Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company for clients, while Sidney S. Harris, acting for one of the parties in interest, acquired the other plot. Mr. Harris bought 354 Broadway, about 61 feet north of Leonard Street, and running through to Benson Place, 26 by 175, occupied by a five-story building. He paid $128,300. It is assessed at $155,000.

The Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company paid $102,750 for 597 Broadway, running through to Mercer Street, occupied by a five-story loft and assessed at $130,000; for 558 Broadway, south of Prince Street, and 94 and 96 Crosby Street, covered with two four-story buildings, $122,100 was paid. It is assessed at $163,000, while for the four-story building at 924 and 926 Broadway, adjoining the northeast corner of Twenty-first Street, 41.1 by 113.8 and irregular, $250,000 was paid. The assessment is $355,000. The wide difference between the auction prices and the assessed valuations occasioned considerable comment among the brokers in the Vesey Street salesroom.

Investor Buys Tenements.

The two four-story tenements 351 and 353 West Fifty-third Street have been sold by Pauline Bolton to George Latour for investment.

The buildings occupy a plot 59.7 by 51.9. A. W. Miller & Co. negotiated the sale.

Bronx.

Sharrott & Thorn have sold for Edward Greenbaum the southwest corner of Brook Avenue and 144th Street, a four-story brick flat, with stores, on lot 25 by 85.

Lauter & Blackner have sold for Mary Frerck 616 East 161st Street, a five-story flat, on a plot 27 by 100; also, for Louis Rucht, 1,381 Prospect Avenue, a four-story flat, on lot 29 by 100.

The Adleno Construction Company has sold, through Mintz & Stern, the plot 50 by 100 on the west side of Oneida Avenue, 100 feet south of 235th Street, on which they have started to build two two-family houses.

The same firm of brokers also sold to the Adleno Construction Company the plot, 100 by 114, on the south side of 226th Street, 205 feet east of Barnes Avenue.

Brooklyn.

E. Sharum sold to a client 96 Warren Street, Brooklyn, a five-story tenement, on a plot 27.9 by 99.10, irregular, between Hicks Street and Columbia Street.

John H. Gelhardt, Jr., sold for Miss M. K. Pelletreau the four-story dwelling 110 Lefferts Place to M. R. Wheeler for occupancy.

Long Island.

The Cozy Homes Construction Company has sold to Arthur G. Mignot four lots at Lister Lawn, Bayside.

Interesting Real Estate Exhibits.

One of the interesting exhibits to the prospective builder at the Real Estate Show in Madison Square Garden is the new method of pouring concrete houses, devised by M. D. Morrill, a Washington architect. The principal equipment consists of two tiers of flanged plates, two feet square, ingeniously hinged together so that as the upper tier is poured full of cement the lower tier can be swung into position above it. Each time the plates are moved they are cleaned and greased, thus making a smooth surface.

The walls of an ordinary small dwelling have been completed by this method in ten days.

This method of construction is now being used by the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad, and arrangements have about been completed by the inventor to build 420 of these for the municipal authorities in Budapest, Hungary. It is estimated that a six-room house can be built by this method for about $1,200.

The W. H. Moffitt Realty Company shows a complete model of an acre farm at Ferndale Park, Islip. The company also shows a model and interesting figures to prove that poultry can be raised profitably on a quarter acre plot.

On the farm is shown a semi-bungalow, garage, chicken house and yard, a complete vegetable garden and a fruit orchard.

The booth of the Nutley Realty Company has been designed to display a number of photographs of the various residences erected at Nutley, N. J., together with panoramic views of their different properties.

Another attractive exhibit is that of W. C. Reeves & Co. on the Fourth Avenue side of the Garden. It occupies 3,700 square feet and shows a complete five-room house, a small bungalow, and a portable garage. The five-room house is built to sell at $850. This property is located at Netcong, N. J., forty-one miles from New York.

You Can Build This House for $2,500

The house shown here is one of six plans which received first, second, and third awards in the competition conducted by the Building Trade Employers' Association last Winter.

More than 200 designs were submitted in this competition and there were 176 contestants. Three of the plans are for $2,500 detached houses and the other three for houses to cost $4,500.

These six plans have been published in booklet form, with detailed specifications and estimates of cost. Free to all visitors.

Six Prize House Plans Free To All Visitors

It has taken three years to prepare this Exhibition. Call here and spend as much time as you please inspecting upwards of 200 different exhibits of building material and devices, representing an expense to collect and install of more than $200,000.00.

Nowhere can you find under one roof and in one place such a varied collection of building materials—only months of labor, of careful selection, of diligent searching make such an aggregation of displays possible.

Inspection of the exhibits here will show you how to save money in your proposed building, for it will demonstrate clearly how to make the best selection—how to choose the best methods of construction. Your home will be better, have greater value, look richer and last longer.

Not a thing in this whole Exhibition is for sale—you will not be asked to buy—there are no salesmen here. For the explanation of the various exhibits courteous attendants are provided by the management of the Exhibition.

Make it a point to visit this Exhibition Hall to-day—it is open to the public, without charge, from 9 A. M. to 5:30 P. M.

HEIKE'S CONVICTION UPHELD ON APPEAL

Sugar Trust Secretary Can Make Only One More Attempt to Avoid Jail Term.

GERBRACHT IN LIKE PLIGHT

They Didn't Gain Immunity by Testifying Before Grand Jury, Appellate Court Holds.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals affirmed yesterday the conviction of Charles R. Heike, Secretary of the American Sugar Refining Company, and of Ernest Gerbracht, who was the Superintendent of that company's Williamsburg refinery. Heike was sentenced to eight months' imprisonment in the Blackwell's Island Penitentiary and to pay a fine of $5,000, and Gerbracht to two years in the Federal Prison at Atlanta, Ga., and to pay a fine of $500.

It will be ten days before the mandate of the Appellate Court will be filed with Commissioner Shields, and for that time the men will be still at liberty on bail. They can carry the case to the United States Supreme Court, if they apply for a writ of review and it is granted.

The defendants pleaded that they had gained immunity through testifying before the Grand Jury in connection with the sugar frauds. Judge Lacombe points out that Heike had given testimony in the Grand Jury inquiry into the acquisition and closing of the Pennsylvania Sugar Refinery, which the Government contended was a violation of the Sherman Anti-Trust act. He also testified in the second Grand Jury inquiry under the Sherman act, and in each case appeared with documents, letters, and minutes.

"The question now presented," says the opinion, "is whether the testimony which he gave and the production of the records and papers which he laid before the Grand Juries secured him immunity from this prosecution, which has nothing to do with the Anti-Trust act."

Judge Lacombe finds practically nothing to be said for such a contention, as Heike's evidence amounted to little more than an acknowledgment of his official position, and adds:

"To interpret the statute as securing immunity to an officer of the company for offenses committed while such an officer, merely because he has stated under oath on some prior investigation that he was an officer, seems to us preposterous."

ERIE TRAFFIC INCREASED.

Gains from Coal and Passenger Business and Freight Revenue Greater.

The annual report of the Erie Railroad Company, issued yesterday for the year ended June 30, shows a continuance of the gains noted in the previous year, following the completion of the new cut from the Hackensack Meadows to the Jersey City yards. Of the increase of $1,989,330 in rail revenues, which were $53,820,050, $1,569,657 was derived from coal traffic and $357,992 from passengers. The total freight traffic, however, decreased 3.08 per cent., but freight revenue increased 3.97 per cent. This increase in the freight revenue in the face of a falling off in the tonnage of revenue freight is explained by an increase of 5.31 per cent. in the average train load of revenue freight and an increase in the revenue per freight train mile from $2.96 to $3.05.

The total number of passengers carried increased by 176,878, to 25,454,161, but there was a decrease of .15 per cent. in passenger miles. The average revenue received per passenger, however, increased 38.57 cents, or 1.15 per cent., and the average distance each passenger was carried decreased by .85 per cent., to 24.63 miles.

Revenue from outside operations decreased from $3,035,470 to $2,829,858, reducing the increase in gross operating revenue, which was $56,649,908, to $1,783,718. The ratio of operating expenses and taxes to operating revenue showed a further decrease as did the ratio of operating expenses to operating revenue. The former fell off from 71.20 per cent. to 71.04 per cent., and the latter from 68.70 per cent. to 68.59 per cent.

Total operating expenses were $38,854,921, an increase of $1,164,106, which left a gain of $603,989 in operating income after the payment of an increase of $15,022 in taxes. Actual operating income was $16,404,607.

The report states that additions and betterments to property and equipment aggregating $2,448,400 were made during the year, of which $1,108,663 was charged to capital account.

The annual report of the New York, Susquehanna & Western Railroad for the year ended June 30 shows a gain of $312,671 in rail operations and of $89,647 in outside operations. Gross operating income was $3,876,678, an increase of $402,818. Total operating expenses were $2,355,860, an increase of $101,402. Operating income was $1,372,061, a gain of $297,126. The ratio of operating expenses to revenue showed a decrease of 4.12 per cent., the proportion being 60.77 per cent. against 64.89 last year.

HOPE TO KEEP HAMPTON'S ON

Meantime Attachments Against the Merged Companies Accumulate.

The Sheriff put a keeper yesterday in the office of the Columbia Sterling Publishing Company at 66 West Thirty-fifth Street, on an execution for $393, in favor of Genevieve Greville Durland. An attachment for $849 has also been received in favor of Marshall W. Taggart. The Sheriff has levied upon enough office furniture to cover the amount of the execution of $393, and has set down a notice of sale for next Tuesday, unless the execution is settled in the meantime.

The attorneys both for the creditors and for the present management of the Hampton-Columbia Magazine held another long conference in the office of Kellogg & Emery, at 52 Broadway, who are acting as counsel for 50 per cent. of the creditors. At the close of the conference, Frederick R. Kellogg of the law firm said that it was confidently believed that the difficulties of Hampton's Magazine would be solved within a short time.

"The outlook for the continued publication of Hampton's is more favorable to-day than it has been for some time in the immediate past," said Mr. Kellogg. "If sufficient money to continue the publication of this magazine is raised by my clients the present management will be changed; there will be a great reduction of expenses and the resources of the magazine will be fully developed. Less than $100,000 need be raised to insure continuance of publication. The question whether the money is raised to-day or to-morrow does not seem to be vital. There is strong probability that the November number will be received by the subscribers substantially on time."

R. Leslie Moffett, attorney for the Columbian-Sterling Company, concurred in this statement.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Book Trade Is Hard Hit by the Affirmance of 40 Per Cent. Duty.

In a divided opinion the Board of United States General Appraisers yesterday held that books bound in leather are to be classified under the present tariff act as "manufactures of leather, or of which leather is the component material of chief value." Under this interpretation of the law, books are called upon to pay the high tax of 40 per cent. ad valorem. In the test case brought before the board the Bowling Green Storage and Van Company appear as the protestants, but the entire American importing book trade is directly affected.

Judge McClelland writes the majority decision, which is coincided in by Judge Chamberlain. Judge Sharretts, in a long opinion, dissents. Recently the Treasury Department issued a circular to the officers of customs to the effect that books should be admitted at 25 per cent. under the terms of Paragraph 416, which provides for "books of all kinds, bound or unbound, wholly or chief value of paper," unless it was shown that the bindings were of such a costly character as to make it reasonably certain that the books had been purchased on account of their bindings. In the present case no such claim was advanced either by the customs officials or the importers.

The majority opinion, while terming the department's circular as "expressing a learned opinion" regarding the Congressional intent in framing the law, holds that it is not controlling. It is accordingly held that as the leather bindings are of greater value than the printed paper contents, the books are properly dutiable at 40 per cent. as in chief value of leather. On the other hand, Judge Sharretts's dissenting opinion takes the view that books, being the highest type of civilization, have always been treated leniently by American tariff framers. Judge Sharretts says in part:

"Dickens would hardly have been flattered had he been told that the principal value of his books was in their covers. Classification dependent upon the respective values of books and their bindings will result in constant litigation involving the almost hopeless task of establishing with any degree of certainty facts upon which to predicate a decision, for who is there wise enough to determine the precise value of the time and labor expended by the author who prepared the matter contained in the printed paper books before it had been bound, a prerequisite in the determination of which is the greater value, the paper book so prepared or the piece of leather covering it." Judge Sharretts holds the importers' contention for duty at 25 per cent. to be sound.

HOPELESS ROBIN CREDITORS.

Referee Can't See Anything for Anybody in Bankers' Realty.

A meeting of creditors of the Bankers' Realty and Security Company, one of the concerns controlled by Joseph G. Robin, was held yesterday at the office of William H. Willis, referee in bankruptcy, at 82 Beaver Street. About fifty creditors were present or represented by attorneys. Many of the creditors were from Albany, Philadelphia, and other cities, and several women were present.

From statements made to the meeting the outlook for creditors getting anything is very dubious. The referee said that this was a company of magnificent figures and very few houses, a hot air case full of technicalities and fraud, and very little money.

"I can't see any estate," he said. "I can't see anything for anybody."

Twenty-seven claims were filed, and the election of a Trustee was postponed as it was doubtful if any one wanted the job. Peter Alexander, the receiver, is in Europe on a pleasure trip, and it was asserted that he did not want the Trusteeship. The receiver has about $100 on hand. The schedules showed liabilities $1,223,511, and nominal assets $1,188,253, mostly uncollectible. One of the items in the assets is a disputed claim for $538,160. Other items are real estate equities, the value of which is doubtful. It was finally arranged to have a committee, consisting of Max Gross and Sumner Ford, appointed to investigate the condition of affairs and report a plan of action. It was suggested that as the Trustee would have no funds to carry on any fight creditors might subscribe.

F. GOULD OFF WABASH BOARD

But Three Other Members of Gould Family Are Elected Directors.

TOLEDO, Ohio, Oct. 10.—Frank Gould was not re-elected a Director of the Wabash Railroad at to-day's meeting of the stock and debenture holders held here. Three other members of the Gould family, however, were chosen.

The Directors elected were George J. Gould, Jay Gould, Howard Gould, Frederick A. Delano, Edward T. Jaffery, Edgar T. Welles, Wells H. Blodgett, Sheldon C. Reynolds, Robert B. Clowry, Thomas H. Hubbard, J. J. Slocum, Edward B. Pryor, and Robert M. Gallaway.

It is understood the present officers of the company will be re-elected at a meeting of the Directors ten days hence in New York City.

At to-day's meeting 69 per cent. of the stock and 96 per cent. of the debenture bonds voted.

Bakhmetieff on His Way Here.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 10.—The newly appointed Russian Ambassador to the United States, George Bakhmetieff, and Mme. Bakhmetieff, left here last night for America. Secretary Wheeler and the staff of the American Embassy were at the railway station to bid them farewell. Ambassador Guild is out of town for a brief vacation.

The Home of Hart, Schaffner & Marx Clothes.

Conservatism

Copyright Hart, Schaffner & Marx.

Dame Fashion is a very fickle lady,—one year she's a Yankee, the next it's "Ho! for Merry England." We follow her lead, and you who want English-cut Clothes will find them here. But, because we know lots of men who prefer conservative, dignified garments to those ultra-fashionable, we have had Hart Schaffner & Marx make us lots of splendid Suits cut on conservative lines. Of these we offer wonderful values at $18, $20, $22.50 and $25. Others range up to $50. Come and look them over.

Suits $18 to $50. Overcoats $15 to $65.

A Special Number for Women

WILL BE ISSUED WITH

NEXT SUNDAY'S TIMES.

It will contain interviews with Worth, Paquin, Paul Poiret, Callot, Drecoll, Francis, Doeuillet, and other famous authorities on woman's dress. The interviews will be by Anne Rittenhouse, The Times's fashion expert, who was sent to Europe especially to ascertain the last word in styles.

There will also be a summary by Miss Rittenhouse herself of the fashion situation in Paris, telling what changes have been made from last season, what new fashions will prevail and what will disappear.

Other articles will deal with the new materials offered to the American people this season; the ready-made clothes and how they compare with the individual costumes; also articles concerning all the small novelties that Paris is showing in the shops in jewelry, house decoration and minor pieces of apparel.

These by no means comprise all the articles which will appear in The Times's

SPECIAL NUMBER FOR WOMEN.

It will be a number that no woman who wishes to be well dressed can afford to miss.
